4853. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

4854. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

4861. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

4862. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

4864. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 269
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against BI)

4865. New York Class Representatives Benny Fazio, Francis Neary, Glorimar Rodriguez, Mary McCullen, Migdalia Kinney, Richard Froehlich, Roy Armstrong, Dan Zhovtis, and Joseph McPheter incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

4866. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

4867. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

4868. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

4869. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

4871. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

4872. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

4879. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

4880. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

4883. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against BI)

4884. New York Class Representatives Benny Fazio, Francis Neary, Glorimar Rodriguez, Mary McCullen, Migdalia Kinney, Richard Froehlich, Roy Armstrong, Dan Zhovtis, and Joseph

McPheter incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

4885. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

4890. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

4891. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

4892. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class has had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to Defendant or its agents(including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

4893. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 271
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against BI)

4896. New York Class Representatives Benny Fazio, Francis Neary, Glorimar Rodriguez, Mary McCullen, Migdalia Kinney, Richard Froehlich, Roy Armstrong, Dan Zhovtis, and Joseph McPheter incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

4897. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

4898. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

4900. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

4901. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

4903. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

29. Causes of Action on Behalf of the North Carolina-BI Classes

COUNT 272
Violation of the North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1, et seq.)
(Against BI)

4904. North Carolina Class Representatives Dennis Robbins, Patricia Frazier, Teresa Lee, and Sharon Parks incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

4905. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

4906. Defendant was and is engaged in "commerce" within the meaning of N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(b).

4907. The North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("North Carolina UDTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in or affecting commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce," N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(a), and provides a private right of action for any person injured "by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of" the law. N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-16.

4908. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the North Carolina UDTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

4910. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the North Carolina UDTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiff and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

4917. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

4918. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

4919. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

4920. As a result of Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the North Carolina UDTPA.

4955. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

4960. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

31. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Oklahoma-BI Classes

COUNT 277
Violation of the Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act
(Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §751, et seq.)
(Against BI)

4961. Oklahoma Class Representatives Billy Naab and Demarco Grayson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

4962. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

4963. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(1).

4964. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(2).

4965. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(7).

4966. The Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act ("Oklahoma CPA") prohibits numerous unlawful acts, including misleading representations, false advertisements, and false statements. Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753. The Oklahoma CPA defines "[d]eceptive trade practice" as "a misrepresentation, omission or other practice that has deceived or . . . mislead a person to the detriment of that person." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(13). The Oklahoma CPA defines "[u]nfair trade practice" as "any practice which offends established public policy or if the practice is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(14).

4967. The Oklahoma CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]ak[ing] a false representation, knowingly or with reason to know, as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, or quantities of the subject of a consumer transaction" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, style or model, if it is of another" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, the subject of a consumer transaction with intent not to sell it as advertised" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(8)); and

(d) "[c]ommit[ing] an unfair or deceptive trade practice as defined in Section 752" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(20)).

4969. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oklahoma CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

4970. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oklahoma CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

4971. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Oklahoma CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

4977. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Oklahoma CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

4978. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

4980. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oklahoma CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oklahoma CPA.

COUNT 278
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Okla. Stat. tit. 12A §2-314)
(Against BI)

4981. Oklahoma Class Representatives Billy Naab and Demarco Grayson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

4982. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

4987. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

4988. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

4990. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

4991. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 279
Unjust Enrichment
(Oklahoma Law)
(Against BI)

4993. Oklahoma Class Representatives Billy Naab and Demarco Grayson incorporate the the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

4994. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

Plaintiff and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

4997. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and was knowingly enriched by its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

4998. It is unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5000. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

32. Causes of Action on Behalf of Oregon-BI Classes

COUNT 280
Violation of the Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act
(Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605, et seq.)
(Against BI)

5001. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5002. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5004. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(6).

5005. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(8).

5007. The Oregon UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, quantities or qualities that the real estate, goods or services do not have" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(e));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that real estate or goods are of a particular style or model, if the real estate, goods or services are of another" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] real estate, goods or services with intent not to provide the real estate, goods or services as advertised" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(i)); and

(d) "[e]ngag[ing] in any other unfair or deceptive conduct in trade or commerce" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(u)).

5010. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oregon UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Oregon UTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

5014. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates; and (iii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products when ingesting all doses contained within particular packaging.

5016. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiff and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5017. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5018. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5020. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oregon UTPA.

COUNT 281
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Or. Rev. Stat. §72.3140)
(Against BI)

5021. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5022. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5027. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5028. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5030. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5031. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 282
Unjust Enrichment
(Oregon Law)
(Against BI)

5033. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5034. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5035. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5037. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5038. It is unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5040. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

5041. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

33. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Pennsylvania-BI Classes

Violation of the Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(73 Pa. C.S. §201-1, et seq.)
(Against BI)

5042. Pennsylvania Class Representative Nicholas Hazlett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5043. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5044. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(2).

5045. Plaintiff and the Class members purchased the Ranitidine-Containing Products "primarily for personal, family or household purposes" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-9.2(a).

5046. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(3).

5047. The Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Pennsylvania CPL") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 73 Pa. C.S. §201-3.

5048. The Pennsylvania CPL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(v));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(vii));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(ix)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(xxi)).

5050. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Pennsylvania CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5051. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Pennsylvania CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

5057. Plaintiff and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

5058. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5059. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5061. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Pennsylvania CPL.

COUNT 284
Breach of Implied Warranty
(13 Pa. Cons. Stat. §2314)
(Against BI)

5062. Pennsylvania Class Representative Nicholas Hazlett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5063. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5068. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5071. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 285
Unjust Enrichment
(Pennsylvania Law)
(Against BI)

5074. Pennsylvania Class Representative Nicholas Hazlett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5075. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5076. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5078. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5081. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

5082. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

34. Causes of Action on Behalf of Puerto Rico-BI Classes

COUNT 286
Breach of Implied Warranty
(P.R. Laws Ann. tit. 31, §3841)
(Against BI)

5083. Puerto Rico Class Representatives Gloria Colon and Sonia Diaz incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5084. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5089. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5092. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5093. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

5094. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

COUNT 287
Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)
(Against BI)

5095. Puerto Rico Class Representatives Gloria Colon and Sonia Diaz incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5096. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5097. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

5100. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

5101. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5103. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

Violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act
(S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10, et seq.)
(Against BI)

5104. South Carolina Class Representatives Michael Futrell and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5105. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5106. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(a).

5107. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(b).

5108. The South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act ("South Carolina UTPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-20(a).

5110. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5111. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about: (i) the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products; (ii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates; and (iii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products when ingesting all doses contained within particular packaging.

5116. 5117. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5118. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5120. As a result of Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the South Carolina UTPA.

(South Carolina Law)
(Against BI)

5133. South Carolina Class Representatives Michael Futrell and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5134. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5135. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5137. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly realized a benefit from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

36. Causes of Action on Behalf of Tennessee-BI Classes

Violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-101, et seq.)
(Against BI)

5141. Tennessee Class Representatives Dale Hunter, Eva Broughton, and Kenneth Hix incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5142. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5143. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

5144. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

5145. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

5146. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

5147. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

5148. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

5150. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5151. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

5155. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

5158. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5161. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Tennessee CPA.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-2-314)
(Against BI)

5162. Tennessee Class Representatives Dale Hunter, Eva Broughton, and Kenneth Hix incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5163. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5168. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5169. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5170. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

5171. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 293
Unjust Enrichment
(Tennessee Law)
(Against BI)

5174. Tennessee Class Representatives Dale Hunter, Eva Broughton, and Kenneth Hix incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5175. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5176. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

5178. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5181. There is no existing, enforceable contract governing this dispute.

5182. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

37. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-BI Classes

Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against BI)

5183. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva, Ronda Lockett, Sylvia Yoshida, Agapito It Aleman, Gina Martinez, Liliana Del Valle, and Maria Eames incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5184. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texa-BI s Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5185. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(3).

5186. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

5187. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

5188. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

5189. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

5190. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

5191. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5192. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5193. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

5197. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates; and (iii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products when ingesting all doses contained within particular packaging.

5200. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

5201. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5202. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5203. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

5204. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiff and the Class members are entitled.

5205. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 295
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against BI)

5206. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva, Ronda Lockett, Sylvia Yoshida, Agapito It Aleman, Gina Martinez, Liliana Del Valle, and Maria Eames incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5207. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5209. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5212. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5213. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5214. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

5215. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 296
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against BI)

5218. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva, Ronda Lockett, Sylvia Yoshida, Agapito It Aleman, Gina Martinez, Liliana Del Valle, and Maria Eames incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5219. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5220. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5223. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5225. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

38. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Utah-BI Classes

COUNT 297
Violation of the Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act
(Utah. Code Ann. §13-11-1, et seq.)
(Against BI)

5226. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5227. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5228. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(6).

5229. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(5).

5230. Defendant was and is engaged in "consumer transactions" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(2)(a).

5231. The Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act ("Utah CSPA") prohibits any "deceptive act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(1). "An unconscionable act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction" also violates the Utah CSPA. Utah Code Ann. §13-11-5(1).

5232. The Utah CSPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction has sponsorship, approval, performance characteristics, accessories, uses, or benefits, if it has not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(a)); and

(b) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if it is not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(b)).

5235. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah CSPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; and

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not.

5237. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

5239. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5242. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5243. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5245. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah CSPA.

Violation of the Utah Truth in Advertising Law
(Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-1, et seq.)
(Against BI)

5246. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5247. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5248. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(17).

5249. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(7).

5250. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(4).

5251. The Utah Truth in Advertising Law ("Utah TAL") prohibits any deceptive practice undertaken "in the course of a person's business." Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1).

5252. The Utah TAL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(e));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(g));

(c) "advertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(i)); and

(d) "engag[ing] in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(t)).

5254. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah TAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5255. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah TAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products were both safe and effective for the lifetime of the product, when in fact, they were not;

(b) representing that consumption of Ranitidine-Containing Products had characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have;

(c) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, or grade when they are not;

(d) advertising Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(e) engaging in any other conduct that creates a likelihood of confusion.

5259. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

5262. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5263. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5264. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

5265. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiff seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiff and the Class members are entitled.

5266. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah TAL.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Utah Code Ann. §70A-2-314)
(Against BI)

5267. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5268. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5273. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5275. Plaintiff and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

5276. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 300
Unjust Enrichment
(Utah Law)
(Against BI)

5279. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5280. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5281. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5283. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5286. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

39. Causes of Action on Behalf of Vermont-BI Classes

COUNT 301
Violation of the Vermont Consumer Fraud Act
(Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451, et seq.)
(Against BI)

5287. Vermont Class Representative Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5288. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5289. Defendant is a "[s]eller" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(c).

5290. Plaintiff and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(a).

5291. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(b).

5292. The Vermont consumer fraud act ("Vermont CFA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in commerce and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce." Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2453(a).

5293. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Vermont CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5294. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Vermont CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5295. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Vermont CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5299. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiff and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5302. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5303. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5304. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

5305. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Vermont CFA.

COUNT 302
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9A §2-314)
(Against BI)

5306. Vermont Class Representative Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5307. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5312. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5314. Plaintiff and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

5315. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

40. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Virginia-BI Classes

COUNT 303
Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)
(Against BI)

5318. Virginia Class Representatives Dan Zhovtis and Cheryl Banks incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5319. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5320. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

5321. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

5322. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

5323. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

5324. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

5325. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

5328. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Virginia CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates; and (iii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products when ingesting all doses contained within particular packaging.

5335. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

5336. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5337. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5340. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Virginia CPA.

COUNT 304

Unjust Enrichment
(Virginia Law)
(Against BI)

5353. Virginia Class Representatives Dan Zhovtis and Cheryl Banks incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5354. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Brand Manufacturer Defendant GSK (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5355. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against BI)

5362. Washington Class Representatives Jonathan Ferguson, Robert Dewitt, Dave Garber, Billy Naab, and Earlene Green incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5363. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5365. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

5366. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

5367. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5369. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5370. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5371. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Washington CPA.

5377. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5380. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

5381. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

COUNT 307
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Wash. Rev. Code §62A.2-314)
(Against BI)

5382. Washington Class Representatives Jonathan Ferguson, Robert Dewitt, Dave Garber, Billy Naab, and Earlene Green incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5383. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5388. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5391. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 308
Unjust Enrichment
(Washington Law)
(Against BI)

5394. Washington Class Representatives Jonathan Ferguson, Robert Dewitt, Dave Garber, Billy Naab, and Earlene Green incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5395. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5396. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5401. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

5402. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

Violation of the Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18, et seq.)
(Against BI)

5423. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 2-8, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5424. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-BI Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against BI (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5425. Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

5426. Plaintiff and the Class members are members of "the public" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

5427. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

5428. The Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Wisconsin DTPA") prohibits any "assertion, representation or statement of fact which is untrue, deceptive or misleading." Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

5429. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Wisconsin DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5431. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Wisconsin DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5435. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

5484. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Sanofi, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 16-22 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 279-303 (development of brand Zantac); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 868-894 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 895-911 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

5485. Plaintiff identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Sanofi on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. 1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Sanofi Classes

Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5486. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5487. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5488. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(6).

5489. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

5490. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

5491. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5492. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5493. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5497. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

5500. Plaintiff and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

5501. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5502. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5503. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

5504. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 317
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)

5505. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5506. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5507. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5509. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and was knowingly enriched by its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5510. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5512. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Sanofi Classes

Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5513. Arkansas Class Representatives Andy Green Jr. and Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5514. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5515. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

5516. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

5517. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

5518. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

5519. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

5520. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5521. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5522. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

5526. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about: (i) the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products; (ii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates; and (iii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products when ingesting all doses contained within particular packaging.

5530. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5533. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 319
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Sanofi)

5534. Arkansas Class Representative Andy Green Jr. and Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5535. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5540. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5542. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

5543. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5544. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 320
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)

5546. Arkansas Class Representative Andy Green Jr. and Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5547. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5548. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

5550. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5551. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5553. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

5554. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 321
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5555. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar, Richard O'Brien, and Virginia Aragon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5556. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5557. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

5558. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

5559. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5561. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

5568. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies

Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

5569. Defendant's conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

5570. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

5571. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5574. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 322
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5575. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar, Richard O'Brien, and Virginia Aragon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5576. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5577. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

5578. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

5579. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5581. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

5585. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates; and (iii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products when ingesting all doses contained within particular packaging.

5588. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5589. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5591. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 323
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)

5592. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar, Richard O'Brien, and Virginia Aragon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5593. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5594. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

5595. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

5596. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

5597. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

5598. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

5599. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5601. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

5608. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

5609. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiff and the Class members are entitled.

5612. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

COUNT 324
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)

5613. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar, Richard O'Brien, and Virginia Aragon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5614. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5619. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)

5625. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar, Richard O'Brien, and Virginia Aragon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5626. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5627. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5632. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Colorado-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 326
Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5633. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5634. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5635. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

5636. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

5637. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

5638. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer. Such conduct was bad faith conduct under the Colorado CPA.

5639. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5640. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

5648. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5651. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Colorado CPA.

COUNT 327
Unjust Enrichment
(Colorado Law)
(Against Sanofi)

5652. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5653. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5654. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and Class members suffered a detriment because they purchased worthless medications and did not receive the expected benefit therefrom.

5656. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5657. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without commensurate compensation because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5659. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Connecticut-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 328
Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5660. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Cordero incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5661. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5662. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

5663. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

5664. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

5665. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5666. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5667. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

5674. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5675. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5677. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

COUNT 329
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42a-2-314)
(Against Sanofi)

5678. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Cordero incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5679. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5681. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5684. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5685. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5687. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5688. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 330
Unjust Enrichment
(Connecticut Law)
(Against Sanofi)

5690. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Cordero incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5691. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5692. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Plaintiff and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

5694. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5695. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5697. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Florida-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 331
Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5698. Florida Class Representatives Gustavo Velasquez, Joshua Winans, Ricardo Moròn, Jeannie Black, Michael Tomlinson, Roy Armstrong, Sonia Diaz, and Sharon Tweg incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5699. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5700. The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

5701. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

5702. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

5703. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

5704. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5705. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5706. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5713. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5714. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5716. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

COUNT 332
Unjust Enrichment
(Florida Law)
(Against Sanofi)

5717. Florida Class Representatives Gustavo Velasquez, Joshua Winans, Ricardo Moròn, Jeannie Black, Michael Tomlinson, Roy Armstrong, Sonia Diaz, and Sharon Tweg incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5718. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5719. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5720. In exchange for their payment of the purchase price of Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, Plaintiffs and Class members received the Ranitidine-Containing Products, which Defendant did not disclose contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and,

thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and Class members suffered an impoverishment because they purchased worthless medications and did not receive the expected benefit therefrom.

5722. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5724. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

5725. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Indiana-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 333
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ind. Code Ann. §26-1-2-314)
(Against Sanofi)

5726. Indiana Class Representatives Alyson Humphrey, Rebecca Sizemore, and Tracy Wells incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5727. This cause of action is brought on behalf of Indiana-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5732. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

COUNT 334
Unjust Enrichment
(Indiana Law)

5738. Indiana Class Representatives Alyson Humphrey, Rebecca Sizemore, and Tracy Wells incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5739. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5743. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5745. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 335
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5746. Georgia Class Representatives Kathy Jeffries and Tyrone Houston incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5747. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5748. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

5749. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

5750. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

5751. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

5752. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

5753. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5754. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5755. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

5759. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

5762. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

5763. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5767. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT 336
Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)

5768. Georgia Class Representatives Kathy Jeffries and Tyrone Houston incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5769. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5770. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5772. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5773. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5775. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

5776. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 337
Violation of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act
(815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5777. Illinois Class Representatives Denise Guy, Heather Re, and Renee Chatman incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5778. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5780. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

5781. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

5782. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

5783. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

5784. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5785. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5786. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5793. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5796. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

COUNT 338
Unjust Enrichment
(Illinois Law)

5797. Illinois Class Representatives Denise Guy, Heather Re, and Renee Chatman incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5798. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5799. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

5802. It violates the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5804. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

10. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Iowa-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 339
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)

5805. Iowa Class Representative Charles Longfield incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5806. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5807. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

5808. Plaintiff and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

5809. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

5810. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5811. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5812. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5818. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Iowa PRACFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5819. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5822. Additionally, because Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, were undertaken in willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others, pursuant to Iowa Code Ann. §714H.5(4), Plaintiff and the Class members seek an additonal award of treble damages.

COUNT 340
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Iowa Code §554.2314)

5823. Iowa Class Representative Charles Longfield incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5824. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5829. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5830. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5831. Plaintiff and each member of the Class has had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

5832. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 341
Unjust Enrichment
(Iowa Law)

5835. Iowa Class Representative Charles Longfield incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5836. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5837. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5839. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5840. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5842. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Louisiana-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 342
Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5843. Louisiana Class Representatives Jamie McKay, and Randy Jones incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5844. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5845. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

5846. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

5847. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

5848. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

5849. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5851. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive business practices prohibited by the Louisiana CPL.

5855. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5858. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

5859. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5860. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5862. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

(La. Civ. Code Ann. Art. §2520)

5863. Louisiana Class Representatives Jamie McKay and Randy Jones incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5864. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5869. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5870. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5872. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5873. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 344
Unjust Enrichment
(Louisiana Law)

5875. Louisiana Class Representatives Jamie McKay and Randy Jones incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5876. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5879. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and Class members and was knowingly enriched by its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5880. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs for the Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiffs of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

5881. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5883. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Maryland-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 345
Violation of the Maryland Consumer Protection Act
(Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5884. Maryland Class Representatives Alberta Griffin and Ida Adams incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5885. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5886. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(h).

5887. Plaintiff and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(c)(1).

5888. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(f).

5889. The Maryland Consumer Protection Act ("Maryland CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, abusive, or deceptive trade practices." Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301.

5890. The Maryland CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[f]alse, falsely disparaging, or misleading oral or written statement, visual description, or other representation of any kind which has the capacity, tendency, or effect of deceiving or misleading consumers" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(1));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services have a sponsorship, approval, accessory, characteristic, ingredient, use, benefit, or quantity which they do not have" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(i));

(c) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model which they are not" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(iv));

(d) "[f]ailure to state a material fact if the failure deceives or tends to deceive" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(3));

(e) "[a]dvertis[ing] or offer[ing] of consumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services . . . [w]ithout intent to sell, lease, or rent them as advertised or offered" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(5)(i)); and

(f) "[d]eception, fraud, false pretense, false premise, misrepresentation, or knowing concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with the intent that a consumer rely on the same in connection with . . . [t]he promotion or sale of any consumer goods" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(9)(i)).

5891. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Maryland CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5892. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Maryland CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5893. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Maryland CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are defective and inherently dangerous in the course of the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiff and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5900. Plaintiff and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

5901. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5902. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5904. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Maryland CPA.

COUNT 346
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Md. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Sanofi)

5905. Maryland Class Representatives Alberta Griffin and Ida Adams incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5906. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5911. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

5913. Plaintiff and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

5914. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5915. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 347
Unjust Enrichment
(Maryland Law)

5917. Maryland Class Representatives Alberta Griffin and Ida Adams incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5918. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5919. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5921. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5922. It would be unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

5924. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

13. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 348
Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5925. Massachusetts Class Representatives Michelle Smith and Jennifer Bond incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5926. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5927. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

5928. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

5929. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

5930. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5932. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive business practices prohibited by the Massachusetts Act.

5938. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

5939. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5942. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

5967. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(g).

5968. The Michigan Consumer Protection Act ("Michigan CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts, or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1).

5969. The Michigan CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(c));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(e)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising or representing goods or services with intent not to dispose of those goods or services as advertised or represented" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(g)).

5970. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5971. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5972. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

5974. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

5976. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

5979. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

5982. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Michigan CPA.

COUNT 352
Unjust Enrichment
(Michigan Law)
(Against Sanofi)

5983. Michigan Class Representatives Arthur Gamble, Jerry Hunt, Jody Beal, and Roy Armstrong incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5984. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5985. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

5986. In exchange for their payment of the purchase price of Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, Plaintiffs and Class members received the Ranitidine-Containing Products, which Defendant did not disclose contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

5990. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

5991. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

15. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 353
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

5992. Minnesota Class Representatives Donald Northrup and Brad Hoag incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

5993. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

5994. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

5995. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

5996. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

5997. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

5998. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

5999. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6003. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

6007. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6009. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

6010. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 354
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)
(Against Sanofi)

6011. Minnesota Class Representatives Donald Northrup and Brad Hoag incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6012. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6017. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6020. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 355
Unjust Enrichment

6023. Minnesota Class Representatives Donald Northrup and Brad Hoag incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6024. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6025. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6027. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6030. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 356
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Miss. Code Ann. §75-2-314)

6031. Mississippi Class Representative John Rachal incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6032. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6037. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6039. Plaintiff and each member of the Class has had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

6043. Mississippi Class Representative John Rachal incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6044. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6045. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6047. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and was knowingly enriched by its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and thus resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6048. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

Violation of the Missouri Merchandising Practices Act
(Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

6052. Missouri Class Representative Lorie Kendall-Singer incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6053. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6054. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(5).

6055. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(7).

6056. The Missouri Merchandising Practices Act ("Missouri MPA") prohibits "act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, unfair practice or the concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise in trade or commerce." Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.020(1).

6057. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Missouri MPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6058. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Missouri MPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6059. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Missouri MPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Missouri MPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6067. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6069. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Missouri MPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Missouri MPA.

6071. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6076. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6077. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6079. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6080. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 360
Unjust Enrichment
(Missouri Law)

6082. Missouri Class Representative Lorie Kendall-Singer incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6083. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6084. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

which Defendant did not disclose contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiff and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

6086. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6087. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

6089. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

6090. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 361
Violation of the Nebraska Consumer Protection Act
(Neb. Rev. Stat. Ann. §59-1601, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

6091. Nebraska Class Representative Gaylord Stauffer incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6092. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Nebraska-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6093. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Neb. Rev. Stat. Ann. §59-1601(1).

6094. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Neb. Rev. Stat. Ann. §59-1601(3).

6095. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Neb. Rev. Stat. Ann. §59-1601(2).

6096. The Nebraska Consumer Protection Act ("Nebraska CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Neb. Rev. Stat. Ann. §59-1602.

6099. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Nebraska CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6100. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Nebraska CPA.

6106. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Nebraska CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6107. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6109. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Nebraska CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Nebraska CPA.

COUNT 364
Violation of the New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

6131. New Hampshire Class Representative Rafael Bermudez incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6132. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6133. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(I).

6134. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(II).

6135. The New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act ("New Hampshire CPA") prohibits "any unfair method of competition or any unfair or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of any trade or commerce." N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2.

6136. The New Hampshire CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(V));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(VII)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(IX)).

6138. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Hampshire CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6139. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Hampshire CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

6143. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6146. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of New Hampshire CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6147. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6149. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Hampshire CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Hampshire CPA.

Violation of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

6171. New Jersey Class Representatives James Adamo, Mary McMillan, and Mary Moronski incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6172. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6173. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(d).

6174. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

6175. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act ("New Jersey CFA") by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer. N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.

6176. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Jersey CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6177. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Jersey CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6183. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6186. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

COUNT 368
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §12A:2-314)
(Against Sanofi)

6187. New Jersey Class Representatives James Adamo, Mary McMillan, and Mary Moronski incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6188. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6193. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6195. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class has had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

6196. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 369
Unjust Enrichment
(New Jersey Law)

6199. New Jersey Class Representatives James Adamo, Mary McMillan, and Mary Moronski incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6200. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6201. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

6206. Plaintiff sand Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

21. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 370
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

6207. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6208. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6209. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

6210. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

6211. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

6212. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

6215. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

6220. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about: (i) the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products; (ii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates; and (iii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products when ingesting all doses contained within particular packaging.

6222. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6225. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 371
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314)
(Against Sanofi)

6226. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6227. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against [Brand Manufacturer Defendant] (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6232. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6235. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 372
Unjust Enrichment
(New Mexico Law)

6238. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6239. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Brand Manufacturer Defendant Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6240. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6245. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

6246. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

22. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 373
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Sanofi)

6247. New York Class Representatives Benny Fazio, Francis Neary, Glorimar Rodriguez, Mary McCullen, Migdalia Kinney, Richard Froehlich, Silomie Clarke, and Yesenia Melillo incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6248. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6249. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

6250. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

6252. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6253. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-

Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates; and (iii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products when ingesting all doses contained within particular packaging.

6263. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 374
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Sanofi)

6264. New York Class Representatives Benny Fazio, Francis Neary, Glorimar Rodriguez, Mary McCullen, Migdalia Kinney, Richard Froehlich, Silomie Clarke, and Yesenia Melillo incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6265. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6266. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

6267. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

6268. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6270. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6271. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6278. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6279. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6282. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 375
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Sanofi)

Melillo incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6284. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6289. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6291. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class has had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

6292. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 376
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Sanofi)

6295. New York Class Representatives Benny Fazio, Francis Neary, Glorimar Rodriguez, Mary McCullen, Migdalia Kinney, Richard Froehlich, Silomie Clarke, and Yesenia Melillo incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6296. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6297. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6299. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6300. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

6302. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

23. Causes of Action on Behalf of the North Carolina-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 377
Violation of the North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

6303. North Carolina Class Representatives Dennis Robbins and Sharon Parks incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6304. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6305. Defendant was and is engaged in "commerce" within the meaning of N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(b).

6306. The North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("North Carolina UDTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in or affecting commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce," N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(a), and provides a private right of action for any person injured "by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of" the law. N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-16.

6307. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the North Carolina UDTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6309. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the North Carolina UDTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiff and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6316. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6317. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6318. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

6319. As a result of Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the North Carolina UDTPA.

COUNT 378
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §25-2-314)
(Against Sanofi)

6320. North Carolina Class Representatives Dennis Robbins and Sharon Parks incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6321. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6323. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6326. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6329. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6330. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

6332. North Carolina Class Representatives Dennis Robbins and Sharon Parks incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6333. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6334. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6335. In exchange for their payment of the purchase price of Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, Plaintiff and Class members received the Ranitidine-Containing Products, which Defendant did not disclose contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. 25. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Oklahoma-Sanofi Classes

Violation of the Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act
(Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §751, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

6360. Oklahoma Class Representatives Billy Naab and Demarco Grayson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6361. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6362. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(1).

6363. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(2).

6364. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(7).

6365. The Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act ("Oklahoma CPA") prohibits numerous unlawful acts, including misleading representations, false advertisements, and false statements. Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753. The Oklahoma CPA defines "[d]eceptive trade practice" as "a misrepresentation, omission or other practice that has deceived or . . . mislead a person to the detriment of that person." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(13). The Oklahoma CPA defines "[u]nfair trade practice" as "any practice which offends established public policy or if the practice is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(14).

6366. The Oklahoma CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]ak[ing] a false representation, knowingly or with reason to know, as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, or quantities of the subject of a consumer transaction" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, style or model, if it is of another" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, the subject of a consumer transaction with intent not to sell it as advertised" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(8)); and

(d) "[c]ommit[ing] an unfair or deceptive trade practice as defined in Section 752" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(20)).

6368. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oklahoma CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6369. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oklahoma CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

6376. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Oklahoma CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6377. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6378. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

6379. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oklahoma CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oklahoma CPA.

6380. Oklahoma Class Representatives Billy Naab and Demarco Grayson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6381. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6386. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6389. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6390. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 384
Unjust Enrichment
(Oklahoma Law)

6392. Oklahoma Class Representatives Billy Naab and Demarco Grayson incorporate the the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6393. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6394. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Plaintiff and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

6396. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and was knowingly enriched by its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6397. It is unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

6399. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

26. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Pennsylvania-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 385
Violation of the Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law (73 Pa. C.S. §201-1, et seq.)

6400. Pennsylvania Class Representative Nicholas Hazlett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6401. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6402. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(2).

6403. Plaintiff and the Class members purchased the Ranitidine-Containing Products "primarily for personal, family or household purposes" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-9.2(a).

6404. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(3).

6405. The Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Pennsylvania CPL") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 73 Pa. C.S. §201-3.

6406. The Pennsylvania CPL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(v));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(vii));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(ix)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(xxi)).

6407. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Pennsylvania CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6408. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Pennsylvania CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6409. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Pennsylvania CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Pennsylvania CPL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6415. Plaintiff and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

6416. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6417. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6419. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Pennsylvania CPL.

COUNT 386
Breach of Implied Warranty
(13 Pa. Cons. Stat. §2314)

6420. Pennsylvania Class Representative Nicholas Hazlett incorporatesthe preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6421. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6426. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6428. Plaintiff and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

6429. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6430. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 387
Unjust Enrichment
(Pennsylvania Law)

6432. Pennsylvania Class Representative Nicholas Hazlett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6433. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6434. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6436. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6439. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

6440. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

27. Causes of Action on Behalf of Puerto Rico-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 388
Breach of Implied Warranty
(P.R. Laws Ann. tit. 31, §3841)

6441. Puerto Rico Class Representative Gloria Colon incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6442. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6447. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6450. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 389
Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)

6453. Puerto Rico Class Representative Gloria Colon incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6454. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6455. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

which Defendant did not disclose contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiff and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

6457. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and was knowingly enriched by its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6461. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 390
Violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act
(S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10, et seq.)

6462. South Carolina Class Representative Michael Futrell incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6463. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6464. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(a).

6465. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(b).

6466. The South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act ("South Carolina UTPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-20(a).

6467. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6468. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6469. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6475. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6476. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6478. As a result of Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the South Carolina UTPA.

COUNT 391
Breach of Implied Warranty
(S.C. Code Ann. §36-2-314)

6479. South Carolina Class Representative Michael Futrell incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6480. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6481. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to the South Carolina Class Representative and members of the South Carolina Class and was in the business of selling such products.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6485. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6487. Plaintiff and each member of the Class has had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

6489. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 392
Unjust Enrichment
(South Carolina Law)

6491. South Carolina Class Representative Michael Futrell incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6492. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6493. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiff and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

6495. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly realized a benefit from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6498. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

29. Causes of Action on Behalf of Tennessee-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 393
Violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-101, et seq.)

6499. Tennessee Class Representative Dale Hunter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6500. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6501. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

6502. Plaintiff and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

6503. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

6504. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

6505. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

6506. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

6507. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6508. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6509. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Tennessee CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

6513. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

6516. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6517. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6519. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Tennessee CPA.

COUNT 394
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-2-314)

6520. Tennessee Class Representative Dale Hunter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6521. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6526. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6529. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 395
Unjust Enrichment
(Tennessee Law)

6532. Tennessee Class Representative Dale Hunter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6533. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6534. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6536. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6539. There is no existing, enforceable contract governing this dispute.

6540. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

30. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 396
Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

6541. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva, Ronda Lockett, Sylvia Yoshida, Agapito It Aleman, Gina Martinez, Liliana Del Valle, and Marilyn Abraham incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6542. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6544. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

6545. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

6546. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

6547. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

6548. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6550. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6551. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

6558. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

6559. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6560. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6562. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiff and the Class members are entitled.

6563. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 397
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Sanofi)

6564. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva, Ronda Lockett, Sylvia Yoshida, Agapito It Aleman, Gina Martinez, Liliana Del Valle, and Marilyn Abraham incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6565. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6567. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6570. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6571. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6573. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6574. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 398
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Sanofi)

6576. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva, Ronda Lockett, Sylvia Yoshida, Agapito It Aleman, Gina Martinez, Liliana Del Valle, and Marilyn Abraham incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6577. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6578. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

6581. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

6583. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

31. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Utah-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 399
Violation of the Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act
(Utah. Code Ann. §13-11-1, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

6584. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6585. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6586. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(6).

6587. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(5).

6588. Defendant was and is engaged in "consumer transactions" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(2)(a).

6589. The Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act ("Utah CSPA") prohibits any "deceptive act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(1). "An unconscionable act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction" also violates the Utah CSPA. Utah Code Ann. §13-11-5(1).

6590. The Utah CSPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction has sponsorship, approval, performance characteristics, accessories, uses, or benefits, if it has not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(a)); and

(b) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if it is not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(b)).

6593. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah CSPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; and

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not.

6597. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

6600. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6601. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6603. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah CSPA.

COUNT 400
Violation of the Utah Truth in Advertising Law
(Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-1, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

6604. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6605. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6606. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(17).

6607. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(7).

6608. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(4).

6609. The Utah Truth in Advertising Law ("Utah TAL") prohibits any deceptive practice undertaken "in the course of a person's business." Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1).

6610. The Utah TAL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(e));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(g));

(c) "advertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(i)); and

(d) "engag[ing] in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(t)).

6612. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah TAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6613. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah TAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6614. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Utah TAL, including:

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products were both safe and effective for the lifetime of the product, when in fact, they were not;

(b) representing that consumption of Ranitidine-Containing Products had characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have;

(c) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, or grade when they are not;

(d) advertising Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(e) engaging in any other conduct that creates a likelihood of confusion.

6620. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6621. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6622. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

6624. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah TAL.

COUNT 401
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Utah Code Ann. §70A-2-314)
(Against Sanofi)

6626. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6631. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6632. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6634. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 402
Unjust Enrichment
(Utah Law)

6638. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6639. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6641. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6644. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

32. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Virginia-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 403
Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)

6645. Virginia Class Representatives Dan Zhovtis and Cheryl Banks incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6646. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6647. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

6648. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

6649. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

6650. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

6651. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

6652. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

6653. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6655. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

6659. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

6662. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

6663. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6664. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6667. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Virginia CPA.

COUNT 404
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Va. Code Ann. §8.2-314)

6668. Virginia Class Representatives Dan Zhovtis and Cheryl Banks incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6669. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6674. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6677. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 405
Unjust Enrichment
(Virginia Law)

6680. Virginia Class Representatives Dan Zhovtis and Cheryl Banks incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6681. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Brand Manufacturer Defendant GSK (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6682. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6684. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer, and that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6687. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

6688. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

33. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Washington-Sanofi Classes

COUNT 406
Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Sanofi)

6689. Washington Class Representatives Robert Dewitt, Dave Garber, and Jonathan Ferguson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6690. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6692. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

6693. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

6694. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

6695. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6697. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts in its marketing, advertising, and promotions for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including that: such drugs were inherently defective, unreasonably dangerous, not fit to be used for their intended purpose, contained elevated levels of NDMA that rendered them unsafe and unfit for human consumption, and/or caused cancer.

6701. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding package size, and resulting misrepresentations and omissions concerning appropriate length of ingestion, of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about: (i) the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products; (ii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates; and (iii) the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products when ingesting all doses contained within particular packaging.

6704. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6705. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6707. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

6708. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

COUNT 407
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Wash. Rev. Code §62A.2-314)

6709. Washington Class Representatives Robert Dewitt, Dave Garber, and Jonathan Ferguson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6710. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6715. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6716. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6718. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 408
Unjust Enrichment
(Washington Law)

6721. Washington Class Representatives Robert Dewitt, Dave Garber, and Jonathan Ferguson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 16-22, 273-277, 279-303, 317-442, 445-456, 462-469, 470-483, and 868-911 as though fully set forth herein.

6722. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Sanofi Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sanofi (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

6723. Plaintiffs and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6728. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

6729. Plaintiffs and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

X. CAUSES OF ACTION AGAINST GENERIC PRESCRIPTION MANUFACTURERS

A. Causes of Action Against Amneal

6730. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Amneal, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 25-29 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic Zantac); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 845-867 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

6731. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Amneal with respect to prescription Ranitidine on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. 1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alabama-Amneal Classes

Violation of the Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ala. Code §8-19-1, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

6732. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin, Lashonnah Gaitor, and Anthony McGhee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6733. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6734. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(5).

6735. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(2).

6736. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(3).

6737. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade or commerce" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(8).

6738. The Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Alabama DTPA") prohibits "deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ala. Code §8-19-5.

6739. The Alabama DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(9)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(27)).

6740. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alabama DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

6747. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6749. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

6751. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alabama DTPA.

Unjust Enrichment (Alabama Law)
(Against Amneal)

6752. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin, Lashonnah Gaitor, and Anthony McGhee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6753. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6754. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6757. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

6759. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alaska-Amneal Classes

COUNT 411
Violation of the Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act
(Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471, et seq.)

6760. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6761. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6762. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.561(a)(4).

6763. The Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act ("Alaska CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(a).

6764. The Alaska CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(4));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(6));

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(8));

(d) "engaging in any other conduct creating a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding and that misleads, deceives, or damages a buyer or a competitor in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(11)); and

(e) "using or employing deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, or knowingly concealing, suppressing, or omitting a material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services whether or not a person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(12)).

6765. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alaska CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

6768. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

6771. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6772. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6773. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

6775. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alaska CPA.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(Alaska Law)

6776. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6777. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6778. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6781. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

6783. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Amneal Classes

Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

6784. Arkansas Class Representative Martha Summers incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6785. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6786. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

6787. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

6789. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

6790. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

6791. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

6797. Plaintiff and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

6798. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6799. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6801. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 414
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)

6802. Arkansas Class Representative Martha Summers incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6803. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6804. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

6806. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6807. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

6809. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

6810. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 415
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Amneal)

6811. Arkansas Class Representative Martha Summers incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6812. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6817. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6820. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Amneal Classes

COUNT 416
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

6823. Arizona Class Representatives Monica Costello, Jennifer Fox, and Armando Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6824. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6826. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

6827. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

6828. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed..

6835. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6838. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 417
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)
(Against Amneal)

6839. Arizona Class Representatives Monica Costello, Jennifer Fox, and Armando Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6840. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6841. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6846. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Amneal Classes

COUNT 418
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

6847. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6848. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6849. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

6850. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

6851. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

6857. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

6858. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

6859. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

6860. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6863. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 419
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

6864. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6865. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6866. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

6867. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

6868. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

6874. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6875. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6877. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 420
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

6878. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6879. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6880. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

6881. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

6882. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

6883. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

6884. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

6885. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

6891. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

6892. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6895. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Amneal)

6896. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6897. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6898. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6901. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

6903. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 422
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Amneal)

6904. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6905. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6910. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

6913. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Connecticut-Amneal Classes

COUNT 423
Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

6916. Connecticut Class Representatives Angel Cordero and Angel Vega incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6917. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6918. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

6919. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

6920. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

6921. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

6927. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6930. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

COUNT 424
Unjust Enrichment
(Connecticut Law)
(Against Amneal)

6931. Connecticut Class Representatives Angel Cordero and Angel Vega incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6932. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6933. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6935. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6938. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the District of Columbia-Amneal Classes

COUNT 425
Violation of the District of Columbia Consumer Protection Procedures Act
(D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901, et seq.)

6939. District of Columbia Class Representative and Kevin Nelson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6940. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the District of Columbia-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6941. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(1).

6942. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(2).

6943. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(7).

6944. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade practice[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(6).

6945. The District of Columbia Consumer Protection Procedures Act ("District of Columbia CPPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive trade practice, whether or not any consumer is in fact misled, deceived, or damaged thereby." D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904.

6946. The District of Columbia CPPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have a source, sponsorship, approval, certification, accessories, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(a));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if in fact they are of another" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(d));

(c) "advertis[ing] or offer[ing] goods or services without the intent to sell them or without the intent to sell them as advertised or offered" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(h));

(d) "misrepresent as to a material fact which has a tendency to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(e));

(e) "fail to state a material fact if such failure tends to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(f)); and

(f) "[u]se innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact, which has a tendency to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(f-1)).

6947. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the District of Columbia CPPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the District of Columbia CPPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive;

(e) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid; and

(f) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiff and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6953. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the District of Columbia CPPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6954. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6956. As a result of Defendant's violations of the District of Columbia CPPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the District of Columbia CPPA.

Unjust Enrichment
(District of Columbia Law)
(Against Amneal)

6957. District of Columbia Class Representative and Kevin Nelson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6958. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the District of Columbia-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6959. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

6964. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

6965. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Florida-Amneal Classes

COUNT 427
Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

6966. Florida Class Representatives Irma Arcaya, Roy Armstrong, Michael Fesser, Karen Foster, Hattie Kelley, Clifton McKinnon, Kristen (POA for Laura) Monger, Kristen (POA for Alexander) Monger, Ana Pereira, Daniel Taylor, Joyce Taylor, Sonia Diaz, and Michael Tomlinson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6967. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6968. The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

6969. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

6970. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

6971. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

6972. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6978. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

6979. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

6981. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

COUNT 428
Unjust Enrichment
(Florida Law)
(Against Amneal)

6982. Florida Class Representatives Irma Arcaya, Roy Armstrong, Michael Fesser, Karen Foster, Hattie Kelley, Clifton McKinnon, Kristen (POA for Laura) Monger, Kristen (POA for Alexander) Monger, Ana Pereira, Daniel Taylor, Joyce Taylor, Sonia Diaz, and Michael Tomlinson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6983. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6984. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

impoverishment because they purchased worthless medications and did not receive the expected benefit therefrom.

6986. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6987. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

6989. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

6990. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Amneal Classes

COUNT 429
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

6991. Georgia Class Representatives Roy Armstrong, Earlene Green, Leon Greene, Tyrone Houston, Kathy Jeffries, Charlotte Sanders, Paula Shells, Cynthia Starr, and Angela Taylor

incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

6992. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

6993. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

6994. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

6995. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

6996. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

6997. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

6998. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-

Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

6999. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Georgia FBPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

7004. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

7005. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7006. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7008. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-399(b) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

7009. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT 430
Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)
(Against Amneal)

7010. Georgia Class Representatives Roy Armstrong, Earlene Green, Leon Greene, Tyrone Houston, Kathy Jeffries, Charlotte Sanders, Paula Shells, Cynthia Starr, and Angela Taylor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7011. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7012. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

7015. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7017. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

7018. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 431
Violation of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act (815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1, et seq.) (Against Amneal)

7019. Illinois Class Representatives Vickie Anderson and Heather Re incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7020. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7022. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

7023. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

7024. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

7025. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

7026. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7032. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7035. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

7037. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7039. 7041. It violates the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7043. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Indiana-Amneal Classes

COUNT 433
Unjust Enrichment
(Indiana Law)

7044. Indiana Class Representatives Teresa Dowler, Timberly Goble, Alyson Humphrey, and Rebecca Sizemore incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7045. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7046. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7049. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7051. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 434
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ind. Code. Ann. §26-1-2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7052. Indiana Class Representatives Teresa Dowler, Timberly Goble, Alyson Humphrey, and Rebecca Sizemore incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7053. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7058. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7059. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7061. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7062. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

7063. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Iowa-Amneal Classes

COUNT 435
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7064. Iowa Class Representative Charles Longfield incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7065. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7066. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

7067. Plaintiff and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

7068. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

7069. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Defendant did so with willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others.

7075. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Iowa PRACFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7076. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out- of-pocket loss.

7078. As a result of Defendants' violations of the Iowa PRACFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendants' unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Iowa PRACFA.

7079. Additionally, because Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, were undertaken in willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others, pursuant to Iowa Code §714H.5(4), Plaintiff and the Class members seek an additonal award of treble damages.

COUNT 436
Unjust Enrichment
(Iowa Law)

7080. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7081. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7082. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7084. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7085. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7087. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

(Iowa Code Ann. §554.2314)

7088. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7089. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7094. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7097. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Kentucky-Amneal Classes

COUNT 438
Violation of the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7100. Kentucky Class Representatives Timberly Goble and Janet Asbury incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7101. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7102. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(1).

7103. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(2).

7104. The Kentucky Consumer Protection Act ("Kentucky CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, [unconscionable], false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.170(1)-(2).

7105. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Kentucky CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

7110. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7111. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7112. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7114. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Kentucky CPA.

COUNT 439
Unjust Enrichment
(Kentucky Law)
(Against Amneal)

7115. Kentucky Class Representatives Timberly Goble and Janet Asbury incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7116. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7117. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7120. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7122. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 440
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §355.2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7123. Kentucky Class Representatives Timberly Goble and Janet Asbury incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7124. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7126. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7129. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7130. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7132. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7133. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

14. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Louisiana-Amneal Classes

COUNT 441
Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)

7135. Louisiana Class Representative Jamie Mckay incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7136. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7137. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

7138. Plaintiff and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

7139. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

7140. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

7141. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7147. Plaintiff and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

7148. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7149. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7150. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

7151. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

COUNT 442
Unjust Enrichment
(Louisiana Law)

7152. Louisiana Class Representative Jamie Mckay incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7153. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7154. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7157. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiff for the Ranitidine Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiff's impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiff of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

7160. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 443
Breach of Implied Warranty
(La. Civ. Code Ann. art. §2520)
(Against Amneal)

7161. Louisiana Class Representative Jamie Mckay incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7162. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7167. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7168. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7170. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7171. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

15. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Maryland-Amneal Classes

COUNT 444
Violation of the Maryland Consumer Protection Act
(Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7173. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7174. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7175. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(h).

7176. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(c)(1).

7177. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(f).

7178. The Maryland Consumer Protection Act ("Maryland CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, abusive, or deceptive trade practices." Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301.

7179. The Maryland CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[f]alse, falsely disparaging, or misleading oral or written statement, visual description, or other representation of any kind which has the capacity, tendency, or effect of deceiving or misleading consumers" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(1));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services have a sponsorship, approval, accessory, characteristic, ingredient, use, benefit, or quantity which they do not have" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(i));

(c) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model which they are not" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(iv));

(d) "[f]ailure to state a material fact if the failure deceives or tends to deceive" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(3));

(e) "[a]dvertis[ing] or offer[ing] of consumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services . . . [w]ithout intent to sell, lease, or rent them as advertised or offered" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(5)(i)); and

(f) "[d]eception, fraud, false pretense, false premise, misrepresentation, or knowing concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with the intent that a consumer rely on the same in connection with . . . [t]he promotion or sale of any consumer goods" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(9)(i)).

7180. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Maryland CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are defective and inherently dangerous in the course of the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

7187. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7190. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Maryland CPA.

COUNT 445
Unjust Enrichment
(Maryland Law)
(Against Amneal)

7191. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7192. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7193. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7196. It would be unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7197. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plaintiffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts without paying for the value thereof, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

7198. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Md. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7199. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7200. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7205. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7207. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

7208. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

16. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Amneal Classes

COUNT 447
Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7211. Massachusetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7212. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7213. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

7214. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

7215. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

7216. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-

Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7222. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7223. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7226. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

COUNT 448
Unjust Enrichment
(Massachusetts Law)
(Against Amneal)

7227. Massachusetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7228. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7229. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7232. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

7233. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7235. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 449
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 106 §2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7236. Massachusetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7237. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7242. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7245. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Michigan-Amneal Classes

COUNT 450
Violation of the Michigan Consumer Protection Act
(Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.901, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7248. Michigan Class Representatives Myra Allen, Jody Beal, Benny Cope, Arthur Gamble, Kenneth Hix, Jerry Hunt, Judy Wilmot, and Lakisha Wilson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7249. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7250. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(d).

7251. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(g).

7252. The Michigan Consumer Protection Act ("Michigan CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts, or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1).

7253. The Michigan CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(c));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(e)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising or representing goods or services with intent not to dispose of those goods or services as advertised or represented" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(g)).

7254. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

7260. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7261. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7263. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Michigan CPA.

(Michigan Law)

7264. Michigan Class Representatives Myra Allen, Jody Beal, Benny Cope, Arthur Gamble, Kenneth Hix, Jerry Hunt, Judy Wilmot, and Lakisha Wilson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7265. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7266. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7271. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

7272. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

18. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Amneal Classes

COUNT 452
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7273. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown, Rodriquze Hampton Jr., and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7274. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7275. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

7276. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

7277. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

7278. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7284. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

7285. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7288. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 453
Unjust Enrichment
(Minnesota Law)

7289. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown, Rodriquze Hampton Jr., and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7290. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7291. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7296. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 454
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7297. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown, Rodriquze Hampton Jr., and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7298. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7303. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7306. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7309. Mississippi Class Representatives Martha Summers, Beverly Crosby, Lora Mauffray, Korcis McMillian, and Michelle Tinker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7310. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7311. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members suffered a detriment because they purchased worthless medications and did not receive the expected benefit therefrom.

7316. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

7317. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 456
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Miss. Code Ann. §75-2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7318. Mississippi Class Representatives Martha Summers, Beverly Crosby, Lora Mauffray, Korcis McMillian, and Michelle Tinker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7319. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7321. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7324. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7325. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7327. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7328. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law

20. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Missouri-Amneal Classes

COUNT 457
Violation of the Missouri Merchandising Practices Act
(Mo. Rev. Stat. §407.010, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7330. Missouri Class Representatives Martha Summers, Timberly Goble, Elaine Aaron, Lisa Deckard, Cynthia Gibbs, and Brenda Newcomb incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7331. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7332. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(5).

7333. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(7).

7334. The Missouri Merchandising Practices Act ("Missouri MPA") prohibits "act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, unfair practice or the concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise in trade or commerce." Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.020(1).

7335. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Missouri MPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-

Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7341. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Missouri MPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7342. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7344. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Missouri MPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Missouri MPA.

COUNT 458
Unjust Enrichment
(Missouri Law)
(Against Amneal)

7345. Missouri Class Representatives Martha Summers, Timberly Goble, Elaine Aaron, Lisa Deckard, Cynthia Gibbs, and Brenda Newcomb incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7346. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7347. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7348. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7351. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7353. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

7354. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

(Mo. Rev. Stat. §400.2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7355. Missouri Class Representatives Martha Summers, Timberly Goble, Elaine Aaron, Lisa Deckard, Cynthia Gibbs, and Brenda Newcomb incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7356. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7361. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7362. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7364. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

21. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Nevada-Amneal Classes

COUNT 460
Violation of the Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0903, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7367. Nevada Class Representative Monica Costello incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7368. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Nevada-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7369. The Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Nevada DTPA"), prohibits the use of "'deceptive trade practices' . . . in the course of . . . business or occupation." Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915.

7370. The Nevada DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations or quantities of goods or services for sale or lease or a false representation as to the sponsorship, approval, status, affiliation or connection of a person therewith" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods or services for sale or lease are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that such goods are of a particular style or model, if he or she knows or should know that they are of another standard, quality, grade, style or model" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell or lease them as advertised" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(9));

(d) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] any other false representation in a transaction" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(15)); and

(e) "[f]ail[ing] to disclose a material fact in connection with the sale or lease of goods or services" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0923(2)).

7371. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Nevada DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose the NDMA danger in connection with the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

7376. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiff and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7377. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Nevada DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7378. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7380. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Nevada DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Nevada DTPA.

COUNT 461
Unjust Enrichment
(Nevada Law)
(Against Amneal)

7381. Nevada Class Representative Monica Costello incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7382. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Nevada-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7384. 22. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Hampshire-Amneal Classes

COUNT 462
Violation of the New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7390. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7391. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7392. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(I).

7393. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(II).

7394. The New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act ("New Hampshire CPA") prohibits "any unfair method of competition or any unfair or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of any trade or commerce." N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2.

7395. The New Hampshire CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(V));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(VII)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(IX)).

7396. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Hampshire CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

7402. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of New Hampshire CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7403. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7405. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Hampshire CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Hampshire CPA.

COUNT 463
Unjust Enrichment
(New Hampshire Law)
(Against Amneal)

7406. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7407. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7408. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7411. It is unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7413. There is no valid, express contract governing this dispute.

7414. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 464
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §382-A:2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7415. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7416. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7421. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7422. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7424. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7425. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

23. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Jersey-Amneal Classes

COUNT 465
Violation of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7427. New Jersey Class Representatives James Adamo, Mary McMillian , Mary Moronski, and Lynn White incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7428. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7429. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(d).

7430. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

7431. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act ("New Jersey CFA") by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.

7432. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the New Jersey CFA.

7437. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7438. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7440. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

COUNT 466
Unjust Enrichment
(New Jersey Law)
(Against Amneal)

7441. New Jersey Class Representatives James Adamo, Mary McMillian , Mary Moronski, and Lynn White incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7442. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7443. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7445. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7446. It is unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7448. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 467
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §12A:2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7449. New Jersey Class Representatives James Adamo, Mary McMillian , Mary Moronski, and Lynn White incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7450. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7451. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to New Jersey Class Representatives and members of the New Jersey Class and was in the business of selling such products.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7453. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7455. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7456. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7457. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

7458. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7459. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

24. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Amneal Classes

COUNT 468
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7461. New Mexico Class Representatives Josefina Griego, Carrie Martinez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7462. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7463. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

7464. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

7465. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

7466. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

7467. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7468. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the New Mexico UTPA, including:

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

7469. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

7471. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7473. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7474. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7476. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

7499. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7500. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

7501. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Amneal)

7512. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez,

Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7513. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7514. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

7515. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

7516. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7519. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

7523. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7524. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7526. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

7527. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 473
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Amneal)

7528. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7529. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7535. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 474
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7536. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7537. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7542. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7545. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

26. Causes of Action on Behalf of the North Carolina-Amneal Classes

COUNT 475
Violation of the North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7548. North Carolina Class Representatives Acia D'amore, Patricia Frazier, Teresa Lee, Sharon Parks, Dennis Robbins, and Julie Turner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7549. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7550. Defendant was and is engaged in "commerce" within the meaning of N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(b).

7551. The North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("North Carolina UDTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in or affecting commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce," N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(a), and provides a private right of action for any person injured "by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of" the law. N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-16.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

7558. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7561. As a result of Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the North Carolina UDTPA.

7563. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7564. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7565. The benefit provided by Plaintiffs and the Class members was not conferred gratuitously, and in exchange for their payment of the purchase price of Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, Plaintiffs and the Class members received the Ranitidine-Containing Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. COUNT 480
(Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §751, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7602. Oklahoma Class Representative Demarco Grayson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7603. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7604. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(1).

7605. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(2).

7606. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(7).

7607. The Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act ("Oklahoma CPA") prohibits numerous unlawful acts, including misleading representations, false advertisements, and false statements. Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753. The Oklahoma CPA defines "[d]eceptive trade practice" as "a misrepresentation, omission or other practice that has deceived or . . . mislead a person to the detriment of that person." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(13). The Oklahoma CPA defines "[u]nfair trade practice" as "any practice which offends established public policy or if the practice is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(14).

7608. The Oklahoma CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]ak[ing] a false representation, knowingly or with reason to know, as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, or quantities of the subject of a consumer transaction" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, style or model, if it is of another" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, the subject of a consumer transaction with intent not to sell it as advertised" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(8)); and

(d) "[c]ommit[ing] an unfair or deceptive trade practice as defined in Section 752" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(20)).

7609. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oklahoma CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7610. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Oklahoma CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

7615. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Oklahoma CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7616. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7618. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oklahoma CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oklahoma CPA.

Unjust Enrichment
(Oklahoma Law)
(Against Amneal)

7619. Oklahoma Class Representative Demarco Grayson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7620. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7621. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7624. It is unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7626. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

7633. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7636. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

29. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Oregon-Amneal Classes

COUNT 483
Violation of the Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act
(Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7639. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7640. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7642. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(6).

7643. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(8).

7644. The Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act ("Oregon UTPA") prohibits "unlawful practice . . . in the course of the person's business." Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1).

7645. The Oregon UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, quantities or qualities that the real estate, goods or services do not have" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(e));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that real estate or goods are of a particular style or model, if the real estate, goods or services are of another" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] real estate, goods or services with intent not to provide the real estate, goods or services as advertised" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(i)); and

(d) "[e]ngag[ing] in any other unfair or deceptive conduct in trade or commerce" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(u)).

7646. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oregon UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

7652. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7653. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7654. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

7655. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oregon UTPA.

COUNT 484
Unjust Enrichment
(Oregon Law)
(Against Amneal)

7656. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7657. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7658. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

7663. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

7664. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 485
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §72.3140)
(Against Amneal)

7665. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7666. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7671. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7674. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

30. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Pennsylvania-Amneal Classes

COUNT 486
Violation of the Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(73 Pa. Cons. Stat. §201-1, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7677. Pennsylvania Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Felicia Ball, Elmer Cook, and Carol Loggins incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7678. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7679. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(2).

7680. Plaintiffs and the Class members purchased the Ranitidine-Containing Products "primarily for personal, family or household purposes" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-9.2(a).

7681. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(3).

7682. The Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Pennsylvania CPL") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 73 Pa. C.S. §201-3.

7683. The Pennsylvania CPL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(v));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(vii));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(ix)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(xxi)).

7684. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Pennsylvania CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

7691. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7694. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Pennsylvania CPL.

31. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Puerto Rico-Amneal Classes

COUNT 489
Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)
(Against Amneal)

7716. Puerto Rico Class Representatives Sonia Diaz and Gloria Colon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7717. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7718. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed

7721. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

7722. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

COUNT 491
Violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act
(S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7737. South Carolina Class Representatives Michael Futrell, Annie Johnson, and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7738. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7739. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(a).

7740. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(b).

7741. The South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act ("South Carolina UTPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-20(a).

7742. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7748. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7749. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7751. As a result of Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the South Carolina UTPA.

Unjust Enrichment
(South Carolina Law)
(Against Amneal)

7752. South Carolina Class Representatives Michael Futrell, Annie Johnson, and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7753. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7754. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

7759. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(S.C. Code Ann. §36-2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7760. South Carolina Class Representatives Michael Futrell, Annie Johnson, and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7761. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7766. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7769. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7773. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7774. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

7775. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

7776. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

7777. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

7778. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

7779. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

7780. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

7812. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7813. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(3).

7814. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

7815. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

7816. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

7817. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

7818. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

7819. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

7826. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7827. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7830. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 500
Violation of the Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act
(Utah. Code Ann. §13-11-1, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7851. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7852. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7853. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(6).

7854. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(5).

7855. Defendant was and is engaged in "consumer transactions" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(2)(a).

7856. The Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act ("Utah CSPA") prohibits any "deceptive act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(1). "An unconscionable act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction" also violates the Utah CSPA. Utah Code Ann. §13-11-5(1).

7857. The Utah CSPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction has sponsorship, approval, performance characteristics, accessories, uses, or benefits, if it has not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(a)); and

(b) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if it is not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(b)).

7858. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah CSPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; and

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not.

7864. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7865. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7867. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah CSPA.

COUNT 501
Violation of the Utah Truth in Advertising Law
(Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-1, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7868. Utah Class Representatives Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7869. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7870. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(17).

7871. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(7).

7872. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(4).

7873. The Utah Truth in Advertising Law ("Utah TAL") prohibits any deceptive practice undertaken "in the course of a person's business." Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1).

7874. The Utah TAL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(e));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(g));

(c) "advertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(i)); and

(d) "engag[ing] in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(t)).

7875. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah TAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products were both safe and effective for the lifetime of the product, when in fact, they were not;

(b) representing that consumption of Ranitidine-Containing Products had characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have;

(c) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, or grade when they are not;

(d) advertising Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(e) engaging in any other conduct that creates a likelihood of confusion.

7881. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7882. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7883. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

7885. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah TAL.

COUNT 502
Unjust Enrichment
(Utah Law)
(Against Amneal)

7886. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7887. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7888. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7890. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7891. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

7893. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 503
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Utah. Code Ann. §70A-2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7894. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7895. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7900. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7903. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

36. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Vermont-Amneal Classes

COUNT 504
Violation of the Vermont Consumer Fraud Act
(Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7906. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7907. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7908. Defendant is a "[s]eller" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(c).

7909. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(a).

7910. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(b).

7911. The Vermont consumer fraud act ("Vermont CFA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in commerce and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce." Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2453(a).

7912. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Vermont CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

7918. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7919. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7921. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Vermont CFA.

Unjust Enrichment
(Vermont Law)
(Against Amneal)

7922. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7923. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7924. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7940. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7942. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

37. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Virginia-Amneal Classes

COUNT 507
Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7943. Virginia Class Representatives Karen Foster, Cheryl Banks, and Lynn Costley incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7944. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7945. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

7946. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

7947. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

7948. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

7949. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

7950. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

7951. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

7957. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

7958. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7959. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7962. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Virginia CPA.

COUNT 508
Unjust Enrichment
(Virginia Law)
(Against Amneal)

7963. Virginia Class Representatives Karen Foster, Cheryl Banks, and Lynn Costley incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7964. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7965. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

7970. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

7971. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 509
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Va. Code Ann. §8.2-314)
(Against Amneal)

7972. Virginia Class Representatives Karen Foster, Cheryl Banks, and Lynn Costley incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7973. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7978. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

7981. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

38. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Washington-Amneal Classes

COUNT 510
Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Amneal)

7984. Washington Class Representatives Steve Fischer, Dave Garber, and Bridget Peck incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

7985. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

7986. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(1).

7987. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

7988. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

7989. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

7996. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

7997. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

7999. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

8000. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

COUNT 511
Unjust Enrichment
(Washington Law)
(Against Amneal)

8001. Washington Class Representatives Steve Fischer, Dave Garber, and Bridget Peck incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 25-29, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8002. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Amneal Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Amneal (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8003. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8004. B. Causes of Action Against Dr. Reddy's

8043. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Dr. Reddy's, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 36-45 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic Zantac); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 845-867 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

8044. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Dr. Reddy's with respect to prescription Ranitidine on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. 1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alabama-Dr. Reddy's Classes

Violation of the Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act
Ala. Code §8-19-1, et seq.
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8045. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin and Lashonnah Gaitor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8046. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8047. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(5).

8048. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(2).

8049. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(3).

8050. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade or commerce" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(8).

8051. The Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Alabama DTPA") prohibits "deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ala. Code §8-19-5.

8052. The Alabama DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(9)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(27)).

8053. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alabama DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of N-Nitrosodimethylamine ("NDMA") as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8059. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

8060. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8063. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Ala. Code §8-19-10(e) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

8064. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alabama DTPA.

COUNT 516
Unjust Enrichment
(Alabama Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8065. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin and Lashonnah Gaitor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8066. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8067. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8070. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

8072. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alaska-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 517
Violation of the Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act
(Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8073. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8074. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8075. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.561(a)(4).

8076. The Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act ("Alaska CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(a).

8077. The Alaska CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(4));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(6));

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(8));

(d) "engaging in any other conduct creating a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding and that misleads, deceives, or damages a buyer or a competitor in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(11)); and

(e) "using or employing deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, or knowingly concealing, suppressing, or omitting a material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services whether or not a person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(12)).

8078. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alaska CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8081. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

8084. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8085. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8086. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

8087. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiff within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiff in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.535(b)(1) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiff seeks all damages and relief to which Plaintiff and the Class members are entitled.

8088. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alaska CPA.

COUNT 518
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(Alaska Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8089. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8090. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8091. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8093. 8094. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

8096. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 519
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8097. Arizona Class Representatives Monica Costello, Jennifer Fox, and Armando Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8098. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8099. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(6).

8100. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

8101. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

8102. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed..

8106. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8108. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

8109. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8110. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8112. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 521
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8121. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8122. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8123. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

8124. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

8125. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

8126. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

8127. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

8128. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

8129. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Arkansas DTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8134. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

8135. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8136. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8138. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8139. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8140. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8141. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8146. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

8147. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 523
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8148. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8149. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8154. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8157. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8158. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8160. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8161. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8162. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

8163. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

8164. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

8165. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California UCL. These acts also constitute "fraudulent" business acts and practices under the California UCL in that Defendant's conduct is false, misleading, and has a tendency to deceive the Class and the general public.

8170. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

8171. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

8172. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21

C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

8173. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8174. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8176. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 525
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8177. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8178. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8179. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

8180. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

8181. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

8182. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8187. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8188. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8190. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 526
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8191. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8192. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8193. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

8194. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

8195. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

8196. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

8197. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

8198. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8200. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

8204. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

8205. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8208. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

COUNT 527
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8209. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8210. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8211. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8216. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 528
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8217. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8218. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8219. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to California Class Representatives and members of the California Class and was in the business of selling such products.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8223. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8224. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8226. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8227. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

8228. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

COUNT 529
Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8229. Connecticut Class Representatives Angel Cordero and Angel Vega incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8230. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8231. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

8232. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

8233. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

8234. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

8239. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8240. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8241. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8243. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

COUNT 530
Unjust Enrichment
(Connecticut Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8244. Connecticut Class Representatives Angel Cordero and Angel Vega incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8245. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8246. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8251. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 531
Violation of the District of Columbia Consumer Protection Procedures Act
(D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8252. District of Columbia Class Representative Kevin Nelson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8253. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the District of Columbia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8254. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(1).

8255. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(2).

8256. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(7).

8257. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade practice[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(6).

8258. The District of Columbia Consumer Protection Procedures Act ("District of Columbia CPPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive trade practice, whether or not any consumer is in fact misled, deceived, or damaged thereby." D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904.

8259. The District of Columbia CPPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have a source, sponsorship, approval, certification, accessories, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(a));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if in fact they are of another" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(d));

(c) "advertis[ing] or offer[ing] goods or services without the intent to sell them or without the intent to sell them as advertised or offered" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(h));

(d) "misrepresent as to a material fact which has a tendency to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(e));

(e) "fail to state a material fact if such failure tends to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(f)); and

(f) "[u]se innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact, which has a tendency to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(f-1)).

8260. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the District of Columbia CPPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the District of Columbia CPPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive;

(e) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid; and

(f) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiff and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8266. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the District of Columbia CPPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8267. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8269. As a result of Defendant's violations of the District of Columbia CPPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the District of Columbia CPPA.

COUNT 532
Unjust Enrichment
(District of Columbia Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8270. District of Columbia Class Representative Kevin Nelson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8271. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the District of Columbia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8272. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8277. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

8278. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8279. Florida Class Representatives Irma Arcaya, Roy Armstrong, Jeannie Black, Sonia Diaz, Michael Fesser, Karen Foster, Hattie Kelley, Marva Mccall, Clifton McKinnon, Ana Pereira, Daniel Taylor, Joyce Taylor, and Michael Tomlinson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8280. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8281. The FDUTPA prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

8282. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

8283. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

8284. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

8285. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

8291. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8292. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8294. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8295. Florida Class Representatives Irma Arcaya, Roy Armstrong, Jeannie Black, Sonia Diaz, Michael Fesser, Karen Foster, Hattie Kelley, Marva Mccall, Clifton McKinnon, Ana Pereira, Daniel Taylor, Joyce Taylor, and Michael Tomlinson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8296. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8297. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8299. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

8300. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

8305. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8306. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

8307. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

8308. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

8309. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

8310. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

8311. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8314. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

8317. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

8318. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8319. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8321. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-399(b) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

8322. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8357. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Illinois-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 539
Violation of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act
(815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8358. Illinois Class Representatives Vickie Anderson and Heather Re incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8359. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8360. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(c).

8361. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

8362. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

8363. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

8364. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

8365. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

8371. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8372. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8374. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

COUNT 540
Unjust Enrichment
(Illinois Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8375. Illinois Class Representatives Vickie Anderson and Heather Re incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8376. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8377. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8380. It violates the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

8382. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Indiana-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 541
Unjust Enrichment
(Indiana Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8383. Indiana Class Representatives Teresa Dowler, Timberly Goble, Alyson Humphrey, Rebecca Sizemore, and Tracy Wells incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8384. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8385. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

8388. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

8390. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 542
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ind. Code. Ann. §26-1-2-314)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8391. Indiana Class Representatives Teresa Dowler, Timberly Goble, Alyson Humphrey, Rebecca Sizemore, and Tracy Wells incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8392. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8397. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8398. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8400. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Iowa-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 543
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8403. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield and Tracy Losee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8404. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8405. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

8406. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

8407. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

8408. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-

Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Defendant did so with willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8414. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Iowa PRACFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8415. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out- of-pocket loss.

8417. As a result of Defendants' violations of the Iowa PRACFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendants' unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Iowa PRACFA.

8418. Additionally, because Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, were undertaken in willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others, pursuant to Iowa Code §714H.5(4), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an additonal award of treble damages.

COUNT 544

(Iowa Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8419. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield and Tracy Losee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8420. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8421. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8422. 8428. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8433. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8435. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 546
Violation of the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8439. Kentucky Class Representatives Timberly Goble and Janet Asbury incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8440. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8441. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(1).

8442. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(2).

8443. The Kentucky Consumer Protection Act ("Kentucky CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, [unconscionable], false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.170(1)-(2).

8444. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Kentucky CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

8450. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8451. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8453. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Kentucky CPA.

8469. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8470. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

8471. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8472. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

15. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Louisiana-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 549
Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8474. Louisiana Class Representatives Randy Jones and Jamie Mckay incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8475. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8476. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

8477. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

8478. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

8479. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

8480. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

8486. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

8487. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8488. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8490. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

COUNT 550
Unjust Enrichment
(Louisiana Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8491. Louisiana Class Representatives Randy Jones and Jamie Mckay incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8492. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8493. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8496. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs for the Ranitidine Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiffs of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

8499. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 551
Breach of Implied Warranty
(La. Civ. Code Ann. art. §2520)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8500. Louisiana Class Representatives Randy Jones and Jamie Mckay incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8501. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8506. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8507. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8508. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

8509. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8510. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

16. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Maryland-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 552
Violation of the Maryland Consumer Protection Act
(Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8512. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8513. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8514. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(h).

8515. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(c)(1).

8516. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(f).

8517. The Maryland Consumer Protection Act ("Maryland CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, abusive, or deceptive trade practices." Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301.

8518. The Maryland CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[f]alse, falsely disparaging, or misleading oral or written statement, visual description, or other representation of any kind which has the capacity, tendency, or effect of deceiving or misleading consumers" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(1));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services have a sponsorship, approval, accessory, characteristic, ingredient, use, benefit, or quantity which they do not have" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(i));

(c) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model which they are not" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(iv));

(d) "[f]ailure to state a material fact if the failure deceives or tends to deceive" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(3));

(e) "[a]dvertis[ing] or offer[ing] of consumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services . . . [w]ithout intent to sell, lease, or rent them as advertised or offered" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(5)(i)); and

(f) "[d]eception, fraud, false pretense, false premise, misrepresentation, or knowing concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with the intent that a consumer rely on the same in connection with . . . [t]he promotion or sale of any consumer goods" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(9)(i)).

8519. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Maryland CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are defective and inherently dangerous in the course of the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8526. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8527. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8529. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Maryland CPA.

COUNT 553
Unjust Enrichment
(Maryland Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8530. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8531. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8532. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8536. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plaintiffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts without paying for the value thereof, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

8537. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

17. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 555
Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8550. Massachusetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8551. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8552. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

8553. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

8554. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

8555. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-

Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

8561. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8562. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8565. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

8581. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8584. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8585. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

18. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Michigan-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 558
Violation of the Michigan Consumer Protection Act
(Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.901, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8587. Michigan Class Representatives Myra Allen, Jody Beal, Benny Cope, Arthur Gamble, Kenneth Hix, Jerry Hunt, Judy Wilmot, and Lakisha Wilson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8588. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8589. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(d).

8590. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(g).

8591. The Michigan Consumer Protection Act ("Michigan CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts, or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1).

8592. The Michigan CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(c));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(e)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising or representing goods or services with intent not to dispose of those goods or services as advertised or represented" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(g)).

8593. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8599. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8600. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8602. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Michigan CPA.

COUNT 559
Unjust Enrichment
(Michigan Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8603. Michigan Class Representatives Myra Allen, Jody Beal, Benny Cope, Arthur Gamble, Kenneth Hix, Jerry Hunt, Judy Wilmot, and Lakisha Wilson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8604. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8605. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8610. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

8611. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 560
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8612. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8613. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8614. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

8615. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

8616. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

8617. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

8622. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8623. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

8624. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8625. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8627. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 565
Violation of the Missouri Merchandising Practices Act
(Mo. Rev. Stat. §407.010, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8669. Missouri Class Representatives Martha Summers, Timberly Goble, Elaine Aaron, Antrenise Campbell, Lisa Deckard, Cynthia Gibbs, and Brenda Newcomb incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8670. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8671. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(5).

8672. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(7).

8673. The Missouri Merchandising Practices Act ("Missouri MPA") prohibits "act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, unfair practice or the concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise in trade or commerce." Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.020(1).

8674. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Missouri MPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8680. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

8692. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

8693. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 567
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Mo. Rev. Stat. §400.2-314)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8694. Missouri Class Representatives Martha Summers, Timberly Goble, Elaine Aaron, Antrenise Campbell, Lisa Deckard, Cynthia Gibbs, and Brenda Newcomb incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8695. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8700. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8701. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8702. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

8703. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

22. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Nevada-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 568
Violation of the Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0903, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8706. Nevada Class Representative Monica Costello incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8707. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Nevada-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8708. The Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Nevada DTPA"), prohibits the use of "'deceptive trade practices' . . . in the course of . . . business or occupation." Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915.

8709. The Nevada DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations or quantities of goods or services for sale or lease or a false representation as to the sponsorship, approval, status, affiliation or connection of a person therewith" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods or services for sale or lease are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that such goods are of a particular style or model, if he or she knows or should know that they are of another standard, quality, grade, style or model" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell or lease them as advertised" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(9));

(d) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] any other false representation in a transaction" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(15)); and

(e) "[f]ail[ing] to disclose a material fact in connection with the sale or lease of goods or services" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0923(2)).

8710. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Nevada DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose the NDMA danger in connection with the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8716. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Nevada DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8717. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8719. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Nevada DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Nevada DTPA.

COUNT 569
Unjust Enrichment
(Nevada Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8720. Nevada Class Representative Monica Costello incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8721. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Nevada-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8722. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

8724. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

8727. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

8728. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

23. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Hampshire-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 570
Violation of the New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8729. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8730. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8731. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(I).

8732. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(II).

8733. The New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act ("New Hampshire CPA") prohibits "any unfair method of competition or any unfair or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of any trade or commerce." N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2.

8734. The New Hampshire CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(V));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(VII)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(IX)).

8735. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Hampshire CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

8741. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of New Hampshire CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8742. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8744. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Hampshire CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Hampshire CPA.

COUNT 571
Unjust Enrichment
(New Hampshire Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8745. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8746. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8747. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

8749. 8750. It is unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

8752. There is no valid, express contract governing this dispute.

8753. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 572
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §382-A:2-314)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8754. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8755. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8760. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8763. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 573
Violation of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8766. New Jersey Class Representatives James Adamo, Sayed Eldomiaty, Mary McMillian , Mary Moronski, and Lynn White incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8767. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8768. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(d).

8769. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the New Jersey CFA.

8772. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

8776. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8777. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8779. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

8795. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8797. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8799. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

25. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 576
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8800. New Mexico Class Representatives Phyllis Gallegos, Josefina Griego, Carrie Martinez, Inez Mazon, Ernesto Sanchez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8801. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8802. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

8803. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

8804. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

8805. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

8806. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

8807. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the New Mexico UTPA, including:

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

8812. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8815. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 577
Unjust Enrichment
(New Mexico Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8816. New Mexico Class Representatives Phyllis Gallegos, Josefina Griego, Carrie Martinez, Inez Mazon, Ernesto Sanchez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8817. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8818. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

8823. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

8824. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 578
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8825. New Mexico Class Representatives Phyllis Gallegos, Josefina Griego, Carrie Martinez, Inez Mazon, Ernesto Sanchez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8826. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8831. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8832. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8834. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

26. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 579
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8837. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen, Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8838. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8839. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

8840. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

8847. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8848. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8850. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 580
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8851. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen, Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8852. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8853. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

8854. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

8855. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

8862. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8863. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8865. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

8866. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

8872. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

Violation of the North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8887. North Carolina Class Representatives Acia D'amore, Patricia Frazier, Teresa Lee, Sharon Parks, Dennis Robbins, and Julie Turner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8888. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8889. Defendant was and is engaged in "commerce" within the meaning of N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(b).

8890. The North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("North Carolina UDTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in or affecting commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce," N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(a), and provides a private right of action for any person injured "by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of" the law. N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-16.

8891. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the North Carolina UDTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

8896. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8897. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8898. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8900. As a result of Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the North Carolina UDTPA.

COUNT 584
Unjust Enrichment
(North Carolina Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8901. North Carolina Class Representatives Acia D'amore, Patricia Frazier, Teresa Lee, Sharon Parks, Dennis Robbins, and Julie Turner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8902. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8904. The benefit provided by Plaintiffs and the Class members was not conferred gratuitously, and in exchange for their payment of the purchase price of Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, Plaintiffs and the Class members received the Ranitidine-Containing Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

8908. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 585
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §25-2-314)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8909. North Carolina Class Representatives Acia D'amore, Patricia Frazier, Teresa Lee, Sharon Parks, Dennis Robbins, and Julie Turner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8910. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8911. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to North Carolina Class Representatives and members of the North Carolina Class and was in the business of selling such products.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8913. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8915. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

8918. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8930. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Ohio-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8935. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

8940. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

29. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Oklahoma-Dr. Reddy's Class

COUNT 588
Violation of the Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act
(Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §751, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8941. Oklahoma Class Representatives Billy Naab and Demarco Grayson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8942. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8943. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(1).

8944. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(2).

8945. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(7).

8946. The Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act ("Oklahoma CPA") prohibits numerous unlawful acts, including misleading representations, false advertisements, and false statements. Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753. The Oklahoma CPA defines "[d]eceptive trade practice" as "a misrepresentation, omission or other practice that has deceived or . . . mislead a person to the detriment of that person." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(13). The Oklahoma CPA defines "[u]nfair trade practice" as "any practice which offends established public policy or if the practice is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(14).

8947. The Oklahoma CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]ak[ing] a false representation, knowingly or with reason to know, as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, or quantities of the subject of a consumer transaction" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, style or model, if it is of another" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, the subject of a consumer transaction with intent not to sell it as advertised" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(8)); and

(d) "[c]ommit[ing] an unfair or deceptive trade practice as defined in Section 752" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(20)).

8948. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oklahoma CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8951. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

8954. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Oklahoma CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8957. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oklahoma CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oklahoma CPA.

COUNT 591
Violation of the Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act
(Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8978. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8979. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8980. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(4).

8981. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(6).

8982. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(8).

8983. The Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act ("Oregon UTPA") prohibits "unlawful practice . . . in the course of the person's business." Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1).

8984. The Oregon UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, quantities or qualities that the real estate, goods or services do not have" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(e));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that real estate or goods are of a particular style or model, if the real estate, goods or services are of another" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] real estate, goods or services with intent not to provide the real estate, goods or services as advertised" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(i)); and

(d) "[e]ngag[ing] in any other unfair or deceptive conduct in trade or commerce" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(u)).

8985. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oregon UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

8988. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

8991. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

8992. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

8993. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

8994. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oregon UTPA.

Unjust Enrichment
(Oregon Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

8995. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

8996. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

8997. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

8999. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9000. It is unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9002. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

9004. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9005. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9006. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to Oregon Class Representatives and members of the Oregon Class and was in the business of selling such products.

9007. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9010. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9011. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9012. Plaintiff and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

31. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Pennsylvania-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 594
Violation of the Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(73 Pa. Cons. Stat. §201-1, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9016. Pennsylvania Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Felicia Ball, and Elmer Cook incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9017. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9018. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(2).

9019. Plaintiffs and the Class members purchased the Ranitidine-Containing Products "primarily for personal, family or household purposes" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-9.2(a).

9020. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(3).

9021. The Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Pennsylvania CPL") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 73 Pa. C.S. §201-3.

9022. The Pennsylvania CPL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(v));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(vii));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(ix)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(xxi)).

9023. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Pennsylvania CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

9030. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9033. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Pennsylvania CPL.

COUNT 595
Unjust Enrichment
(Pennsylvania Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9034. Pennsylvania Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Felicia Ball, and Elmer Cook incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9035. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9036. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom

9038. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9041. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

9042. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 596
Breach of Implied Warranty
(13 Pa. Cons. Stat. §2314)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9043. Pennsylvania Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Felicia Ball, and Elmer Cook incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9044. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9049. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9052. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9053. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

9054. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

32. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Puerto Rico-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 597
Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9055. Puerto Rico Class Representatives Sonia Diaz and Gloria Colon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9056. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9057. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9059. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed

9060. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

9061. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9063. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

(P.R. Laws Ann. tit. 31, §3841)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9064. Puerto Rico Class Representatives Sonia Diaz and Gloria Colon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9065. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9070. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

COUNT 599
Violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act
(S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9076. South Carolina Class Representatives Annie Johnson, Michael Futrell, Jeffery Gunwall, Sharon Mclellan, and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9077. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9078. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(a).

9079. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(b).

9080. The South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act ("South Carolina UTPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-20(a).

9081. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9112. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9113. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

9114. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

9115. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

9116. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

9117. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

9118. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

9119. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

9125. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9126. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9128. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Tennessee CPA.

COUNT 603
Unjust Enrichment
(Tennessee Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9129. Tennessee Class Representatives Angela Taylor, Kenneth Hix, Eva Broughton, Rebecca Howard, Pam Turner, and Billie Walker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9130. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9131. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9133. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members'

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9134. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9136. There is no existing, enforceable contract governing this dispute.

9137. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 604
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-2-314)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9138. Tennessee Class Representatives Angela Taylor, Kenneth Hix, Eva Broughton, Rebecca Howard, Pam Turner, and Billie Walker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9139. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9144. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9145. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9147. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

35. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 605
Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9150. Texas Class Representatives Timberly Goble, Marianella Villanueva, Marilyn Abraham, Maria Eames, Tina Howard, Christopher Johnson, Gina Martinez, Tonya Overstreet, Gregory Alan Wayland, and Sylvia Yoshida incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9151. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9153. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

9154. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

9155. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

9156. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

9157. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

9158. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(q) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(r) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(s) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

9163. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9164. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

9165. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9166. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9169. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

9175. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9177. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 608
Violation of the Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act
(Utah. Code Ann. §13-11-1, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9190. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9191. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9192. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(6).

9193. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(5).

9194. Defendant was and is engaged in "consumer transactions" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(2)(a).

9195. The Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act ("Utah CSPA") prohibits any "deceptive act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(1). "An unconscionable act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction" also violates the Utah CSPA. Utah Code Ann. §13-11-5(1).

9196. The Utah CSPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction has sponsorship, approval, performance characteristics, accessories, uses, or benefits, if it has not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(a)); and

(b) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if it is not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(b)).

9197. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah CSPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; and

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not.

9199. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

9203. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9204. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9206. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah CSPA.

COUNT 609
Violation of the Utah Truth in Advertising Law
(Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-1, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9207. Utah Class Representatives Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9208. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9209. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(17).

9210. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(7).

9211. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(4).

9212. The Utah Truth in Advertising Law ("Utah TAL") prohibits any deceptive practice undertaken "in the course of a person's business." Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1).

9213. The Utah TAL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(e));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(g));

(c) "advertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(i)); and

(d) "engag[ing] in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(t)).

9214. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah TAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products were both safe and effective for the lifetime of the product, when in fact, they were not;

(b) representing that consumption of Ranitidine-Containing Products had characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have;

(c) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, or grade when they are not;

(d) advertising Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(e) engaging in any other conduct that creates a likelihood of confusion.

9220. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9221. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9222. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

9223. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiff within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiff in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiff seeks all damages and relief to which Plaintiff and the Class members are entitled.

9224. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah TAL.

COUNT 610
Unjust Enrichment
(Utah Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9225. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9226. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9227. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9229. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9232. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 611
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Utah. Code Ann. §70A-2-314)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9233. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9234. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9236. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9239. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9242. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9243. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 612
Violation of the Vermont Consumer Fraud Act
(Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9245. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9246. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9247. Defendant is a "[s]eller" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(c).

9248. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(a).

9249. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(b).

9250. The Vermont consumer fraud act ("Vermont CFA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in commerce and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce." Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2453(a).

9253. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

9257. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9258. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9260. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Vermont CFA.

COUNT 615
Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9282. Virginia Class Representatives Karen Foster, Cheryl Banks, and Lynn Costley incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9283. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9284. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

9285. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

9286. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

9287. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

9288. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

9289. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

9290. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

9293. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

9294. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

9335. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9338. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

9339. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

COUNT 619
Unjust Enrichment
(Washington Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9340. Washington Class Representatives Billy Naab, Steve Fischer, Dave Garber, and Bridget Peck incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9341. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9342. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

9347. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

9348. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 620
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Wash. Rev. Code §62A.2-314)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9349. Washington Class Representatives Billy Naab, Steve Fischer, Dave Garber, and Bridget Peck incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9350. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9355. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9356. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9357. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

9358. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9359. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

Unjust Enrichment
(West Virginia Law)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9361. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9362. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9363. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9368. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

9369. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

9370. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9371. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9372. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to West Virginia Class Representatives and members of the West Virginia Class and was in the business of selling such products.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9376. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9379. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

41. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Wisconsin-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 623
Violation of the Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18, et seq.)
(Against Dr. Reddy's)

9382. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9383. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9384. Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

9385. Plaintiff and the Class members are members of "the public" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

9386. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

9387. The Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Wisconsin DTPA") prohibits any "assertion, representation or statement of fact which is untrue, deceptive or misleading." Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

9388. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Wisconsin DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9393. 9408. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9413. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9414. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9416. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

C. Causes of Action Against Glenmark

9419. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Glenmark, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 46-52 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic Zantac); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469

(requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 845-867 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alabama-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 626
Violation of the Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ala. Code §8-19-1, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9421. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin and Lashonnah Gaitor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9422. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9423. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(5).

9424. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(2).

9425. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(3).

9426. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade or commerce" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(8).

9427. The Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Alabama DTPA") prohibits "deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ala. Code §8-19-5.

9428. The Alabama DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(9)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(27)).

9429. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alabama DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of N-Nitrosodimethylamine ("NDMA") as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

9436. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9439. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Ala. Code §8-19-10(e) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

9440. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alabama DTPA.

COUNT 627
Unjust Enrichment
(Alabama Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9441. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin and Lashonnah Gaitor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9442. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9443. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9446. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9448. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alaska-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 628
Violation of the Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act
(Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9449. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9450. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9451. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.561(a)(4).

9452. The Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act ("Alaska CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(a).

9453. The Alaska CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(4));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(6));

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(8));

(d) "engaging in any other conduct creating a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding and that misleads, deceives, or damages a buyer or a competitor in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(11)); and

(e) "using or employing deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, or knowingly concealing, suppressing, or omitting a material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services whether or not a person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(12)).

9454. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alaska CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

9457. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

9458. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

9460. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9461. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9462. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

9463. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiff within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiff in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.535(b)(1) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiff seeks all damages and relief to which Plaintiff and the Class members are entitled.

9464. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alaska CPA.

COUNT 629
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(Alaska Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9465. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9466. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9467. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9470. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9472. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 630
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9473. Arizona Class Representatives Monica Costello, Jennifer Fox, and Armando Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9474. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9476. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

9477. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

9478. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed..

9481. Defendant's misreprsentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a unform manner.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9484. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

9485. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9486. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9488. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

9489. Arizona Class Representatives Monica Costello, Jennifer Fox, and Armando Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9490. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9491. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9492. In exchange for their payment of the purchase price of Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, Plaintiffs and the Class members received the Ranitidine-Containing Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. 9494. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9495. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plaintiffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

9496. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 632
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9497. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9498. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9499. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

9500. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

9501. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

9502. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

9503. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

9504. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9505. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Arkansas DTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

9507. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

9510. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

9511. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9512. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9514. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 633
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9515. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9516. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9517. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9522. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

9523. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 634
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Glenmark)

9524. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9525. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9530. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9531. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9532. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

9533. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9534. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

9535. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9536. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9537. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9538. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

9539. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

9540. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

9546. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

9547. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

9548. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21

C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

9549. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9550. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9552. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 636
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9553. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9554. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9555. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

9556. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

9557. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9558. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

9560. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

9563. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9564. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9566. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 637
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9567. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9568. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9569. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

9570. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

9571. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

9572. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

9573. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

9574. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

9580. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

9581. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9583. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

9584. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

COUNT 638
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9585. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9586. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9587. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9590. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9592. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 639
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Glenmark)

9593. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9594. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9599. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9600. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9601. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

9602. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Connecticut-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 640
Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9605. Connecticut Class Representatives Angel Cordero and Angel Vega incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9606. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9607. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

9608. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

9609. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

9610. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

9615. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9616. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9617. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9619. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

COUNT 641
Unjust Enrichment
(Connecticut Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9620. Connecticut Class Representatives Angel Cordero and Angel Vega incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9621. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9622. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9625. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9627. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the District of Columbia-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 642
Violation of the District of Columbia Consumer Protection Procedures Act
(D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9628. District of Columbia Class Representative Kevin Nelson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9629. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the District of Columbia-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9630. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(1).

9631. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(2).

9632. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(7).

9633. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade practice[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(6).

9634. The District of Columbia Consumer Protection Procedures Act ("District of Columbia CPPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive trade practice, whether or not any consumer is in fact misled, deceived, or damaged thereby." D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904.

9635. The District of Columbia CPPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have a source, sponsorship, approval, certification, accessories, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(a));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if in fact they are of another" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(d));

(c) "advertis[ing] or offer[ing] goods or services without the intent to sell them or without the intent to sell them as advertised or offered" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(h));

(d) "misrepresent as to a material fact which has a tendency to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(e));

(e) "fail to state a material fact if such failure tends to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(f)); and

(f) "[u]se innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact, which has a tendency to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(f-1)).

9636. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the District of Columbia CPPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9637. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above,

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the District of Columbia CPPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive;

(e) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid; and

(f) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

9639. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiff and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9642. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the District of Columbia CPPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9643. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9645. As a result of Defendant's violations of the District of Columbia CPPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the District of Columbia CPPA.

COUNT 643
Unjust Enrichment
(District of Columbia Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9646. District of Columbia Class Representative and Kevin Nelson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9647. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the District of Columbia-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9648. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9650. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9653. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

9654. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 644
Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9655. Florida Class Representatives Irma Arcaya, Roy Armstrong, Jeannie Black, Sonia Diaz, Michael Fesser, Karen Foster, Hattie Kelley, Marva Mccall, Clifton McKinnon, Ana Pereira, Daniel Taylor, Joyce Taylor, and Michael Tomlinson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9656. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9657. The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

9658. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

9659. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

9660. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

9661. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9667. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9668. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9670. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

(Against Glenmark)

9671. Florida Class Representatives Irma Arcaya, Roy Armstrong, Jeannie Black, Sonia Diaz, Michael Fesser, Karen Foster, Hattie Kelley, Marva Mccall, Clifton McKinnon, Ana Pereira, Daniel Taylor, Joyce Taylor, and Michael Tomlinson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9672. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9673. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9675. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9676. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9678. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 646
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9680. Georgia Class Representatives Roy Armstrong, Earlene Green, Leon Greene, Tyrone Houston, Kathy Jeffries, Charlotte Sanders, Paula Shells, Cynthia Starr, and Angela Taylor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9681. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9682. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

9683. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

9684. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

9685. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

9686. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

9687. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

9693. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

9694. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9695. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9697. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-399(b) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

9698. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

9709. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9711. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

9712. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

9713. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

9714. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

9715. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9720. 9735. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9738. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9740. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 651
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ind. Code. Ann. §26-1-2-314)
(Against Glenmark)

9741. Indiana Class Representatives Teresa Dowler, Timberly Goble, Alyson Humphrey, Rebecca Sizemore, and Tracy Wells incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9742. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9747. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9750. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9751. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

9752. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Iowa-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 652
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9753. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield and Tracy Losee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9754. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9755. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

9756. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

9757. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

9758. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Defendant did so with willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others.

9764. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Iowa PRACFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9765. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out- of-pocket loss.

9767. As a result of Defendants' violations of the Iowa PRACFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendants' unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Iowa PRACFA.

9768. Additionally, because Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, were undertaken in willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others, pursuant to Iowa Code §714H.5(4), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an additonal award of treble damages.

COUNT 653
Unjust Enrichment
(Iowa Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9769. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield and Tracy Losee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9770. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9771. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9773. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9774. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9776. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Iowa Code Ann. §554.2314)
(Against Glenmark)

9777. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield and Tracy Losee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9778. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9783. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9786. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Kentucky-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 655
Violation of the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9789. Kentucky Class Representatives Timberly Goble and Janet Asbury incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9790. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9791. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(1).

9792. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(2).

9793. The Kentucky Consumer Protection Act ("Kentucky CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, [unconscionable], false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.170(1)-(2).

9794. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Kentucky CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

9799. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9800. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9801. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9803. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Kentucky CPA.

COUNT 656
Unjust Enrichment
(Kentucky Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9804. Kentucky Class Representatives Timberly Goble and Janet Asbury incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9805. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9806. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9818. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9821. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9822. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

14. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Louisiana-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 658
Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9824. Louisiana Class Representatives Randy Jones and Jamie Mckay incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9825. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9826. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

9827. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

9828. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

9829. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

9830. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9837. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9838. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9840. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

COUNT 659
Unjust Enrichment
(Louisiana Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9841. Louisiana Class Representatives Randy Jones and Jamie Mckay incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9842. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9843. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9846. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs for the Ranitidine Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiffs of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

9849. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

9851. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9856. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9859. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

15. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Maryland-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 661
Violation of the Maryland Consumer Protection Act
(Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9862. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9863. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9864. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(h).

9865. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(c)(1).

9866. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(f).

9867. The Maryland Consumer Protection Act ("Maryland CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, abusive, or deceptive trade practices." Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301.

9868. The Maryland CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[f]alse, falsely disparaging, or misleading oral or written statement, visual description, or other representation of any kind which has the capacity, tendency, or effect of deceiving or misleading consumers" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(1));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services have a sponsorship, approval, accessory, characteristic, ingredient, use, benefit, or quantity which they do not have" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(i));

(c) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model which they are not" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(iv));

(d) "[f]ailure to state a material fact if the failure deceives or tends to deceive" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(3));

(e) "[a]dvertis[ing] or offer[ing] of consumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services . . . [w]ithout intent to sell, lease, or rent them as advertised or offered" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(5)(i)); and

(f) "[d]eception, fraud, false pretense, false premise, misrepresentation, or knowing concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with the intent that a consumer rely on the same in connection with . . . [t]he promotion or sale of any consumer goods" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(9)(i)).

9869. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Maryland CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are defective and inherently dangerous in the course of the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

9876. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9877. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9879. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Maryland CPA.

COUNT 662
Unjust Enrichment
(Maryland Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9880. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9881. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9882. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9885. It would be unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

value thereof, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

9887. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 663
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Md. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Glenmark)

9888. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9889. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9894. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9897. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

16. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 664
Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9900. Massachussetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9901. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9902. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

9903. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

9904. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

9905. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-

Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9909. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

9911. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9915. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

COUNT 665
Unjust Enrichment
(Massachusetts Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9916. Massachussetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9917. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9918. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9921. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

9931. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9932. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9933. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

9946. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

9958. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

9960. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

9961. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

18. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 669
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

9962. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9963. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9964. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

9965. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

9966. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

9967. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9973. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

9974. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

9975. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

9977. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 670
Unjust Enrichment
(Minnesota Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9978. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9979. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9980. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

9985. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

9986.

Breach of Implied Warranty (Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)

(Against Glenmark)

9987. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

9988. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

9993. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

9996. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9997. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

19. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Mississippi-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 671
Unjust Enrichment
(Mississippi Law)
(Against Glenmark)

9999. Mississippi Class Representatives Martha Summers, Beverly Crosby, Dorothy King, Lora Mauffray, Korcis McMillian, Michelle Tinker, and David Weatherly incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10000. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10001. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10006. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

10017. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

20. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Missouri-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 673
Violation of the Missouri Merchandising Practices Act
(Mo. Rev. Stat. §407.010, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10020. Missouri Class Representatives Martha Summers, Timberly Goble, Elaine Aaron, Lisa Deckard, Cynthia Gibbs, and Brenda Newcomb incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10021. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10022. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(5).

10023. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(7).

10024. The Missouri Merchandising Practices Act ("Missouri MPA") prohibits "act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, unfair practice or the concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise in trade or commerce." Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.020(1).

10025. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Missouri MPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

10031. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Missouri MPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10032. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10034. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Missouri MPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Missouri MPA.

21. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Nevada-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 676
Violation of the Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0903, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10057. Nevada Class Representative Monica Costello incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10058. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Nevada-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10059. The Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Nevada DTPA"), prohibits the use of "'deceptive trade practices' . . . in the course of . . . business or occupation." Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915.

10060. The Nevada DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations or quantities of goods or services for sale or lease or a false representation as to the sponsorship, approval, status, affiliation or connection of a person therewith" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods or services for sale or lease are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that such goods are of a particular style or model, if he or she knows or should know that they are of another standard, quality, grade, style or model" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell or lease them as advertised" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(9));

(d) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] any other false representation in a transaction" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(15)); and

(e) "[f]ail[ing] to disclose a material fact in connection with the sale or lease of goods or services" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0923(2)).

10061. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Nevada DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose the NDMA danger in connection with the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

10067. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Nevada DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10068. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10070. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Nevada DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Nevada DTPA.

COUNT 677
Unjust Enrichment
(Nevada Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10071. Nevada Class Representative Monica Costello incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10072. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Nevada-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10073. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10078. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

10079. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

22. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Hampshire-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 678
Violation of the New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10080. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10081. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10082. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(I).

10083. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(II).

10084. The New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act ("New Hampshire CPA") prohibits "any unfair method of competition or any unfair or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of any trade or commerce." N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2.

10085. The New Hampshire CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(V));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(VII)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(IX)).

10086. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Hampshire CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

10092. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of New Hampshire CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10093. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10095. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Hampshire CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Hampshire CPA.

COUNT 679
Unjust Enrichment
(New Hampshire Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10096. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10097. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10098. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

10100. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

10101. It is unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

10103. There is no valid, express contract governing this dispute.

10104. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 680
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §382-A:2-314)
(Against Glenmark)

10105. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10106. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10111. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10114. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

23. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Jersey-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 681
Violation of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10117. New Jersey Class Representatives James Adamo, Sayed Eldomiaty, Mary McMillian, Mary Moronski, and Lynn White incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10118. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10119. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(d).

10120. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the New Jersey CFA.

10123. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

10124. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

10127. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10128. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10130. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

24. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 684
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10151. New Mexico Class Representatives Phyllis Gallegos, Carrie Martinez, Inez Mazon, Ernesto Sanchez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10152. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10153. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

10154. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

10155. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

10156. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

10157. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

10163. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10164. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10166. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 685
Unjust Enrichment
(New Mexico Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10167. New Mexico Class Representatives Phyllis Gallegos, Carrie Martinez, Inez Mazon, Ernesto Sanchez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10168. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10169. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

10174. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

10175. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 686
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314)
(Against Glenmark)

10176. New Mexico Class Representatives Phyllis Gallegos, Carrie Martinez, Inez Mazon, Ernesto Sanchez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10177. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10182. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10185. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

25. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 687
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Glenmark)

10188. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen, Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10189. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10190. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

10191. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

10198. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10199. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10201. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 688
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Glenmark)

10202. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen, Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10203. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10204. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

10205. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

10206. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

10213. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10214. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10215. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

10217. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 689
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10218. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen, Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10219. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10225. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 690
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Glenmark)

10226. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen, Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10227. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10232. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10235. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10236. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

26. Causes of Action on Behalf of the North Carolina-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 691
Violation of the North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10238. North Carolina Class Representatives Acia D'amore, Patricia Frazier, Teresa Lee, Sharon Parks, Dennis Robbins, and Julie Turner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10239. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10240. Defendant was and is engaged in "commerce" within the meaning of N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(b).

10241. The North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("North Carolina UDTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in or affecting commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce," N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(a), and provides a private right of action for any person injured "by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of" the law. N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-16.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10248. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10249. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10251. As a result of Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the North Carolina UDTPA.

COUNT 692
Unjust Enrichment
(North Carolina Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10252. North Carolina Class Representatives Acia D'amore, Patricia Frazier, Teresa Lee, Sharon Parks, Dennis Robbins, and Julie Turner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10253. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10254. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10255. The benefit provided by Plaintiffs and the Class members was not conferred gratuitously, and in exchange for their payment of the purchase price of Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, Plaintiffs and the Class members received the Ranitidine-Containing Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

27. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Ohio-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 694
Unjust Enrichment
(Ohio Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10272. Ohio Class Representatives Michael Galloway and Patricia Hess incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10273. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Ohio-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10274. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10279. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 695
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ohio Rev. Code Ann. §1302.27)
(Against Glenmark)

10280. Ohio Class Representatives Michael Galloway and Patricia Hess incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10281. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Ohio-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10286. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10289. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10291. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

28. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Oklahoma-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 696
Violation of the Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act
(Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §751, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10292. Oklahoma Class Representative Demarco Grayson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10293. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10294. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(1).

10295. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(2).

10296. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(7).

10297. The Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act ("Oklahoma CPA") prohibits numerous unlawful acts, including misleading representations, false advertisements, and false statements. Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753. The Oklahoma CPA defines "[d]eceptive trade practice" as "a misrepresentation, omission or other practice that has deceived or . . . mislead a person to the detriment of that person." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(13). The Oklahoma CPA defines "[u]nfair trade practice" as "any practice which offends established public policy or if the practice is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(14).

10298. The Oklahoma CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]ak[ing] a false representation, knowingly or with reason to know, as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, or quantities of the subject of a consumer transaction" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, style or model, if it is of another" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, the subject of a consumer transaction with intent not to sell it as advertised" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(8)); and

(d) "[c]ommit[ing] an unfair or deceptive trade practice as defined in Section 752" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(20)).

10299. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oklahoma CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

10300. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Oklahoma CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

10305. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Oklahoma CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10306. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10308. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oklahoma CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oklahoma CPA.

COUNT 697
Unjust Enrichment
(Oklahoma Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10309. Oklahoma Class Representative Demarco Grayson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10310. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10311. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10316. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 698
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Okla. Stat. tit. 12A §2-314)
(Against Glenmark)

10317. Oklahoma Class Representative Demarco Grayson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10318. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10323. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10326. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

29. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Oregon-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 699
Violation of the Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act
(Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10329. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10330. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10331. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(4).

10332. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(6).

10333. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(8).

10334. The Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act ("Oregon UTPA") prohibits "unlawful practice . . . in the course of the person's business." Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1).

10335. The Oregon UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, quantities or qualities that the real estate, goods or services do not have" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(e));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that real estate or goods are of a particular style or model, if the real estate, goods or services are of another" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] real estate, goods or services with intent not to provide the real estate, goods or services as advertised" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(i)); and

(d) "[e]ngag[ing] in any other unfair or deceptive conduct in trade or commerce" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(u)).

10336. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oregon UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

COUNT 702
Violation of the Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(73 Pa. Cons. Stat. §201-1, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10367. Pennsylvania Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Felicia Ball and Elmer Cook incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10368. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10369. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(2).

10370. Plaintiffs and the Class members purchased the Ranitidine-Containing Products "primarily for personal, family or household purposes" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-9.2(a).

10371. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(3).

10372. The Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Pennsylvania CPL") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 73 Pa. C.S. §201-3.

10373. The Pennsylvania CPL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(v));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(vii));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(ix)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(xxi)).

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

10376. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

10381. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10384. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Pennsylvania CPL.

10386. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10387. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom

10392. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

10393. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 704
Breach of Implied Warranty
(13 Pa. Cons. Stat. §2314)
(Against Glenmark)

10394. Pennsylvania Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Felicia Ball and Elmer Cook incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10395. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10400. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10403. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10405. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

31. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Puerto Rico-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 705
Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10406. Puerto Rico Class Representatives Sonia Diaz and Gloria Colon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10407. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10408. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10410. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed

10411. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

10412. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

10414. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

(P.R. Laws Ann. tit. 31, §3841)
(Against Glenmark)

10415. Puerto Rico Class Representatives Sonia Diaz and Gloria Colon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10416. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10421. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10424. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

32. Causes of Action on Behalf of the South Carolina-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 707
Violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act
(S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10427. South Carolina Class Representatives Annie Johnson, Michael Futrell, Jeffery Gunwall, Sharon Mclellan, and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10428. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10429. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(a).

10430. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(b).

10431. The South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act ("South Carolina UTPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-20(a).

10432. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

10438. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10439. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10441. As a result of Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the South Carolina UTPA.

33. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Tennessee-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 710
Violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-101, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10462. Tennessee Class Representatives Angela Taylor, Kenneth Hix, Eva Broughton, Rebecca Howard, Pam Turner, and Billie Walker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10463. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10464. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

10465. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

10466. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

10467. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

10468. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

10469. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

10470. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

10476. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10477. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10479. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Tennessee CPA.

(Against Glenmark)

10480. Tennessee Class Representatives Angela Taylor, Kenneth Hix, Eva Broughton, Rebecca Howard, Pam Turner, and Billie Walker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10481. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10482. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10484. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members'

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

10485. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

10487. There is no existing, enforceable contract governing this dispute.

10490. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10495. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10498. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10501. Texas Class Representatives Timberly Goble, Marianella Villanueva, Marilyn Abraham, Maria Eames, Tina Howard, Christopher Johnson, Gina Martinez, Tonya Overstreet, Gregory Alan Wayland, and Sylvia Yoshida incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10502. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10503. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(3).

10504. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

10505. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

10506. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

10507. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

10508. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

10509. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

10515. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

10516. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10517. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10520. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 714
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10521. Texas Class Representatives Timberly Goble, Marianella Villanueva, Marilyn Abraham, Maria Eames, Tina Howard, Christopher Johnson, Gina Martinez, Tonya Overstreet, Gregory Alan Wayland, and Sylvia Yoshida incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10522. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10523. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10526. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

10528. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 715
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Glenmark)

10529. Texas Class Representatives Timberly Goble, Marianella Villanueva, Marilyn Abraham, Maria Eames, Tina Howard, Christopher Johnson, Gina Martinez, Tonya Overstreet, Gregory Alan Wayland, and Sylvia Yoshida incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10530. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10535. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10538. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

35. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Utah-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 716
Violation of the Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act
(Utah. Code Ann. §13-11-1, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10541. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10542. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10543. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(6).

10544. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(5).

10545. Defendant was and is engaged in "consumer transactions" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(2)(a).

10546. The Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act ("Utah CSPA") prohibits any "deceptive act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(1). "An unconscionable act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction" also violates the Utah CSPA. Utah Code Ann. §13-11-5(1).

10547. The Utah CSPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction has sponsorship, approval, performance characteristics, accessories, uses, or benefits, if it has not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(a)); and

(b) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if it is not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(b)).

10548. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah CSPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; and

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not.

10554. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10555. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10557. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah CSPA.

COUNT 717
Violation of the Utah Truth in Advertising Law
(Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-1, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10558. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10559. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10560. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(17).

10561. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(7).

10562. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(4).

10563. The Utah Truth in Advertising Law ("Utah TAL") prohibits any deceptive practice undertaken "in the course of a person's business." Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1).

10564. The Utah TAL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(e));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(g));

(c) "advertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(i)); and

(d) "engag[ing] in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(t)).

10565. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah TAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products were both safe and effective for the lifetime of the product, when in fact, they were not;

(b) representing that consumption of Ranitidine-Containing Products had characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have;

(c) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, or grade when they are not;

(d) advertising Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(e) engaging in any other conduct that creates a likelihood of confusion.

10571. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10572. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10573. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

10574. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiff within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiff in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiff seeks all damages and relief to which Plaintiff and the Class members are entitled.

10575. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah TAL.

COUNT 718
Unjust Enrichment
(Utah Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10576. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10577. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10578. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10579. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

10583. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

36. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Vermont-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 720
Violation of the Vermont Consumer Fraud Act
(Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10596. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10597. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10598. Defendant is a "[s]eller" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(c).

10599. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(a).

10600. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(b).

10601. The Vermont consumer fraud act ("Vermont CFA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in commerce and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce." Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2453(a).

10608. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10609. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10611. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Vermont CFA.

COUNT 721
Unjust Enrichment
(Vermont Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10612. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10613. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10614. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10619. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

10620. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 722
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9A§2-314)
(Against Glenmark)

10621. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10622. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10627. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10630. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10632. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

37. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Virginia-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 723
Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10633. Virginia Class Representatives Karen Foster, Cheryl Banks, and Lynn Costley incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10634. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10635. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

10636. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

10637. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

10638. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

10639. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

10640. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

10641. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

10642. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Virginia CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

10648. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10649. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10651. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

10652. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Virginia CPA.

10720. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 730
Breach of Implied Warranty
(W. Va. Code §46-2-314)
(Against Glenmark)

10721. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10722. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10727. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10730. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

40. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Wisconsin-Glenmark Classes

COUNT 731
Violation of the Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18, et seq.)
(Against Glenmark)

10733. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10734. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10735. Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

10736. Plaintiff and the Class members are members of "the public" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

10737. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

10738. The Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Wisconsin DTPA") prohibits any "assertion, representation or statement of fact which is untrue, deceptive or misleading." Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

10739. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Wisconsin DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

10745. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Wisconsin DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10746. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10748. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Wisconsin DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Wisconsin DTPA.

COUNT 732
Unjust Enrichment
(Wisconsin Law)
(Against Glenmark)

10749. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10750. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10751. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10753. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

10754. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

10756. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

10757. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 733
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Wis. Stat. Ann. §402.314)
(Against Glenmark)

10758. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 46-52, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10759. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Glenmark Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Glenmark (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10764. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10767. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10768. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

D. Causes of Action Against Sandoz

10770. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Sandoz, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 60-62 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic Zantac); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469

(requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 845-867 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alabama-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 734
Violation of the Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ala. Code §8-19-1, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

10772. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin and Lashonnah Gaitor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10773. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10774. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(5).

10775. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(2).

10776. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(3).

10777. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade or commerce" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(8).

10778. The Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Alabama DTPA") prohibits "deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ala. Code §8-19-5.

10779. The Alabama DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(9)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(27)).

10780. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alabama DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of N-Nitrosodimethylamine ("NDMA") as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

10787. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10788. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10790. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Ala. Code §8-19-10(e) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

10791. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alabama DTPA.

COUNT 735
Unjust Enrichment
(Alabama Law)
(Against Sandoz)

10792. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin and Lashonnah Gaitor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10793. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10794. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10797. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

10799. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alaska-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 736
Violation of the Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act
(Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

10800. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10801. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10802. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.561(a)(4).

10803. The Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act ("Alaska CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(a).

10804. The Alaska CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(4));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(6));

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(8));

(d) "engaging in any other conduct creating a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding and that misleads, deceives, or damages a buyer or a competitor in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(11)); and

(e) "using or employing deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, or knowingly concealing, suppressing, or omitting a material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services whether or not a person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(12)).

10805. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alaska CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

10808. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

10811. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10812. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10813. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

10815. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alaska CPA.

COUNT 737
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(Alaska Law)
(Against Sandoz)

10816. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10817. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10818. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10821. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

10823. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 738
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

10824. Arizona Class Representatives Monica Costello, Jennifer Fox, and Armando Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10825. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10827. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

10828. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

10829. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed..

10832. Defendant's misreprsentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a unform manner.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10835. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

10836. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10837. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10839. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 739

(Arizona Law)
(Against Sandoz)

10840. Arizona Class Representatives Monica Costello, Jennifer Fox, and Armando Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10841. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10842. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10847. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 740
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

10848. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager, Andy Green Jr., and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10849. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10850. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

10851. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

10852. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

10853. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

10854. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

10855. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

10857. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

10858. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

10861. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

10862. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10863. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10865. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 741
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Sandoz)

10866. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager, Andy Green Jr., and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10867. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10868. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10873. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

10874. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 742
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Sandoz)

10875. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager, Andy Green Jr., and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10876. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10881. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10882. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10884. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10885. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 743
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

10887. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10888. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10889. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

10890. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

10891. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

10897. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

10898. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

10899. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21

C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

10900. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10901. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10903. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 744
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

10904. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10905. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10906. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

10907. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

10908. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

10909. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

10910. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

10914. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10915. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10917. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 745
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

10918. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10919. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10920. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

10921. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

10922. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

10923. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

10924. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

10925. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

10927. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

10931. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

10932. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10935. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Sandoz)

10936. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10937. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10938. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.
