Products Liability Litigation

MDL No. 2385

Oral Argument Requested

SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION

Defendant Boehringer Ingelheim Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (BIPI) respectfully submits this Supplemental Information in advance of the hearing on this matter on July 26, 2012. This brief is provided to advise the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation (the Panel) as to new developments since BIPI submitted its Response. (Def. Resp., ECF No. 54, 6/21/2012)

I. OVERVIEW OF SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION

BIPI's Supplemental Information addresses three issues. First, BIPI brings to the Panel's attention the newly released data in the MDL Statistics Report, issued July 10, 2012 and attached as Exhibit 1, which undermines Plaintiffs' purported basis for centralizing these cases in the Southern District of Illinois. Second, BIPI provides the Panel information about the status of the Pradaxa litigation since filing its Response. Third, BIPI addresses the Lexecon argument that has been raised by various Plaintiffs in Interested Party Responses.

II. NEWLY RELEASED DATA

In its previously filed Response, BIPI provided the Panel with certain key data from the MDL Statistics Report, dated May 14, 2012. (Resp. at pp. 3, 13-19) BIPI explained that the Plaintiffs' requested forum, the Southern District of Illinois, is not suitable for a number of reasons, including its docket conditions. Specifically, when BIPI's Response was filed, the Southern District of Illinois was home to the then second-largest MDL in the United States, In re Yasmin. (Resp. at 3, 17-19).

Those statistics have become even more compelling. On July 10, 2012, the Panel released its most recent MDL Statistics Report, which demonstrates that the number of pending actions in In re Yasmin has increased since BIPI filed its Response. While the May 2012 report showed 8,715 actions in In re Yasmin, the July 2012 report reveals that the number of pending actions in that MDL has since grown to 8,825. With this increase, In re Yasmin has surpassed a long-standing asbestos MDL in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania (MDL No. 875) and now has the highest number of pending actions in any MDL in the entire United States. Out of 308 active MDL dockets, located in 56 transferee districts, In re Yasmin* has the #1 highest caseload.¹

These data stand in stark contrast to Plaintiffs' suggestions that In re Yasmin is essentially over. Whatever the status of any settlement discussions in those thousands of cases, it cannot be disputed that the Southern District of Illinois is presently responsible for handling the largest MDL in the United States. In comparison to the other federal districts across the country that would be well-suited to take on an MDL, the Southern District of Illinois is not an appropriate transferee district.

III. CURRENT STATUS OF THE PRADAXA LITIGATION

A. New cases continue to be filed across the country.

When BIPI's Response was filed, there were 30 cases pending in 14 different districts. (Resp. at pp. 6-9) Since that time, several new cases have been filed across the country. To date, there are 47 cases pending in 21 different federal district courts. (Sched. of Actions, ECF No. 1-2; Notices of Related Actions, ECF Nos. 14, 19, 27, 34, 40, 46, 79, 85, 88)² Therefore, the Panel has the opportunity to select from any number of appropriate transferee districts—and as BIPI has explained, the District of Connecticut has the most meaningful nexus to the litigation.

¹ The Southern District of Illinois also has the highest judgeship-to-action ratio in the United States. (Resp. at 3, 17-19)

In contrast, the cases filed in the Southern District of Illinois are no more than a purposeful attempt to aggressively file in one district to influence the MDL process. Plaintiffs' tactics become even more pronounced in light of the new filings. When BIPI filed its Response, the Southern District of Illinois cases represented 52% of the then-filed Pradaxa cases. Now, just a few weeks later, the filing of additional Pradaxa actions across the country has dramatically lowered the Southern District of Illinois proportion—it is now reduced to 36% of the currently filed actions.³

B. All Pradaxa cases are in their infancy.

In addition, the Southern District of Illinois litigation is not more advanced than other actions. BIPI has filed Rule 12(b)(6) Motions to Dismiss in 18 different cases—including those filed in the Southern District of Illinois—because the complaints fail to satisfy applicable federal pleading standards and require dismissal under applicable federal and/or state law.⁴ To date, no district court has issued a decision on BIPI's dispositive motions.⁵

³ As noted in BIPI's Response, two of the 12 cases in the Southern District of Illinois were filed by plaintiffs who are not from Illinois. In addition, on July 18, 2012, five more cases were filed in that district—again, with no plaintiffs from Illinois. Notably, if the non-Illinois-plaintiffs cases are not considered, the overall percentage of actions in the Southern District of Illinois drops to 21%.

⁴ In the other cases currently pending, service has not been accomplished or the Court has issued a stay of proceedings.

Notably, both sides—Plaintiffs in some cases, and BIPI in others—have requested stays of the proceedings pending the Panel’s determination on the Motion to Transfer the Pradaxa cases to an MDL. For instance, in the Northern District of Ohio, Plaintiffs moved for a stay, and the request was granted without objection from BIPI.⁶ In the Middle District of Tennessee, BIPI moved to stay with agreement of Plaintiffs’ counsel, and the Court granted the request.⁷ In the Eastern District of Louisiana, a request for stay filed by the Plaintiff is pending, and BIPI does not intend to file any objection.⁸ In contrast, in the Southern District of Illinois—which, again, is the MDL location of choice for most Plaintiffs—BIPI moved to stay the proceedings in light of the Panel’s forthcoming hearing on the Motion to Transfer, but Plaintiffs opposed BIPI’s Motion and the Court denied the stay.⁹

As this procedural background shows, Plaintiffs have taken inconsistent positions with respect to stay of the proceedings. The tactical purpose behind Plaintiffs’ actions is readily apparent, and their strategy is akin to Plaintiffs’ filing of cases in one district, the Southern District of Illinois, timed to correspond with their request for an MDL in that district. As these efforts have shown, even though the Southern District of Illinois cases are not among the first-filed actions in Pradaxa, Plaintiffs are aggressively seeking to advance the proceedings in those cases alone—as is apparent from their refusal to consent to a stay—and argue that those cases are the most advanced. Such actions bear no reasonable relation to the expected distribution of these cases and they should not be countenanced.

⁶ Gennaro v. Boehringer Ingelheim Pharmaceuticals, Inc. et al., No. 1:12-cv-1382 (N.D. Ohio, ECF No. 7) (Marginal Entry Order granting Plaintiffs’ Motion to Stay).

⁷ Scott v. Boehringer Ingelheim Pharmaceuticals, Inc. et al., No. 3:12-cv-480 (M.D. Tenn., ECF No. 18) (Order granting Motion to Stay).

⁸ Hawthorne v. Boehringer Ingelheim Pharmaceuticals, Inc. et al., No. 2:12-cv-1203 (E.D. La., ECF No. 12) (Plaintiff’s Motion to Stay).

⁹ E.g., Boston v. Boehringer Ingelheim Pharmaceuticals, Inc. et al., No. 3:12-cv-610 (S.D. Ill., ECF Nos. 18 (BIPI’s Motion to Stay), 22 (Order denying Motion to Stay)).

IV. PLAINTIFFS' NEW ARGUMENTS

A. The Panel considers proximity to the common defendant to be a pertinent factor in selecting a transferee district.

The only common defendant, BIPI, has its headquarters in Connecticut, yet Plaintiffs contend that “[t]he location of the Defendants’ headquarters is not a significant factor in selecting a transferee district.” (E.g., ECF No. 74, p. 9-10)¹⁰ In so arguing, Plaintiffs disregard Panel decisions that frequently cite the location of the common defendant’s headquarters/principal place of business as a pertinent consideration. The Panel has unquestionably considered the proximity of the defendant—especially a sole, common defendant—to be an important factor in selecting the appropriate transferee district. This recognition is evident in Panel decisions dating as far back as the 1960s to as recently as just three months ago. See, e.g., In re Propecia (Finasteride) Prods. Liab. Litig., MDL No. 2331 (Order, 4/16/2012, ECF No. 37) (“[b]ecause Merck is headquartered in nearby Whitehouse Station, New Jersey, the Eastern District of New York is close to where relevant evidence and witnesses are likely located”); In Re Darvocet, Darvon & Propoxyphene Prods. Liab. Litig., MDL No. 2226, 780 F. Supp.2d 1379, 1382 (J.P.M.L. 2011) (“[r]elevant documents and witnesses likely are located within the Eastern District of Kentucky at defendant Xanodyne's Newport headquarters.”); In re Fosamax (Alendronate Sodium) Prods. Liab. Litig. (No. II), 787 F. Supp.2d 1355, 1356 (J.P.M.L. 2011) (selecting the District of New Jersey where “[t]he headquarters, witnesses and documents of the common defendant, Merck, are located within the District of New Jersey”); In re: Optimal Strategic U.S. Equity Fund Sec. Litig., MDL No. 2073, 648 F.Supp.2d 1388, 1389 (J.P.M.L. 2009) (“[w]e are persuaded that the Southern District of Florida is an appropriate transferee district. Common defendant Banco Santander International is headquartered in that district and two actions are already pending there, including the first-filed action.”); In Re Avandia Marketing, Sales Practices & Prods. Liab. Litig., 528 F. Supp. 2d 1339, 1341 (J.P.M.L. 2007) (“[w]e are also persuaded that the Eastern District of Pennsylvania is an appropriate transferee district for pretrial proceedings in this litigation. GSK’s principal place of business is located in that district, and thus many witnesses and documents relevant to the litigation are likely to be found there.”); In re Cessna 208 Series Aircraft Prods. Liab. Litig., 408 F.Supp.2d 1349, 1350 (J.P.M.L. 2005) (“[w]e conclude that the District of Kansas is an appropriate forum in this docket for the following reasons: i) the district is likely to be the location of significant discovery because sole common defendant Cessna is headquartered there”); In re Sundstrand Data Control, Inc. Patent Litig., 443 F. Supp. 1019, 1021 (J.P.M.L. 1978) (“The Western District of Washington . . . has a substantial connection to the common factual questions raised in the litigation. SDC’s principal place of business is located in that district, and it is undisputed that many of the ground proximity warning system’s chief inventors reside there. . . . [W]e are persuaded that most of the relevant documents and witnesses on the central issue of the validity of SDC’s patents are located in the vicinity of that district.”); In re Protection Devices & Equipment & Central Station Protection Serv., 295 F. Supp. 39, 40 (J.P.M.L. 1968) (transferring cases to the Southern District of New York and stating that “[i]t appears that most of the relevant documents are in New York and most of the defendants have their principal offices there.”). Consistent with these cases—and scores of other decisions by the Panel selecting a transferee district that has a nexus to the litigation, such as the defendant's headquarters—the District of Connecticut stands out as a particularly well-suited choice here.

B. Plaintiffs' new arguments about Lexecon are unavailing.

Two of the Plaintiffs' Interested Party Responses, both filed the same day, assert that “centralization in the District of Connecticut would create ‘potential issues’ under Lexecon Inc. v. Millberg Weiss.” (ECF No. 70, 74) Plaintiffs seem to argue that a lack of diversity of citizenship between Connecticut plaintiffs and BIPI would prevent a transferee court located in the District of Connecticut from presiding “over any MDL trials involving Connecticut plaintiffs and as such might be unable to preside over any trials.” (E.g., ECF No. 70 at p. 13) Most significantly, Plaintiffs do not cite any Panel decision where a hypothetical Lexecon argument was cited, let alone relied on, in selecting a proper transferee district. There is no authority for Plaintiffs' position.¹¹

First, acceptance of Plaintiffs' argument would effectively write a new limiting provision into 28 U.S.C. § 1407. The statute provides that “[w]hen civil actions involving one or more common questions of fact are pending in different districts, such actions may be transferred to any district for coordinated or consolidated pretrial proceedings.” 28 U.S.C. § 1407(a) (emphasis added). Taken to its logical conclusion, Plaintiffs' argument would substantially curtail the Panel's statutory authority to centralize cases in "any district" as Section 1407 explicitly permits, by prohibiting centralization in any transferee district that is home to any defendant corporation's principal place of business or state(s) of incorporation. Congress has not included such a limitation on this Panel's authority. Cf. Lexecon, 523 U.S. at 40 (explaining that the proper forum to resolve issues about Section 1407 "remains the floor of Congress").

Second, Plaintiffs' argument ignores the scores of cases—including pharmaceutical product liability actions—where the Panel has selected a transferee district located in the same state as the common defendants' headquarters. For instance, the Fosamax litigation is in New Jersey, home to Merck; the Darvocet litigation is in Kentucky, home to Xanodyne; the Avandia litigation is in Pennsylvania, home to GlaxoSmithKline. See Section IV(A), supra. Not only is Plaintiffs' contention contrary to the terms of Section 1407—it would result in the Panel abandoning one of its core criteria related to convenience of the parties and witnesses and proximity to documents, often located at or near the defendant's headquarters. See id.

Third, Plaintiffs' argument asks this Panel to look into the future, possibly years down the road, and forecast what the parties and the transferee court may ultimately decide about bellwether trials. This argument goes far beyond the Panel's determination, under 28 U.S.C. § 1407(a), to decide whether centralization is appropriate and, if so, what transferee district should be chosen. See Lexecon, 523 U.S. at 40 (explaining that Section 1407 "affects only the pretrial stages in multidistrict litigation;" the statute does not affect the place of trial in any case or exclude the possibility of transfer under other statutes). Finally, the argument ignores common practice, being employed with increasing frequency, of trying bellwether cases in various locations. Plaintiffs' speculative contention lacks authority, misapplies the distinct issues of diversity jurisdiction and venue, and has no bearing on the instant issue—i.e., the proper transferee district for purposes of centralization of pretrial proceedings under Section 1407.

V. CONCLUSION

Given the foregoing, pertinent factors weigh in favor of the District of Connecticut and soundly against the Southern District of Illinois. BIPI respectfully requests that the Panel transfer all Pradaxa actions to the United States District Court for the District of Connecticut or, in the alternative, the Eastern District of Tennessee or the Eastern District of Kentucky. BIPI prays for all other relief to which it is entitled.

Respectfully submitted this the 20th day of July, 2012.
