10943. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 747
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Sandoz)

10944. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10945. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10948. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10950. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

10953. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Colorado-Sandoz Classes

Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)

10956. Colorado Class Representative Jeffrey Pisano incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10957. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

10958. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

10959. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

10960. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

10961. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Such conduct was bad faith conduct under the Colorado CPA.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

10967. Plaintiff and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

10968. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10969. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

10971. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Colorado CPA.

COUNT 749
Unjust Enrichment
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

10972. Colorado Class Representative Jeffrey Pisano incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10973. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

10974. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

10976. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

10979. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 750
Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

10980. Connecticut Class Representatives Angel Cordero and Angel Vega incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10981. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

10982. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

10983. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

10984. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

10985. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

10991. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

10994. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

(Connecticut Law)
(Against Sandoz)

10995. Connecticut Class Representatives Angel Cordero and Angel Vega incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

10996. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11000. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

11002. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 752
Violation of the District of Columbia Consumer Protection Procedures Act
(D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901, et seq.)

11003. District of Columbia Class Representative and Kevin Nelson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11004. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the District of Columbia-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11005. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(1).

11006. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(2).

11007. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(7).

11008. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade practice[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(6).

11009. The District of Columbia Consumer Protection Procedures Act ("District of Columbia CPPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive trade practice, whether or not any consumer is in fact misled, deceived, or damaged thereby." D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904.

11010. The District of Columbia CPPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have a source, sponsorship, approval, certification, accessories, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(a));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if in fact they are of another" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(d));

(c) "advertis[ing] or offer[ing] goods or services without the intent to sell them or without the intent to sell them as advertised or offered" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(h));

(d) "misrepresent as to a material fact which has a tendency to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(e));

(e) "fail to state a material fact if such failure tends to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(f)); and

(f) "[u]se innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact, which has a tendency to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(f-1)).

11011. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the District of Columbia CPPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive;

(e) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid; and

(f) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

11030. Florida Class Representatives Irma Arcaya, Roy Armstrong, Jeannie Black, Sonia Diaz, Michael Fesser, Karen Foster, Michael Galloway, Hattie Kelley, Marva Mccall, Clifton McKinnon, Ana Pereira, Daniel Taylor, Joyce Taylor, and Michael Tomlinson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11031. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11033. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

11034. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

11035. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

11036. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

11042. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11043. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

11045. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

(Florida Law)
(Against Sandoz)

11046. Florida Class Representatives Irma Arcaya, Roy Armstrong, Jeannie Black, Sonia Diaz, Michael Fesser, Karen Foster, Michael Galloway, Hattie Kelley, Marva Mccall, Clifton McKinnon, Ana Pereira, Daniel Taylor, Joyce Taylor, and Michael Tomlinson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11047. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11050. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

11051. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

11053. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

11054. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 756
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

11055. Georgia Class Representatives Roy Armstrong, Earlene Green, Leon Greene, Tyrone Houston, Kathy Jeffries, Charlotte Sanders, Paula Shells, Cynthia Starr, and Angela Taylor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11056. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11057. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

11058. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

11059. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

11060. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

11061. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

11062. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Georgia FBPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

11068. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

11069. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11070. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

11073. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

11084. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Idaho-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11085. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Idaho Code Ann. §48-602(1).

11086. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Idaho Code Ann. §48-602(6).

11087. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Idaho Code Ann. §48-602(2).

11088. The Idaho Consumer Protection Act ("Idaho CPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Idaho Code Ann. §48-603.

11089. The Idaho CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Idaho Code Ann. §48-603(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Idaho Code Ann. §48-603(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Idaho Code Ann. §48-603(9)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any act or practice which is otherwise misleading, false, or deceptive to the consumer" (Idaho Code Ann. §48-603(17)).

11090. Idaho law also prohibits "[a]ny unconscionable method, act or practice in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Idaho Code Ann. §48-603C(1).

11091. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Idaho CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

11143. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11148. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11151. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

14. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Iowa-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 764
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)

11154. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield and Tracy Losee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11155. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11156. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

11157. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

11158. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

11159. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Defendant did so with willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others.

11165. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Iowa PRACFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11169. Additionally, because Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, were undertaken in willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others, pursuant to Iowa Code §714H.5(4), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an additonal award of treble damages.

COUNT 765
Unjust Enrichment
(Iowa Law)
(Against Sandoz)

11170. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield and Tracy Losee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11171. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11175. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

11177. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 766
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Iowa Code Ann. §554.2314)
(Against Sandoz)

11178. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield and Tracy Losee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11179. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11184. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11187. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

15. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Kentucky-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 767
Violation of the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

11190. Kentucky Class Representatives Timberly Goble and Janet Asbury incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11191. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11192. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(1).

11193. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(2).

11194. The Kentucky Consumer Protection Act ("Kentucky CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, [unconscionable], false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.170(1)-(2).

11195. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Kentucky CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

11201. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11202. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

11204. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Kentucky CPA.

16. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Louisiana-Sandoz Classes

Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

11225. Louisiana Class Representatives Randy Jones and Jamie Mckay incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11226. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11227. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

11228. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

11229. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

11230. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

11231. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

11237. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

11238. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11239. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

11241. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

COUNT 771
Unjust Enrichment
(Louisiana Law)

11242. Louisiana Class Representatives Randy Jones and Jamie Mckay incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11243. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11247. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs for the Ranitidine Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiffs of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

(La. Civ. Code Ann. art. §2520)

11251. Louisiana Class Representatives Randy Jones and Jamie Mckay incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11252. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11255. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11257. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11260. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Maryland Consumer Protection Act
(Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

11263. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11264. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11265. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(h).

11266. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(c)(1).

11267. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(f).

11268. The Maryland Consumer Protection Act ("Maryland CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, abusive, or deceptive trade practices." Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301.

11269. The Maryland CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[f]alse, falsely disparaging, or misleading oral or written statement, visual description, or other representation of any kind which has the capacity, tendency, or effect of deceiving or misleading consumers" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(1));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services have a sponsorship, approval, accessory, characteristic, ingredient, use, benefit, or quantity which they do not have" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(i));

(c) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model which they are not" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(iv));

(d) "[f]ailure to state a material fact if the failure deceives or tends to deceive" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(3));

(e) "[a]dvertis[ing] or offer[ing] of consumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services . . . [w]ithout intent to sell, lease, or rent them as advertised or offered" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(5)(i)); and

(f) "[d]eception, fraud, false pretense, false premise, misrepresentation, or knowing concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with the intent that a consumer rely on the same in connection with . . . [t]he promotion or sale of any consumer goods" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(9)(i)).

11270. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Maryland CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are defective and inherently dangerous in the course of the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

11277. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11280. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Maryland CPA.

COUNT 774
Unjust Enrichment
(Maryland Law)

11281. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11282. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

11286. It would be unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

11288. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 775
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Md. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Sandoz)

11289. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11290. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11293. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11295. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11298. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

18. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Sandoz Class

Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

11301. Massachussetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11302. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11303. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

11304. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

11305. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

11306. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

11312. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11313. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §9(3) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

11316. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

COUNT 777
Unjust Enrichment
(Massachusetts Law)

11317. Massachussetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11318. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

11322. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

11325. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

11327. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11330. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11332. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11333. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11334. (c) "[a]dvertising or representing goods or services with intent not to dispose of those goods or services as advertised or represented" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(g)).

11344. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

11368. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

11375. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11378. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

Unjust Enrichment
(Minnesota Law)

11379. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11380. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11386. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)

11387. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11388. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11391. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11393. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11394. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11395. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

11396. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

11457. Nevada Class Representative Monica Costello incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11458. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Nevada-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11459. The Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Nevada DTPA"), prohibits the use of "'deceptive trade practices' . . . in the course of . . . business or occupation." Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915.

11460. The Nevada DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations or quantities of goods or services for sale or lease or a false representation as to the sponsorship, approval, status, affiliation or connection of a person therewith" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods or services for sale or lease are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that such goods are of a particular style or model, if he or she knows or should know that they are of another standard, quality, grade, style or model" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell or lease them as advertised" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(9));

(d) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] any other false representation in a transaction" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(15)); and

(e) "[f]ail[ing] to disclose a material fact in connection with the sale or lease of goods or services" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0923(2)).

11461. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Nevada DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose the NDMA danger in connection with the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

11467. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Nevada DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11468. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

11470. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Nevada DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Nevada DTPA.

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

11478. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

11479. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

24. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Hampshire-Sandoz Classes

Violation of the New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

11480. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11481. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11482. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(I).

11483. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(II).

11484. The New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act ("New Hampshire CPA") prohibits "any unfair method of competition or any unfair or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of any trade or commerce." N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2.

11485. The New Hampshire CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(V));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(VII)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(IX)).

11486. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Hampshire CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

11492. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of New Hampshire CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11495. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Hampshire CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Hampshire CPA.

COUNT 792
Unjust Enrichment
(New Hampshire Law)

11496. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11497. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11501. It is unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

11503. There is no valid, express contract governing this dispute.

11504. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 793
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §382-A:2-314)
(Against Sandoz)

11505. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11506. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11509. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11511. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11514. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

25. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Jersey-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 794
Violation of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.)

11517. New Jersey Class Representatives James Adamo, Sayed Eldomiaty, Mary McMillian, Mary Moronski, and Lynn White incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11518. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11519. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(d).

11520. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

11521. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act ("New Jersey CFA") by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material

facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

11527. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11528. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

11530. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

26. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 797
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)

11551. New Mexico Class Representatives Phyllis Gallegos, Josefina Griego, Carrie Martinez, Inez Mazon, Ernesto Sanchez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11552. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11553. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

11554. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

11555. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services

. . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

11556. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

11557. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

11563. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11574. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

11582. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11585. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

27. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 800
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Sandoz)

11588. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen, Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11589. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11590. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

11591. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

11592. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

11598. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11601. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Sandoz)

11603. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11604. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

11606. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

11613. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11617. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 802
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)

11618. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11619. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11625. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 803
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Sandoz)

11626. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11627. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11630. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11632. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11634. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

11635. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

28. Causes of Action on Behalf of the North Carolina-Sandoz Classes

Violation of the North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

11638. North Carolina Class Representatives Acia D'amore, Patricia Frazier, Teresa Lee, Sharon Parks, Dennis Robbins, and Julie Turner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11639. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11640. Defendant was and is engaged in "commerce" within the meaning of N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(b).

11641. The North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("North Carolina UDTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in or affecting commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce," N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(a), and provides a private right of action for any person injured "by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of" the law. N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-16.

11642. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the North Carolina UDTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

11648. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11651. As a result of Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the North Carolina UDTPA.

COUNT 805
Unjust Enrichment
(North Carolina Law)

11652. North Carolina Class Representatives Acia D'amore, Patricia Frazier, Teresa Lee, Sharon Parks, Dennis Robbins, and Julie Turner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11653. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11655. The benefit provided by Plaintiffs and the Class members was not conferred gratuitously, and in exchange for their payment of the purchase price of Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, Plaintiffs and the Class members received the Ranitidine-Containing Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

11657. It is unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

11659. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

11679. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 808
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ohio Rev. Code Ann. §1302.27)
(Against Sandoz)

11680. Ohio Class Representatives Michael Galloway and Patricia Hess incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11681. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Ohio-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11689. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

30. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Oklahoma-Sandoz Classes

Violation of the Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act
(Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §751, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

11692. Oklahoma Class Representatives Billy Naab and Demarco Grayson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11693. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11694. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(1).

11695. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(2).

11696. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(7).

11697. The Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act ("Oklahoma CPA") prohibits numerous unlawful acts, including misleading representations, false advertisements, and false statements. Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753. The Oklahoma CPA defines "[d]eceptive trade practice" as "a misrepresentation, omission or other practice that has deceived or . . . mislead a person to the detriment of that person." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(13). The Oklahoma CPA defines "[u]nfair trade practice" as "any practice which offends established public policy or if the practice is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(14).

11698. The Oklahoma CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]ak[ing] a false representation, knowingly or with reason to know, as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, or quantities of the subject of a consumer transaction" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, style or model, if it is of another" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, the subject of a consumer transaction with intent not to sell it as advertised" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(8)); and

(d) "[c]ommit[ing] an unfair or deceptive trade practice as defined in Section 752" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(20)).

11699. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oklahoma CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

11705. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Oklahoma CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11708. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oklahoma CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oklahoma CPA.

COUNT 810
Unjust Enrichment
(Oklahoma Law)

11709. Oklahoma Class Representatives Billy Naab and Demarco Grayson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11710. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11716. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 811
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Okla. Stat. tit. 12A §2-314)
(Against Sandoz)

11717. Oklahoma Class Representatives Billy Naab and Demarco Grayson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11718. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11723. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11726. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

31. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Oregon-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 812
Violation of the Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act
(Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

11729. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11730. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11732. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(6).

11733. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(8).

11734. The Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act ("Oregon UTPA") prohibits "unlawful practice . . . in the course of the person's business." Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1).

11735. The Oregon UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, quantities or qualities that the real estate, goods or services do not have" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(e));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that real estate or goods are of a particular style or model, if the real estate, goods or services are of another" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] real estate, goods or services with intent not to provide the real estate, goods or services as advertised" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(i)); and

(d) "[e]ngag[ing] in any other unfair or deceptive conduct in trade or commerce" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(u)).

11736. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oregon UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

11742. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11743. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

11745. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oregon UTPA.

COUNT 815
Violation of the Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(73 Pa. Cons. Stat. §201-1, et seq.)

11767. Pennsylvania Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Felicia Ball, and Elmer Cook incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11768. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11769. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(2).

11770. Plaintiffs and the Class members purchased the Ranitidine-Containing Products "primarily for personal, family or household purposes" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-9.2(a).

11771. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(3).

11772. The Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Pennsylvania CPL") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 73 Pa. C.S. §201-3.

11773. The Pennsylvania CPL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(v));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(vii));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(ix)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(xxi)).

11774. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Pennsylvania CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

11780. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

11781. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

11784. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Pennsylvania CPL.

(13 Pa. Cons. Stat. §2314)

11794. Pennsylvania Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Felicia Ball, and Elmer Cook incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11795. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11800. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11803. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

33. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Puerto Rico-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 818
Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)

11806. Puerto Rico Class Representatives Sonia Diaz and Gloria Colon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11807. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed

11811. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

11814. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 819
Breach of Implied Warranty
(P.R. Laws Ann. tit. 31, §3841)
(Against Sandoz)

11815. Puerto Rico Class Representatives Sonia Diaz and Gloria Colon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11816. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11821. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11824. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

34. Causes of Action on Behalf of the South Carolina-Sandoz Classes

Violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act
(S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10, et seq.)

11827. South Carolina Class Representatives Annie Johnson, Michael Futrell, Jeffery Gunwall, Sharon Mclellan, and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11828. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11829. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(a).

11830. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(b).

11831. The South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act ("South Carolina UTPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-20(a).

11832. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

11838. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11841. As a result of Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the South Carolina UTPA.

COUNT 821
Unjust Enrichment
(South Carolina Law)

11842. South Carolina Class Representatives Annie Johnson, Michael Futrell, Jeffery Gunwall, Sharon Mclellan, and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11843. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

11849. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 822
Breach of Implied Warranty
(S.C. Code Ann. §36-2-314)

11850. South Carolina Class Representatives Annie Johnson, Michael Futrell, Jeffery Gunwall, Sharon Mclellan, and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11851. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11856. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11859. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

35. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Tennessee-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 823
Violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-101, et seq.)

11862. Tennessee Class Representatives Angela Taylor, Kenneth Hix, Eva Broughton, Rebecca Howard, Pam Turner, and Billie Walker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11863. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11864. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

11865. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

11866. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

11867. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

11868. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

11869. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

11870. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

11876. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11877. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

11879. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Tennessee CPA.

COUNT 824
Unjust Enrichment
(Tennessee Law)

11880. Tennessee Class Representatives Angela Taylor, Kenneth Hix, Eva Broughton, Rebecca Howard, Pam Turner, and Billie Walker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11881. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

11885. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

11887. There is no existing, enforceable contract governing this dispute.

11888. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 825
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-2-314)
(Against Sandoz)

11889. Tennessee Class Representatives Angela Taylor, Kenneth Hix, Eva Broughton, Rebecca Howard, Pam Turner, and Billie Walker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11890. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11895. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11898. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

11907. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

11908. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

11909. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

11916. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11920. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 827
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Sandoz)

11921. Texas Class Representatives Timberly Goble, Marianella Villanueva, Marilyn Abraham, Maria Eames, Tina Howard, Christopher Johnson, Gina Martinez, Tonya Overstreet, Gregory Alan Wayland, and Sylvia Yoshida incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11922. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11926. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

11928. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 828
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Sandoz)

11929. Texas Class Representatives Timberly Goble, Marianella Villanueva, Marilyn Abraham, Maria Eames, Tina Howard, Christopher Johnson, Gina Martinez, Tonya Overstreet, Gregory Alan Wayland, and Sylvia Yoshida incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11930. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11935. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

11938. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

37. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Utah-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 829
Violation of the Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act
(Utah. Code Ann. §13-11-1, et seq.)

11941. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11942. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11943. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(6).

11944. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(5).

11945. Defendant was and is engaged in "consumer transactions" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(2)(a).

11946. The Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act ("Utah CSPA") prohibits any "deceptive act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(1). "An unconscionable act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction" also violates the Utah CSPA. Utah Code Ann. §13-11-5(1).

11947. The Utah CSPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction has sponsorship, approval, performance characteristics, accessories, uses, or benefits, if it has not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(a)); and

(b) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if it is not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(b)).

11948. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah CSPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; and

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not.

11954. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11955. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

11956. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

11957. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah CSPA.

COUNT 830
Violation of the Utah Truth in Advertising Law
(Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-1, et seq.)

11958. Utah Class Representatives Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11959. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11960. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(17).

11961. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(7).

11962. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(4).

11964. The Utah TAL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(e));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(g));

(c) "advertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(i)); and

(d) "engag[ing] in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(t)).

11965. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah TAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products were both safe and effective for the lifetime of the product, when in fact, they were not;

(b) representing that consumption of Ranitidine-Containing Products had characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have;

(c) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, or grade when they are not;

(d) advertising Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(e) engaging in any other conduct that creates a likelihood of confusion.

11971. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

11972. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

11975. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah TAL.

Violation of the Vermont Consumer Fraud Act
(Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451, et seq.)

11996. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

11997. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

11998. Defendant is a "[s]eller" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(c).

11999. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(a).

12000. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(b).

12001. The Vermont consumer fraud act ("Vermont CFA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in commerce and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce." Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2453(a).

12002. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Vermont CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

12008. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12011. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Vermont CFA.

COUNT 834
Unjust Enrichment
(Vermont Law)

12012. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12013. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12019. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

12020. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 835
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9A§2-314)
(Against Sandoz)

12021. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12022. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12027. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12030. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

39. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Virginia-Sandoz Classes

COUNT 836
Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)
(Against Sandoz)

12033. Virginia Class Representatives Karen Foster, Cheryl Banks, and Lynn Costley incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12034. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12035. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

12036. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

12037. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

12038. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

12039. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

12040. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

12041. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

12048. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12052. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Virginia CPA.

12074. Washington Class Representatives Billy Naab, Steve Fischer, Dave Garber, and Bridget Peck incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12075. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12077. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

12078. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

12079. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

12080. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

12127. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12128. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

42. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Wisconsin-Sandoz Class

COUNT 844
Violation of the Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18, et seq.)

12133. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12134. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12135. Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

12136. Plaintiff and the Class members are members of "the public" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

12137. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

12138. The Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Wisconsin DTPA") prohibits any "assertion, representation or statement of fact which is untrue, deceptive or misleading." Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

12139. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Wisconsin DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

12145. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Wisconsin DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12146. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12148. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Wisconsin DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Wisconsin DTPA.

COUNT 845
Unjust Enrichment
(Wisconsin Law)

12149. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12150. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

12154. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

12156. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

12157. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 846
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Wis. Stat. Ann. §402.314)

12158. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 60-62, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12159. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Sandoz Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Sandoz (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12164. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12165. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12167. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

E. Causes of Action Against Strides

12170. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Strides, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 63-66 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic Zantac); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469

(requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 845-867 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

12171. 1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alabama-Strides Classes

COUNT 847
Violation of the Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ala. Code §8-19-1, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12172. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin and Lashonnah Gaitor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12173. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12174. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(5).

12175. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(2).

12176. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(3).

12177. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade or commerce" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(8).

12179. The Alabama DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(9)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(27)).

12180. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alabama DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of N-Nitrosodimethylamine ("NDMA") as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

12186. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

12187. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12190. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Ala. Code §8-19-10(e) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

12191. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alabama DTPA.

COUNT 848
Unjust Enrichment
(Alabama Law)
(Against Strides)

12192. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin and Lashonnah Gaitor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12193. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12197. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

12199. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alaska-Strides Classes

COUNT 849
Violation of the Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act
(Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12200. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12201. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12202. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.561(a)(4).

12203. The Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act ("Alaska CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(a).

12204. The Alaska CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(4));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(6));

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(8));

(d) "engaging in any other conduct creating a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding and that misleads, deceives, or damages a buyer or a competitor in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(11)); and

(e) "using or employing deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, or knowingly concealing, suppressing, or omitting a material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services whether or not a person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(12)).

12205. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alaska CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

12208. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

12211. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12212. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12215. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alaska CPA.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(Alaska Law)

12216. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12217. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12218. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

12221. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

12223. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Strides Classes

COUNT 851
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12224. Arizona Class Representatives Monica Costello, Jennifer Fox, and Armando Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12225. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12227. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

12228. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

12232. Defendant's misreprsentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a unform manner.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

12235. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

12236. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12239. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

12240. Arizona Class Representatives Monica Costello, Jennifer Fox, and Armando Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12241. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12247. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Strides Classes

COUNT 853
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12248. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12249. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12250. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

12251. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

12252. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

12253. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

12254. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

12255. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

12261. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

12262. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12265. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

(Against Strides)

12266. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12267. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12273. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

12274. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 855
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Strides)

12275. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12276. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12281. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12284. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Strides Classes

COUNT 856
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12287. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12288. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12289. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

12290. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

12291. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

12297. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

12299. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21

C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

12300. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12301. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12303. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 857
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12304. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12305. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12307. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

12308. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

12314. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12317. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 858
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12318. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12319. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12320. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

12321. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

12322. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

12323. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

12324. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

12325. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

12331. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

12332. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12335. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Strides)

12336. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12337. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12343. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 860
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Strides)

12344. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12345. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12348. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12350. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12353. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Connecticut-Strides Class

Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12356. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Cordero incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12357. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12358. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

12359. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

12360. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

12361. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

12367. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12368. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12369. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

12370. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

COUNT 862
Unjust Enrichment
(Connecticut Law)
(Against Strides)

12371. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Cordero incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12372. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12373. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

12378. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the District of Columbia-Strides Classes

COUNT 863
Violation of the District of Columbia Consumer Protection Procedures Act
(D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901, et seq.)

12379. District of Columbia Class Representative Kevin Nelson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12380. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the District of Columbia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12381. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(1).

12382. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(2).

12383. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(7).

12384. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade practice[s]" within the meaning of D.C. Code Ann. §28-3901(a)(6).

12385. The District of Columbia Consumer Protection Procedures Act ("District of Columbia CPPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive trade practice, whether or not any consumer is in fact misled, deceived, or damaged thereby." D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904.

12386. The District of Columbia CPPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have a source, sponsorship, approval, certification, accessories, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(a));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if in fact they are of another" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(d));

(c) "advertis[ing] or offer[ing] goods or services without the intent to sell them or without the intent to sell them as advertised or offered" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(h));

(d) "misrepresent as to a material fact which has a tendency to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(e));

(e) "fail to state a material fact if such failure tends to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(f)); and

(f) "[u]se innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact, which has a tendency to mislead" (D.C. Code Ann. §28-3904(f-1)).

12387. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the District of Columbia CPPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the District of Columbia CPPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive;

(e) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid; and

(f) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

12393. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the District of Columbia CPPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12394. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12396. As a result of Defendant's violations of the District of Columbia CPPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the District of Columbia CPPA.

COUNT 864
Unjust Enrichment
(District of Columbia Law)

12397. District of Columbia Class Representative Kevin Nelson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12398. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the District of Columbia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12399. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

12404. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

12405. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Florida-Strides Classes

COUNT 865
Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12406. Florida Class Representatives Irma Arcaya, Jeannie Black, Sonia Diaz, Michael Fesser, Karen Foster, Hattie Kelley, Marva Mccall, Clifton McKinnon, Ana Pereira, Daniel Taylor, Joyce Taylor, and Michael Tomlinson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12407. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12409. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

12410. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

12411. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

12412. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

12418. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12421. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

COUNT 866
Unjust Enrichment
(Florida Law)
(Against Strides)

12422. Florida Class Representatives Irma Arcaya, Jeannie Black, Sonia Diaz, Michael Fesser, Karen Foster, Hattie Kelley, Marva Mccall, Clifton McKinnon, Ana Pereira, Daniel Taylor, Joyce Taylor, and Michael Tomlinson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12423. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12427. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

12429. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

12430. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Strides Classes

COUNT 867
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12431. Georgia Class Representatives Earlene Green, Leon Greene, Tyrone Houston, Kathy Jeffries, Charlotte Sanders, Paula Shells, Cynthia Starr, and Angela Taylor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12432. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12433. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

12434. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

12435. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

12436. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

12437. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

12438. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

12444. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

12445. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12446. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12448. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-399(b) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

12449. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

12450. Georgia Class Representatives Earlene Green, Leon Greene, Tyrone Houston, Kathy Jeffries, Charlotte Sanders, Paula Shells, Cynthia Starr, and Angela Taylor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12451. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

12455. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

12457. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

12458. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

12460. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12462. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

12463. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

12464. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

12465. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

12466. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

12472. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12473. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12475. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

12481. It violates the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

12484. Indiana Class Representatives Teresa Dowler, Timberly Goble, Alyson Humphrey, Rebecca Sizemore, and Tracy Wells incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12485. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

12488. 12489. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

12491. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 872
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ind. Code. Ann. §26-1-2-314)
(Against Strides)

12492. Indiana Class Representatives Teresa Dowler, Timberly Goble, Alyson Humphrey, Rebecca Sizemore, and Tracy Wells incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12493. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12498. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12500. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

12501. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Iowa-Strides Classes

COUNT 873
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12504. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield and Tracy Losee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12505. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12506. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

12507. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

12508. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

12509. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Defendant did so with willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others.

12515. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Iowa PRACFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12518. As a result of Defendants' violations of the Iowa PRACFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendants' unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Iowa PRACFA.

12519. Additionally, because Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, were undertaken in willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others, pursuant to Iowa Code §714H.5(4), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an additonal award of treble damages.

12520. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield and Tracy Losee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12521. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

12525. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

12527. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 875
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Iowa Code Ann. §554.2314)
(Against Strides)

12528. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield and Tracy Losee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12529. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12534. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12537. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Kentucky-Strides Classes

COUNT 876
Violation of the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110, et seq.)

12540. Kentucky Class Representative Timberly Goble incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12541. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12542. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(1).

12543. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(2).

12544. The Kentucky Consumer Protection Act ("Kentucky CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, [unconscionable], false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.170(1)-(2).

12545. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Kentucky CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

12551. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12552. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12554. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Kentucky CPA.

COUNT 877
Unjust Enrichment

12563. Kentucky Class Representative Timberly Goble incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12564. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12569. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12570. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12572. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12575. Louisiana Class Representatives Randy Jones and Jamie Mckay incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12576. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12577. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

12578. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

12579. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

12580. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

12581. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

12588. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12589. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12591. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

12597. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs for the Ranitidine Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiffs of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

15. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Maryland-Strides Classes

COUNT 882
Violation of the Maryland Consumer Protection Act
(Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12613. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12614. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12615. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(h).

12616. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(c)(1).

12617. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(f).

12618. The Maryland Consumer Protection Act ("Maryland CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, abusive, or deceptive trade practices." Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301.

12619. The Maryland CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[f]alse, falsely disparaging, or misleading oral or written statement, visual description, or other representation of any kind which has the capacity, tendency, or effect of deceiving or misleading consumers" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(1));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services have a sponsorship, approval, accessory, characteristic, ingredient, use, benefit, or quantity which they do not have" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(i));

(c) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model which they are not" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(iv));

(d) "[f]ailure to state a material fact if the failure deceives or tends to deceive" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(3));

(e) "[a]dvertis[ing] or offer[ing] of consumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services . . . [w]ithout intent to sell, lease, or rent them as advertised or offered" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(5)(i)); and

(f) "[d]eception, fraud, false pretense, false premise, misrepresentation, or knowing concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with the intent that a consumer rely on the same in connection with . . . [t]he promotion or sale of any consumer goods" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(9)(i)).

12620. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Maryland CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are defective and inherently dangerous in the course of the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

12627. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12630. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Maryland CPA.

(Maryland Law)

12631. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12632. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12636. It would be unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

value thereof, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

12638. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 884
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Md. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Strides)

12639. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Alberta Griffin, and Darlene Whittington-Coates incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12640. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12645. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12648. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

16. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Strides Classes

COUNT 885
Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12651. Massachusetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12652. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12653. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

12654. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

12655. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

12656. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-

Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

12662. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12666. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

COUNT 886
Unjust Enrichment
(Massachusetts Law)
(Against Strides)

12667. Massachusetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12668. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12672. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

12673. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

12675. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 887
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 106 §2-314)
(Against Strides)

12676. Massachusetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12677. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12682. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12685. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Michigan-Strides Classes

COUNT 888
Violation of the Michigan Consumer Protection Act
(Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.901, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12688. Michigan Class Representatives Myra Allen, Jody Beal, Benny Cope, Arthur Gamble, Jerry Hunt, Judy Wilmot, and Lakisha Wilson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12689. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12690. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(d).

12691. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(g).

12692. The Michigan Consumer Protection Act ("Michigan CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts, or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1).

12693. The Michigan CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(c));

(c) "[a]dvertising or representing goods or services with intent not to dispose of those goods or services as advertised or represented" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(g)).

12694. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

12700. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12703. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Michigan CPA.

(Against Strides)

12704. Michigan Class Representatives Myra Allen, Jody Beal, Benny Cope, Arthur Gamble, Jerry Hunt, Judy Wilmot, and Lakisha Wilson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12705. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12711. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

12712. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

18. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Strides Classes

COUNT 890
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)

12713. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12714. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12715. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

12716. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

12717. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

12718. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

12724. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

12725. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12726. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12728. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 891
Unjust Enrichment
(Minnesota Law)

12729. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12730. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12736. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 892
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)

12737. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12738. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12741. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12743. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12746. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

19. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Mississippi-Strides Classes

COUNT 893
Unjust Enrichment
(Mississippi Law)
(Against Strides)

12749. Mississippi Class Representatives Martha Summers, Beverly Crosby, Dorothy King, Lora Mauffray, Korcis McMillan, Michelle Tinker, and David Weatherly incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12750. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12756. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

12757. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

(Miss. Code Ann. §75-2-314)

12758. Mississippi Class Representatives Martha Summers, Beverly Crosby, Dorothy King, Lora Mauffray, Korcis McMillan, Michelle Tinker, and David Weatherly incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12759. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12764. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12767. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law

20. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Missouri-Strides Classes

COUNT 895
Violation of the Missouri Merchandising Practices Act
(Mo. Rev. Stat. §407.010, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12770. Missouri Class Representatives Elaine Aaron, Lisa Deckard, Cynthia Gibbs, and Brenda Newcomb incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12771. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12772. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(5).

12773. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(7).

12774. The Missouri Merchandising Practices Act ("Missouri MPA") prohibits "act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, unfair practice or the concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise in trade or commerce." Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.020(1).

12775. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Missouri MPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-

Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

12781. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Missouri MPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12784. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Missouri MPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Missouri MPA.

COUNT 898
Violation of the Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0903, et seq.)

12807. Nevada Class Representative Monica Costello incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12808. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Nevada-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12809. The Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Nevada DTPA"), prohibits the use of "'deceptive trade practices' . . . in the course of . . . business or occupation." Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915.

12810. The Nevada DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations or quantities of goods or services for sale or lease or a false representation as to the sponsorship, approval, status, affiliation or connection of a person therewith" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods or services for sale or lease are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that such goods are of a particular style or model, if he or she knows or should know that they are of another standard, quality, grade, style or model" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell or lease them as advertised" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(9));

(d) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] any other false representation in a transaction" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(15)); and

(e) "[f]ail[ing] to disclose a material fact in connection with the sale or lease of goods or services" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0923(2)).

12811. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Nevada DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose the NDMA danger in connection with the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

12831. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12832. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(I).

12833. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(II).

12834. The New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act ("New Hampshire CPA") prohibits "any unfair method of competition or any unfair or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of any trade or commerce." N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2.

12835. The New Hampshire CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(V));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(VII)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(IX)).

12836. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Hampshire CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

12851. It is unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

12853. There is no valid, express contract governing this dispute.

12854. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 902
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §382-A:2-314)
(Against Strides)

12855. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12856. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12859. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12861. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12864. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

23. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Jersey-Strides Classes

COUNT 903
Violation of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12867. New Jersey Class Representatives Sayed Eldomiaty, Mary McMillian, Mary Moronski, and Lynn White incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12868. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12869. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(d).

12870. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

12877. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12880. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

COUNT 904
Unjust Enrichment
(New Jersey Law)
(Against Strides)

12881. New Jersey Class Representatives Sayed Eldomiaty, Mary McMillian , Mary Moronski, and Lynn White incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12882. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12888. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

(N.J. Stat. Ann. §12A:2-314)

12889. New Jersey Class Representatives Sayed Eldomiaty, Mary McMillian , Mary Moronski, and Lynn White incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12890. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12893. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12895. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12898. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

24. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Strides Classes

COUNT 906
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)

12901. New Mexico Class Representatives Phyllis Gallegos, Josefina Griego, Carrie Martinez, Inez Mazon, Ernesto Sanchez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12902. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12903. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

12904. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

12905. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

12906. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

12907. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

12913. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12914. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12916. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Strides)

12938. New York Class Representatives Aida Carlo, Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12939. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12940. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

12941. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Strides)

12952. New York Class Representatives Aida Carlo, Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock,

Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12953. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12954. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

12955. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

12956. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

12957. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

12963. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

12964. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

12967. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 911
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Strides)

12968. New York Class Representatives Aida Carlo, Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12969. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12975. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 912
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Strides)

12976. New York Class Representatives Aida Carlo, Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Steven Murdock, Glorimar Rodriguez, Phyllis Spuler, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12977. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12980. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12982. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

12985. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

12988. North Carolina Class Representatives Acia D'amore, Teresa Lee, Sharon Parks, Dennis Robbins, and Julie Turner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

12989. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

12990. Defendant was and is engaged in "commerce" within the meaning of N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(b).

12991. The North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("North Carolina UDTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in or affecting commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce," N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(a), and provides a private right of action for any person injured "by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of" the law. N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-16.

12992. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the North Carolina UDTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

12998. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13001. As a result of Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the North Carolina UDTPA.

13005. The benefit provided by Plaintiffs and the Class members was not conferred gratuitously, and in exchange for their payment of the purchase price of Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, Plaintiffs and the Class members received the Ranitidine-Containing Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. COUNT 918
(Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §751, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

13042. Oklahoma Class Representative Demarco Grayson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13043. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13044. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(1).

13045. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(2).

13046. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(7).

13047. The Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act ("Oklahoma CPA") prohibits numerous unlawful acts, including misleading representations, false advertisements, and false statements. Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753. The Oklahoma CPA defines "[d]eceptive trade practice" as "a misrepresentation, omission or other practice that has deceived or . . . mislead a person to the detriment of that person." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(13). The Oklahoma CPA defines "[u]nfair trade practice" as "any practice which offends established public policy or if the practice is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(14).

13048. The Oklahoma CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]ak[ing] a false representation, knowingly or with reason to know, as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, or quantities of the subject of a consumer transaction" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, style or model, if it is of another" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, the subject of a consumer transaction with intent not to sell it as advertised" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(8)); and

(d) "[c]ommit[ing] an unfair or deceptive trade practice as defined in Section 752" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(20)).

13049. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oklahoma CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

13055. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Oklahoma CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13056. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13058. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oklahoma CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oklahoma CPA.

13059. Oklahoma Class Representative Demarco Grayson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13060. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13061. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

13066. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 920
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Okla. Stat. tit. 12A §2-314)
(Against Strides)

13067. Oklahoma Class Representative Demarco Grayson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13068. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13073. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13074. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13076. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

29. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Oregon-Strides Classes

COUNT 921
Violation of the Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act
(Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605, et seq.)

13079. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13080. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13082. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(6).

13083. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(8).

13085. The Oregon UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, quantities or qualities that the real estate, goods or services do not have" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(e));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that real estate or goods are of a particular style or model, if the real estate, goods or services are of another" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] real estate, goods or services with intent not to provide the real estate, goods or services as advertised" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(i)); and

(d) "[e]ngag[ing] in any other unfair or deceptive conduct in trade or commerce" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(u)).

13086. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oregon UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

13092. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13093. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13094. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

13095. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oregon UTPA.

30. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Pennsylvania-Strides Classes

COUNT 924
Violation of the Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(73 Pa. Cons. Stat. §201-1, et seq.)

13117. Pennsylvania Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Felicia Ball, and Elmer Cook incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13118. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13119. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(2).

13120. Plaintiffs and the Class members purchased the Ranitidine-Containing Products "primarily for personal, family or household purposes" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-9.2(a).

13121. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(3).

13122. The Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Pennsylvania CPL") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 73 Pa. C.S. §201-3.

13123. The Pennsylvania CPL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(v));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(vii));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(ix)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(xxi)).

13124. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Pennsylvania CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

13131. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13134. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Pennsylvania CPL.

Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)

13156. Puerto Rico Class Representatives Sonia Diaz and Gloria Colon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13157. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed

13161. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13169. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13171. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13174. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

32. Causes of Action on Behalf of the South Carolina-Strides Classes

Violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act
(S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

13177. South Carolina Class Representatives Michael Futrell, Jeffery Gunwall, Annie Johnson, and Sharon Mclellan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13178. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13179. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(a).

13180. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(b).

13181. The South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act ("South Carolina UTPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-20(a).

13182. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

13188. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13191. As a result of Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the South Carolina UTPA.

COUNT 930
Unjust Enrichment
(South Carolina Law)

13192. South Carolina Class Representatives Michael Futrell, Jeffery Gunwall, Annie Johnson, and Sharon Mclellan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13193. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

13197. It is unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

13199. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 931
Breach of Implied Warranty
(S.C. Code Ann. §36-2-314)
(Against Strides)

13200. South Carolina Class Representatives Michael Futrell, Jeffery Gunwall, Annie Johnson, and Sharon Mclellan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13201. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13206. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13209. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-101, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

13212. Tennessee Class Representatives Rebecca Howard, Pam Turner, and Billie Walker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13213. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13214. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

13215. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

13216. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

13217. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

13218. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

13219. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

13220. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

13225. 13226. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13229. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Tennessee CPA.

34. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-Strides Classes

COUNT 935
Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Strides)

13251. Texas Class Representatives Marilyn Abraham, Maria Eames, Christopher Johnson, Gina Martinez, Tonya Overstreet, Gregory Alan Wayland, Marianella Villanueva, and Sylvia Yoshida incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13252. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13254. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

13255. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

13256. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

13257. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

13258. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

13259. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

13266. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13267. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13270. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

13271. Texas Class Representatives Marilyn Abraham, Maria Eames, Christopher Johnson, Gina Martinez, Tonya Overstreet, Gregory Alan Wayland, Marianella Villanueva, and Sylvia Yoshida incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13272. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13276. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

13278. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 937
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Strides)

13279. Texas Class Representatives Marilyn Abraham, Maria Eames, Christopher Johnson, Gina Martinez, Tonya Overstreet, Gregory Alan Wayland, Marianella Villanueva, and Sylvia Yoshida incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13280. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13285. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13288. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

35. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Utah-Strides Classes

COUNT 938
Violation of the Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act
(Utah. Code Ann. §13-11-1, et seq.)

13291. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13292. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13293. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(6).

13295. Defendant was and is engaged in "consumer transactions" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11-3(2)(a).

13296. The Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act ("Utah CSPA") prohibits any "deceptive act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(1). "An unconscionable act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction" also violates the Utah CSPA. Utah Code Ann. §13-11-5(1).

13297. The Utah CSPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction has sponsorship, approval, performance characteristics, accessories, uses, or benefits, if it has not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(a)); and

(b) "indicat[ing] that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if it is not" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11-4(2)(b)).

13298. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah CSPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; and

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not.

13304. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13305. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13307. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah CSPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah CSPA.

COUNT 939
Violation of the Utah Truth in Advertising Law
(Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-1, et seq.)

13308. Utah Class Representatives Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13309. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13310. Defendant is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(17).

13312. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-2(4).

13314. The Utah TAL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "represent[ing] that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(e));

(b) "represent[ing] that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(g));

(c) "advertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(i)); and

(d) "engag[ing] in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (Utah Code Ann. §13-11a-3(1)(t)).

13315. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Utah TAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products were both safe and effective for the lifetime of the product, when in fact, they were not;

(b) representing that consumption of Ranitidine-Containing Products had characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have;

(c) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, or grade when they are not;

(d) advertising Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(e) engaging in any other conduct that creates a likelihood of confusion.

13321. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13322. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13325. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Utah TAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah TAL.

COUNT 940
Unjust Enrichment
(Utah Law)

13326. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13327. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13328. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

13333. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

13334. Utah Class Representative Teresa Waters incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13335. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Utah-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13341. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13342. Plaintiff and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

13343. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13387. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

13388. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

13389. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

13390. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

13391. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

13398. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13402. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Virginia CPA.

COUNT 946
Unjust Enrichment
(Virginia Law)
(Against Strides)

13403. Virginia Class Representatives Karen Foster, Cheryl Banks, and Lynn Costley incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13404. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13410. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

13411. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 947
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Va. Code Ann. §8.2-314)
(Against Strides)

13412. Virginia Class Representatives Karen Foster, Cheryl Banks, and Lynn Costley incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13413. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13416. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13418. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13421. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)

13424. Washington Class Representatives Steve Fischer, Dave Garber, and Bridget Peck incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13425. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13427. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

13428. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

13429. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

13430. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

13436. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13439. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

13440. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

40. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Wisconsin-Strides Classes

COUNT 953
Violation of the Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18, et seq.)

13483. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13484. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13485. Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

13486. Plaintiff and the Class members are members of "the public" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

13487. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

13488. The Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Wisconsin DTPA") prohibits any "assertion, representation or statement of fact which is untrue, deceptive or misleading." Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

13489. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Wisconsin DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

13495. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Wisconsin DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13496. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13498. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Wisconsin DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Wisconsin DTPA.

13500. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13503. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members'

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

13504. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

13506. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

13507. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 955
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Wis. Stat. Ann. §402.314)

13508. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13509. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13514. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13515. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13517. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

F. Causes of Action Against Teva

13520. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Teva, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 67-75 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic Zantac); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469

(requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 845-867 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

13521. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Teva with respect to prescription Ranitidine on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. 1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alabama-Teva Class

Violation of the Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act
Ala. Code §8-19-1, et seq.
(Against Teva)

13522. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin, Lashonnah Gaitor, and Anthony McGheee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13523. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13524. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(5).

13525. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(2).

13526. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(3).

13527. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade or commerce" within the meaning of Ala. Code §8-19-3(8).

13528. The Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Alabama DTPA") prohibits "deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ala. Code §8-19-5.

13529. The Alabama DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or qualities that they do not have" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(9)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce" (Ala. Code §8-19-5(27)).

13530. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alabama DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of N-Nitrosodimethylamine ("NDMA") as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive business practices prohibited by the Alabama DTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

13537. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13540. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Ala. Code §8-19-10(e) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

13541. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alabama DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alabama DTPA.

COUNT 957
Unjust Enrichment
(Alabama Law)
(Against Teva)

13542. Alabama Class Representatives Daffeney Austin, Lashonnah Gaitor, and Anthony McGheee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13543. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alabama-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13547. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

13549. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Alaska-Teva Class

COUNT 958
Violation of the Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act
(Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471, et seq.)

13550. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13551. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13552. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.561(a)(4).

13553. The Alaska Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act ("Alaska CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(a).

13554. The Alaska CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(4));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(6));

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(8));

(d) "engaging in any other conduct creating a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding and that misleads, deceives, or damages a buyer or a competitor in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(11)); and

(e) "using or employing deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, or knowingly concealing, suppressing, or omitting a material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the sale or advertisement of goods or services whether or not a person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged" (Alaska Stat. Ann. §45.50.471(b)(12)).

13555. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Alaska CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

13558. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13561. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13562. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13565. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Alaska CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Alaska CPA.

COUNT 959
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(Alaska Law)

13566. Alaska Class Representative Tammy Smith incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13567. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Alaska-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13568. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

13571. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

13573. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Teva Class

COUNT 960
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

13574. Arizona Class Representatives Monica Costello and Armando Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13575. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13577. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

13578. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

13582. Defendant's misreprsentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a unform manner.

13586. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13587. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13589. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 961
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)
(Against Teva)

13590. Arizona Class Representatives Monica Costello and Armando Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13591. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

13597. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Teva Classes

COUNT 962
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

13598. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13599. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13600. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

13601. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

13603. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

13604. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

13605. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

13612. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13613. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13615. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 963
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Teva)

13616. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13617. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

13623. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

13624. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 964
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Teva)

13625. Arkansas Class Representatives Tina Culclager and Martha Summers incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13626. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13631. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13634. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Teva Classes

COUNT 965
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

13637. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13638. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13639. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

13640. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

13641. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

13647. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

13648. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

13649. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

13650. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13651. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13653. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 966
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

13654. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13655. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13656. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

13657. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement .

. . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

13658. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

13664. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13665. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13667. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 967
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

13668. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13669. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13670. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

13671. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

13672. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

13673. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

13674. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

13675. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

13681. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Teva)

13686. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13687. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

13693. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 969
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Teva)

13694. California Class Representatives Virginia Aragon, Golbenaz Bakhtiar, and Royal Handy incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13695. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13698. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13700. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13703. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Colorado-Teva Classes

COUNT 970
Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

13706. Colorado Class Representative Jeffrey Pisano incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13707. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

13708. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

13709. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

13710. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

13711. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and thus resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Such conduct was bad faith conduct under the Colorado CPA.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

13717. Plaintiff and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

13718. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13719. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13722. Colorado Class Representative Jeffrey Pisano incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13723. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

13724. Plaintiff and Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

13726. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and thus resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

13729. Plaintiff and Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

13731. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13732. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

13733. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

13734. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

13735. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

13758. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

13759. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

13764. Florida Class Representatives Irma Arcaya, Roy Armstrong, Michael Fesser, Karen Foster, Michael Galloway, Hattie Kelley, Marva Mccall, Clifton McKinnon, Kristen (POA for Alexander) Monger, Kristen (POA for Laura) Monger, Daniel Taylor, Joyce Taylor, and Michael Tomlinson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13770. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members suffered an impoverishment because they purchased worthless medications and did not receive the expected benefit therefrom.

13774. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

13776. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

13785. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

13791. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

13792. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13796. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT 977
Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)
(Against Teva)

13797. Georgia Class Representatives Roy Armstrong, Earlene Green, Leon Greene, Tyrone Houston, Kathy Jeffries, Charlotte Sanders, Paula Shells, and Angela Taylor incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13798. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13802. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

13804. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

13805. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

13806. Idaho Class Representative Billy Naab incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13807. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Idaho-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13808. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Idaho Code Ann. §48-602(1).

13809. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Idaho Code Ann. §48-602(6).

13810. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Idaho Code Ann. §48-602(2).

13811. The Idaho Consumer Protection Act ("Idaho CPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Idaho Code Ann. §48-603.

13812. The Idaho CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Idaho Code Ann. §48-603(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Idaho Code Ann. §48-603(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Idaho Code Ann. §48-603(9)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any act or practice which is otherwise misleading, false, or deceptive to the consumer" (Idaho Code Ann. §48-603(17)).

13813. Idaho law also prohibits "[a]ny unconscionable method, act or practice in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Idaho Code Ann. §48-603C(1).

13814. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Idaho CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

13820. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Idaho CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13821. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13823. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Idaho CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Idaho CPA.

13839. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

13850. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13858. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13862. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

13864. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 983
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ind. Code. Ann. §26-1-2-314)
(Against Teva)

13865. Indiana Class Representatives Timberly Goble, Rebecca Sizemore, and Tracy Wells incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13866. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13871. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13874. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

13. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Iowa-Teva Classes

COUNT 984
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)

13877. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13878. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13879. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

13880. Plaintiff and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

13881. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

13882. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Defendant did so with willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others.

13888. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Iowa PRACFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13889. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out- of-pocket loss.

13891. As a result of Defendants' violations of the Iowa PRACFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendants' unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Iowa PRACFA.

13892. Additionally, because Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, were undertaken in willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others, pursuant to Iowa Code §714H.5(4), Plaintiff and the Class members seek an additonal award of treble damages.

13893. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13894. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13895. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

13897. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and thus resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

13898. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

13900. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 986
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Iowa Code Ann. §554.2314)
(Against Teva)

13901. Iowa Class Representatives Charles Longfield incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13902. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13905. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13907. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13908. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13910. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

14. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Kentucky-Teva Classes

COUNT 987
Violation of the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

13913. Kentucky Class Representative Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13914. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13915. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(1).

13916. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(2).

13917. The Kentucky Consumer Protection Act ("Kentucky CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, [unconscionable], false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.170(1)-(2).

13918. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Kentucky CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

13924. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13925. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13927. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Kentucky CPA.

COUNT 988
Unjust Enrichment
(Kentucky Law)
(Against Teva)

13928. Kentucky Class Representative Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13929. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13930. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §355.2-314)
(Against Teva)

13936. Kentucky Class Representative Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13937. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13940. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13942. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13943. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13945. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13946. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiff and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

15. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Louisiana-Teva Classes

COUNT 990
Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

13948. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13949. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13950. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

13951. Plaintiff and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

13952. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

13953. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

13954. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiff and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13960. Plaintiff and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

13961. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

13962. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

13964. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

COUNT 991
Unjust Enrichment
(Louisiana Law)
(Against Teva)

13965. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13966. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13968. 13970. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiff for the Ranitidine Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiff's impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiff of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

13975. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13978. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13980. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff's and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13981. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

13983. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

16. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Maryland-Teva Classes

COUNT 993
Violation of the Maryland Consumer Protection Act
(Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

13986. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett and Alberta Griffin incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

13987. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

13988. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(h).

13989. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(c)(1).

13990. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-101(f).

13991. The Maryland Consumer Protection Act ("Maryland CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, abusive, or deceptive trade practices." Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301.

13992. The Maryland CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[f]alse, falsely disparaging, or misleading oral or written statement, visual description, or other representation of any kind which has the capacity, tendency, or effect of deceiving or misleading consumers" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(1));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services have a sponsorship, approval, accessory, characteristic, ingredient, use, benefit, or quantity which they do not have" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(i));

(c) "[r]epresent[ing] that . . . [c]onsumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model which they are not" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(2)(iv));

(d) "[f]ailure to state a material fact if the failure deceives or tends to deceive" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(3));

(e) "[a]dvertis[ing] or offer[ing] of consumer goods, consumer realty, or consumer services . . . [w]ithout intent to sell, lease, or rent them as advertised or offered" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(5)(i)); and

(f) "[d]eception, fraud, false pretense, false premise, misrepresentation, or knowing concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with the intent that a consumer rely on the same in connection with . . . [t]he promotion or sale of any consumer goods" (Md. Code Ann., Com. Law §13-301(9)(i)).

13993. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Maryland CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are defective and inherently dangerous in the course of the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

13998. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13999. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

14000. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14001. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14003. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Maryland CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Maryland CPA.

(Maryland Law)
(Against Teva)

14004. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett and Alberta Griffin incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14005. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14009. It would be unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

14011. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 995
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Md. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Teva)

14012. Maryland Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett and Alberta Griffin incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14013. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Maryland-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14016. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14018. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14021. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Teva Classes

COUNT 996
Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14024. Massachusetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14025. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14026. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

14027. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

14028. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

14029. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

14035. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14036. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §9(3) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

14039. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

COUNT 997
Unjust Enrichment
(Massachusetts Law)
(Against Teva)

14040. Massachusetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14041. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

14045. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

14048. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 998
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 106 §2-314)
(Against Teva)

14049. Massachusetts Class Representatives Jose Amado, Rafael Bermudez, Ana Guzman, and Michelle Smith incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14050. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14053. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14055. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14058. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

18. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Michigan-Teva Classes

COUNT 999
Violation of the Michigan Consumer Protection Act
(Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.901, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14061. Michigan Class Representatives Myra Allen, Jody Beal, Benny Cope, Kenneth Hix, Jerry Hunt, and Lakisha Wilson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14062. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14063. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(d).

14064. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(g).

14065. The Michigan Consumer Protection Act ("Michigan CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts, or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1).

14066. The Michigan CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(c));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(e)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising or representing goods or services with intent not to dispose of those goods or services as advertised or represented" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(g)).

14067. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

14072. 14073. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14074. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14076. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Michigan CPA.

14078. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14084. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

14085. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

19. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Teva Classes

COUNT 1001
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14086. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown, Rodriquze Hampton Jr., and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14087. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14088. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

14089. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

14090. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

14091. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14098. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14099. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14101. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 1002
Unjust Enrichment
(Minnesota Law)
(Against Teva)

14102. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown, Rodriquze Hampton Jr., and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14103. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14109. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)
(Against Teva)

14110. Minnesota Class Representatives Sandra Erickson-Brown, Rodriquze Hampton Jr., and Donald Northrup incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14111. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14114. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14116. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14118. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

14119. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

20. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Mississippi-Teva Classes

COUNT 1004
Unjust Enrichment
(Mississippi Law)
(Against Teva)

14122. Mississippi Class Representatives Beverly Crosby, Lora Mauffray, Korcis McMillan, and Michelle Tinker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14123. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14127. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

14129. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

14130. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1005
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Miss. Code Ann. §75-2-314)
(Against Teva)

14131. Mississippi Class Representatives Beverly Crosby, Lora Mauffray, Korcis McMillan, and Michelle Tinker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14132. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14135. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14137. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14140. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

21. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Missouri-Teva Classes

COUNT 1006
Violation of the Missouri Merchandising Practices Act
(Mo. Rev. Stat. §407.010, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14143. Missouri Class Representatives Tammy Smith, Timberly Goble, Elaine Aaron, Antrenise Campbell, Lisa Deckard, Cynthia Gibbs, Martha Summers, and Brenda Newcomb incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14144. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Missouri-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14145. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(5).

14146. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" within the meaning of Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.010(7).

14147. The Missouri Merchandising Practices Act ("Missouri MPA") prohibits "act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, unfair practice or the concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise in trade or commerce." Mo. Ann. Stat. §407.020(1).

14148. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Missouri MPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14154. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Missouri MPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14155. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14157. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Missouri MPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Missouri MPA.

22. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Nevada-Teva Classes

COUNT 1009
Violation of the Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0903, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14180. Nevada Class Representative Monica Costello incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14181. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Nevada-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14182. The Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Nevada DTPA"), prohibits the use of "'deceptive trade practices' . . . in the course of . . . business or occupation." Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915.

14183. The Nevada DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations or quantities of goods or services for sale or lease or a false representation as to the sponsorship, approval, status, affiliation or connection of a person therewith" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods or services for sale or lease are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that such goods are of a particular style or model, if he or she knows or should know that they are of another standard, quality, grade, style or model" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods or services with intent not to sell or lease them as advertised" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(9));

(d) "[k]nowingly mak[ing] any other false representation in a transaction" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0915(15)); and

(e) "[f]ail[ing] to disclose a material fact in connection with the sale or lease of goods or services" (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §598.0923(2)).

14184. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Nevada DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) failing to disclose the NDMA danger in connection with the sale of the Ranitidine-Containing Products; and

(e) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

14190. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Nevada DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14191. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14192. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

COUNT 1011
Violation of the New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14203. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14204. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14205. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(I).

14206. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:1(II).

14207. The New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act ("New Hampshire CPA") prohibits "any unfair method of competition or any unfair or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of any trade or commerce." N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2.

14208. The New Hampshire CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(V));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(VII)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised." (N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §358-A:2(IX)).

14209. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Hampshire CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

14215. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of New Hampshire CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14219. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14220. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14224. It is unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

14226. There is no valid, express contract governing this dispute.

14227. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1013
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §382-A:2-314)
(Against Teva)

14228. New Hampshire Class Representatives Rafael Bermudez and David Rice incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14229. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14232. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14234. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14237. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

14238. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were injured as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

24. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Jersey-Teva Classes

COUNT 1014
Violation of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14240. New Jersey Class Representatives James Adamo, Sayed Eldomiaty, Mary McMillian , and Mary Moronski incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14241. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14242. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(d).

14243. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

14244. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act ("New Jersey CFA") by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.

14245. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the New Jersey CFA.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

14250. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14251. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14253. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

COUNT 1015
Unjust Enrichment
(New Jersey Law)
(Against Teva)

14254. New Jersey Class Representatives James Adamo, Sayed Eldomiaty, Mary McMillian , and Mary Moronski incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14255. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14261. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

14271. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

25. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Teva Classes

COUNT 1017
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14274. New Mexico Class Representatives Carrie Martinez, Ernesto Sanchez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14275. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14276. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

14277. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

14278. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services

. . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

14279. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

14280. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

14282. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

14286. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14287. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14289. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 1020
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Teva)

14311. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Glorimar Rodriguez, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14312. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14313. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

14314. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

14315. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14321. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14322. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14324. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

14326. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14327. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

14328. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

14329. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

14336. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14337. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14340. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1022
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Teva)

14341. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Glorimar Rodriguez, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14342. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14343. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

14348. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1023
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Teva)

14349. New York Class Representatives Silomie Clarke, Nereida Cordero, Benny Fazio, Migdalia Kinney, Mary McCullen , Joseph Mcpheter, Glorimar Rodriguez, and Mary Lou Wagner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14350. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14353. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14355. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14358. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14361. North Carolina Class Representatives Patricia Frazier, Teresa Lee, Sharon Parks, Dennis Robbins, and Julie Turner incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14362. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the North Carolina-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14363. Defendant was and is engaged in "commerce" within the meaning of N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(b).

14364. The North Carolina Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("North Carolina UDTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in or affecting commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce," N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-1.1(a), and provides a private right of action for any person injured "by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of" the law. N.C. Gen. Stat. Ann. §75-16.

14365. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the North Carolina UDTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14368. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

14369. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

14371. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14374. As a result of Defendant's violations of the North Carolina UDTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the North Carolina UDTPA.

14377. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

14378. The benefit provided by Plaintiffs and the Class members was not conferred gratuitously, and in exchange for their payment of the purchase price of Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, Plaintiffs and the Class members received the Ranitidine-Containing Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. COUNT 1029
(Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §751, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14415. Oklahoma Class Representative and Demarco Grayson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14416. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14417. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(1).

14418. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(2).

14419. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(7).

14420. The Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act ("Oklahoma CPA") prohibits numerous unlawful acts, including misleading representations, false advertisements, and false statements. Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753. The Oklahoma CPA defines "[d]eceptive trade practice" as "a misrepresentation, omission or other practice that has deceived or . . . mislead a person to the detriment of that person." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(13). The Oklahoma CPA defines "[u]nfair trade practice" as "any practice which offends established public policy or if the practice is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers." Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §752(14).

14421. The Oklahoma CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]ak[ing] a false representation, knowingly or with reason to know, as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, or quantities of the subject of a consumer transaction" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(5));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, style or model, if it is of another" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(7));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, the subject of a consumer transaction with intent not to sell it as advertised" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(8)); and

(d) "[c]ommit[ing] an unfair or deceptive trade practice as defined in Section 752" (Okla. Stat. tit. 15, §753(20)).

14422. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oklahoma CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

14428. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Oklahoma CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14429. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14431. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oklahoma CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oklahoma CPA.

(Oklahoma Law)
(Against Teva)

14432. Oklahoma Class Representative Demarco Grayson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14433. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14434. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

14439. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1031
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Okla. Stat. tit. 12A §2-314)
(Against Teva)

14440. Oklahoma Class Representative Demarco Grayson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14441. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oklahoma-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14444. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14446. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14447. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14449. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

30. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Oregon-Teva Classes

COUNT 1032
Violation of the Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act
(Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14452. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14453. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14454. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(4).

14455. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "goods" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(6).

14456. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.605(8).

14457. The Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act ("Oregon UTPA") prohibits "unlawful practice . . . in the course of the person's business." Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1).

14458. The Oregon UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, quantities or qualities that the real estate, goods or services do not have" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(e));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that real estate, goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that real estate or goods are of a particular style or model, if the real estate, goods or services are of another" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] real estate, goods or services with intent not to provide the real estate, goods or services as advertised" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(i)); and

(d) "[e]ngag[ing] in any other unfair or deceptive conduct in trade or commerce" (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §646.608(1)(u)).

14459. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Oregon UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

14465. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14466. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14468. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Oregon UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oregon UTPA.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. §72.3140)
(Against Teva)

14478. Oregon Class Representative Kristi Ledbetter incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14479. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Oregon-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14482. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14485. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14487. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

31. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Pennsylvania-Teva Classes

COUNT 1035
Violation of the Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law (73 Pa. Cons. Stat. §201-1, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14490. Pennsylvania Class Representatives Nicholas Hazlett, Felicia Ball, and Carol Loggins incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14491. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Pennsylvania-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14492. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(2).

14493. Plaintiffs and the Class members purchased the Ranitidine-Containing Products "primarily for personal, family or household purposes" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-9.2(a).

14494. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of 73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(3).

14495. The Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Pennsylvania CPL") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 73 Pa. C.S. §201-3.

14496. The Pennsylvania CPL makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(v));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(vii));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(ix)); and

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (73 Pa. C.S. §201-2(4)(xxi)).

14497. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Pennsylvania CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

14499. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

14504. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14507. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Pennsylvania CPL.

32. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Puerto Rico-Teva Classes

COUNT 1038
Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)
(Against Teva)

14529. Puerto Rico Class Representatives Sonia Diaz and Gloria Colon incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14530. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed

14534. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

14535. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14542. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14544. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14547. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

33. Causes of Action on Behalf of the South Carolina-Teva Classes

COUNT 1040
Violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act
(S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14550. South Carolina Class Representatives Annie Johnson, Michael Futrell, Jeffery Gunwall, Sharon Mclellan, and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14551. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14552. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(a).

14553. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(b).

14554. The South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act ("South Carolina UTPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-20(a).

14555. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14561. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14562. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14564. As a result of Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the South Carolina UTPA.

COUNT 1041
Unjust Enrichment
(South Carolina Law)
(Against Teva)

14565. South Carolina Class Representatives Annie Johnson, Michael Futrell, Jeffery Gunwall, Sharon Mclellan, and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14566. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

14572. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1042
Breach of Implied Warranty
(S.C. Code Ann. §36-2-314)
(Against Teva)

14573. South Carolina Class Representatives Annie Johnson, Michael Futrell, Jeffery Gunwall, Sharon Mclellan, and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14574. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14579. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14582. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

34. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Tennessee-Teva Classes

COUNT 1043
Violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-101, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14585. Tennessee Class Representatives Angela Taylor, Rodriquze Hampton Jr., Kenneth Hix, Eva Broughton, Rebecca Howard, Lisa Lyle, and Billie Walker incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14586. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14587. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

14588. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

14589. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

14590. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

14591. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

14592. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

14593. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

14599. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14600. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14602. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Tennessee CPA.

COUNT 1046
Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14624. Texas Class Representatives Timberly Goble, Marianella Villanueva, Maria Eames, Tina Howard, Christopher Johnson, Gina Martinez, Tonya Overstreet, Gregory Alan Wayland, and Sylvia Yoshida incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14625. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14627. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

14628. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

14629. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

14630. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

14631. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

14632. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

14638. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

14639. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14640. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14643. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

14649. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

14651. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1048
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Teva)

14652. Texas Class Representatives Timberly Goble, Marianella Villanueva, Maria Eames, Tina Howard, Christopher Johnson, Gina Martinez, Tonya Overstreet, Gregory Alan Wayland, and Sylvia Yoshida incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14653. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14656. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14658. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14661. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

36. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Vermont-Teva Classes

COUNT 1049
Violation of the Vermont Consumer Fraud Act
(Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14664. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14665. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14666. Defendant is a "[s]eller" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(c).

14667. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(a).

14668. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2451a(b).

14669. The Vermont consumer fraud act ("Vermont CFA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition in commerce and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce." Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §2453(a).

14670. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Vermont CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14676. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14677. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14679. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Vermont CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Vermont CFA.

COUNT 1050
Unjust Enrichment
(Vermont Law)
(Against Teva)

14680. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14681. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14682. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14685. (Against Teva)

14689. Vermont Class Representatives Renee Clark, Eric Ragis, and Lisa Ragis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14690. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Vermont-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14698. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

37. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Virginia-Teva Classes

COUNT 1052
Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14701. Virginia Class Representatives Cheryl Banks and Lynn Costley incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14702. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14703. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

14704. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

14705. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

14706. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

14707. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

14708. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

14709. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

14712. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

14716. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14717. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14720. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Virginia CPA.

14766. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

14767. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1057
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Wash. Rev. Code §62A.2-314)
(Against Teva)

14768. Washington Class Representatives Billy Naab, Steve Fischer, Dave Garber, and Bridget Peck incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14769. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14772. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14774. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14777. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

39. Causes of Action on Behalf of the West Virginia-Teva Classes

COUNT 1058
Unjust Enrichment
(West Virginia Law)
(Against Teva)

14780. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14781. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14782. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

14787. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

14788. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1059
Breach of Implied Warranty
(W. Va. Code §46-2-314)
(Against Teva)

14789. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14790. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14793. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14795. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14796. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

40. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Wisconsin-Teva Classes

COUNT 1060
Violation of the Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18, et seq.)
(Against Teva)

14801. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14802. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14803. Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

14804. Plaintiff and the Class members are members of "the public" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

14805. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

14806. The Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Wisconsin DTPA") prohibits any "assertion, representation or statement of fact which is untrue, deceptive or misleading." Wis. Stat. Ann. §100.18(1).

14807. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Wisconsin DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14813. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Wisconsin DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14814. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14816. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Wisconsin DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Wisconsin DTPA.

COUNT 1061
Unjust Enrichment
(Wisconsin Law)
(Against Teva)

14817. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14818. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14819. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

benefits, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

14824. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

14825. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1062
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Wis. Stat. Ann. §402.314)
(Against Teva)

14826. Wisconsin Class Representative Wendy Quezaire incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 67-75, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, and 845-867 as though fully set forth herein.

14827. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin-Teva Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Teva (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to prescription Ranitidine.

14830. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14832. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiff and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiff and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14833. Plaintiff and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing Products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

14835. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

XI. CAUSES OF ACTION AGAINST OTC STORE-BRAND DEFENDANTS

A. Causes of Action Against CVS

14838. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant CVS, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 76-77 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 1005-1029 (CVS's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118 (CVS's Store-Brand contract manufacturers); 1119-1143 (Perrigo); 1219-1230 (Dr. Reddy's); 1257-1275 (Strides); 1030-1040, 1144-1156, 1231-1243, 1276-1288 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 1041-1055, 1157-1169, 1244-1256, 1289-1301 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

14839. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant CVS on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. Each Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations specific to them from Section II.B., supra, into their respective claims below:

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-CVS Classes

COUNT 1063
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS

14840. California Class Representative Plaintiff Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14841. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14842. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

14843. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

14844. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14850. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

14851. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

14852. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

14853. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14854. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14856. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1064
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14857. California Class Representative Plaintiff Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14858. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14859. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

14860. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement .

. . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

14861. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

14865. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

14867. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14868. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14870. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1065
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14871. California Class Representative Plaintiff Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14872. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14873. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

14874. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

14875. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

14876. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

14877. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

14878. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

14884. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

14888. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

COUNT 1066
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14889. California Class Representatives Plaintiff Richard Obrien the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14890. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14893. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

14895. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1067
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14898. California Class Representatives Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14899. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14905. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Connecticut-CVS Classes

COUNT 1068
Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14906. Connecticut Class Representative Plaintiff Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14907. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14908. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

14909. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

14910. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

14911. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

14915. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

14917. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14920. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

COUNT 1069
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42a-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14921. Connecticut Class Representative Plaintiff Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14922. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

COUNT 1070
Unjust Enrichment
(Connecticut Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14930. Connecticut Class Representative Plaintiff Angel Vega incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14931. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14937. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-CVS Classes

COUNT 1071
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14938. Georgia Class Representatives Plaintiff Kathy Jeffries incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14939. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14940. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

14941. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

14942. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

14943. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

14944. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

14945. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

14951. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

14952. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

14953. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

14956. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT 1072
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ga. Code. Ann. §11-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14957. Georgia Class Representative Plaintiff Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14958. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14961. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

14963. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1073
Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14966. Georgia Class Representative Plaintiff Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14967. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

14971. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

14973. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

14974. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1074
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ind. Code Ann. §26-1-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14975. Indiana Class Representative Plaintiff Rebecca Sizemore incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14976. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14979. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

14982. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 1075
Unjust Enrichment
(Indiana Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14985. Indiana Class Representative Rebecca Sizemore incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14986. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14990. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

value thereof, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

14992. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Michigan-CVS Classes

COUNT 1076
Violation of the Michigan Consumer Protection Act
(Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.901, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

14993. Michigan Class Representative Arthur Gamble incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

14994. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

14995. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(d).

14996. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(g).

14997. The Michigan Consumer Protection Act ("Michigan CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts, or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1).

14998. The Michigan CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(c));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(e)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising or representing goods or services with intent not to dispose of those goods or services as advertised or represented" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(g)).

14999. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

15003. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15005. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15008. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Michigan CPA.

COUNT 1077
Unjust Enrichment
(Michigan Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15009. Michigan Class Representative Plaintiff Arthur Gamble incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15010. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

15016. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

15017. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-CVS Classes

COUNT 1078
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15018. Minnesota Class Representative Plaintiff Brad Hoag incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15019. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15020. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

15021. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

15022. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

15023. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15027. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15030. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15031. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15033. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15051. New Mexico Class Representative Plaintiff Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15052. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15053. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

15054. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

15055. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

15056. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

15057. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

15059. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

15061. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15063. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15064. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15066. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 1082
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15067. New Mexico Class Representative Plaintiff Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15068. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15071. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15073. Plaintiff and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1083
Unjust Enrichment
(New Mexico Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15076. New Mexico Class Representative Plaintiff Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15077. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15078. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

15083. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

15084. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-CVS Classes

COUNT 1084
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15085. New York Class Representatives Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15086. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15087. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

15088. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

15089. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15093. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15095. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15096. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15098. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 1085
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15099. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15100. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15101. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

15102. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

15103. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

15104. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15108. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15110. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15111. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15114. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1086
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15115. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15116. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15119. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15123. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

COUNT 1087
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15124. New York Class Representative Plaintiff Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15125. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15131. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing dispute.

10. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-CVS Classes

COUNT 1090
Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15149. Texas Class Representatives Plaintiff Gregory Alan Wayland and Plaintiff Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15150. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15152. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

15153. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

15154. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

15155. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

15156. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

15157. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

15159. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

15161. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15164. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15165. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15167. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

15168. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1091
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15169. Texas Class Representatives Gregory Alan Wayland and Marianella Villlanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15170. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314.

15173. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15175. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1092
Unjust Enrichment (Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15178. Texas Class Representatives Plaintiff Gregory Alan Wayland and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15179. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15183. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

15185. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the West Virginia-CVS Classes

COUNT 1093
Violation of the West Virginia Consumer Credit and Protection Act
(W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer CVS)

15186. West Virginia Class Representative Plaintiff Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in the paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15187. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15188. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-102(31).

15189. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §§46A-1-102(12) and 46A-6-102(2).

15190. The OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-102(21).

15191. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(6).

15192. The West Virginia Consumer Credit and Protection Act ("West Virginia CCPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts of practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-104.

15193. The West Virginia CCPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(E));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(G));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(I));

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(L)); and

(e) "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise or misrepresentation, or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods or services, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(M)).

15194. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the West Virginia CCPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

15197. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

15198. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products.

15199. The facts regarding OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products.

15200. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the West Virginia CCPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15201. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-106(c) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

15204. As a result of Defendant's violations of the West Virginia CCPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the West Virginia CCPA.

COUNT 1094
Breach of Implied Warranty
(W. Va. Code §46-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15205. West Virginia Class Representative Plaintiff Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15206. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15209. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15211. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1095
Unjust Enrichment
(West Virginia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS)

15214. West Virginia Class Representatives Plaintiff Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1169, and 1219-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15215. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-CVS Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant CVS (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15221. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

15222. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

B. Causes of Action Against Rite Aid

15223. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Rite Aid, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 78-79 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 1056-1066 (Rite-Aid's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118 (Rite-Aid's Store-Brand contract manufacturers); 1119-1143 (Perrigo); 1170-1192 (Apotex); 1257-1275 (Strides); 1067-1077, 1144-1156, 1193-1205, 1231-1243, 1276-1288 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 1078-1092, 1157-1169, 1206-1218, 1289-1301 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

15224. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Rite Aid on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. Each Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations specific to them from Section II.B., supra, into their respective claims below:

Plaintiff Name	State(s) of Residence
Golbenaz Bakhtiar	California
Richard Obrien	California
Janet Asbury	Kentucky
Richard Froehlich	New York

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Rite Aid Classes

COUNT 1096
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid

15225. California Class Representatives Plaintiff Golbenz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15226. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15227. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

15228. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

15229. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15235. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

15236. Defendant's conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

15237. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

15238. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15241. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1097
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid)

15242. California Class Representatives Plaintiff Golbenz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15243. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15244. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

15245. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement .

. . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

15246. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

15250. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15252. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15253. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15255. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1098
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid)

15256. California Class Representatives Plaintiff Golbenz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15257. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15258. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

15259. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

15260. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

15261. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

15262. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

15263. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

15269. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

15270. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15273. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

COUNT 1099
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid)

15274. California Class Representatives Plaintiff Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Plaintiff Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15275. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15278. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15280. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1100
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid)

15283. California Class Representatives Plaintiff Golbenz Bakhtiar and Plaintiff Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15284. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15290. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Kentucky-Rite Aid Classes

COUNT 1101
Violation of the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid)

15291. Kentucky Class Representative Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15292. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15293. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(1).

15294. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(2).

15295. The Kentucky Consumer Protection Act ("Kentucky CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, [unconscionable], false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.170(1)-(2).

15296. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Kentucky CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including by printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15300. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15301. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

15302. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15303. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15305. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Kentucky CPA.

COUNT 1102
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §355.2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid)

15306. Kentucky Class Representative Plaintiff Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15307. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15310. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15312. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

Unjust Enrichment
(Kentucky Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid)

15315. Kentucky Class Representative Plaintiff Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15316. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15319. 15320. It would be inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

15322. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Rite Aid Classes

COUNT 1104
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid)

15323. New York Class Representatives Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15324. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15325. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

15326. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

15327. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15331. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15333. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15334. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15336. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 1105
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid)

15337. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15338. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15339. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

15340. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

15341. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

15342. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15346. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15348. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15349. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15352. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1106
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid)

15353. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15354. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15357. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15359. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1107
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid)

15362. New York Class Representative Plaintiff Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 76-77, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1041-1218, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15363. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Rite Aid Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Rite Aid (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15369. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing dispute.

C. Causes of Action Against Walgreens

15370. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Walgreens, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 80-85 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 962-978 (Walgreens' Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118 (Walgreens' Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 1119-1143 (Perrigo); 1170-1192 (Apotex); 1219-1230 (Dr. Reddy's); 1257-1275 (Strides); 979-989, 1144-1156, 1193-1205, 1231-1243, 1276-1288 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 990-1004, 1157-1169, 1206-1218, 1244-1256, 1289-1301 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

15371. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Walgreens on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. Each Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations specific to them from Section II.B., supra, into their respective claims below:

Plaintiff Name	State(s) of Residence
Tangie Sims	Arizona
Tina Culclager	Artkansas
Golbenaz Bakhtiar	California

Jeffrey Pisano	Colorado
Ronald Ragan	Colorado
Angel Vega	Connecticut
Ronald Ragis	Florida

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona- Walgreens Classes

COUNT 1108
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15372. Arizona Class Representative Plaintiff Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15373. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15375. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

15376. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, …

misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

15377. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15380. Defendant's misreprsentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a unform manner.

15381. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15384. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15385. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15387. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 1109
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §47-2314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15388. Arizona Class Representative Plaintiff Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15389. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15390. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to Arizona Class Representatives and members of the Arizona Class and was in the business of selling such products.

15392. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15394. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1110
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15397. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15398. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15404. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Walgreens Classes

COUNT 1111
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15405. Arkansas Class Representative Plaintiff Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15406. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15407. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

15408. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

15409. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

15410. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

15411. "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

15412. "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

15413. "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

15414. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

15415. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

15419. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

15421. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

15422. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15423. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15425. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 1112
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code. Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15426. Arkansas Class Representative Plaintiff Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15427. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15430. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15432. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1113
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15435. Arkansas Class Representative Plaintiff Tina Culclager incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15436. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15442. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

15443. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Walgreens Classes

COUNT 1114
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens

15444. California Class Representative Plaintiff Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15445. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15446. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

15447. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

15448. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15454. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

15455. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

15456. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

15457. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15458. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15460. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1115
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15461. California Class Representative Plaintiff Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15462. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15463. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

15464. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

15465. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

15469. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15471. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15472. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15474. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1116
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15475. California Class Representative Plaintiff Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15476. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15477. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

15478. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

15479. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

15480. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

15481. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

15482. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15488. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

15489. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15491. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this count and this Complaint by the FDA investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

15492. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15493. California Class Representative Plaintiff Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15494. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15497. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15499. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1118
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15502. California Class Representative Plaintiff Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15503. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

15509. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Colorado-Walgreens Classes

COUNT 1119
Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15510. Colorado Class Representatives Plaintiff Jeffrey Pisano and Plaintiff Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15511. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15512. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

15513. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

15514. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

15515. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Such conduct was bad faith conduct under the Colorado CPA.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

15519. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15522. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15525. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Colorado CPA.

COUNT 1120
Unjust Enrichment
(Colorado Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15526. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15530. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without commensurate compensation because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

15532. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Connecticut-Walgreens Classes

COUNT 1121
Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15533. Connecticut Class Representative Plaintiff Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15534. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15535. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

15536. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

15537. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

15538. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15542. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15544. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15545. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15547. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

COUNT 1122
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42a-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15548. Connecticut Class Representative Plaintiff Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15549. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15552. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15554. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1123
Unjust Enrichment
(Connecticut Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15557. Connecticut Class Representative Plaintiff Angel Vega incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15558. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15564. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1124
Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15565. Florida Class Representative Plaintiff Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15566. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15567. The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

15568. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

15569. Plaintiff and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

15570. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

15571. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15575. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15577. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15578. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15580. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §672.314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15581. Florida Class Representative Plaintiff Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15582. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15587. Plaintiff and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

15588. Further, Plaintiff and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 1126
Unjust Enrichment
(Florida Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15591. Florida Class Representative Plaintiff Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15592. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15593. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Accordingly, Plaintiff and the Class members suffered an impoverishment because they purchased worthless medications and did not receive the expected benefit therefrom.

15595. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15596. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

15598. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

15599. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Illinois-Walgreens Classes

COUNT 1127
Violation of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act
(815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15600. Illinois Class Representative Plaintiff Renee Chatman incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15601. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15603. Plaintiff and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

15604. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

15605. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

15606. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

15607. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive business practices prohibited by the Illinois CFDBPA.

15611. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15613. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15614. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15616. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

COUNT 1128
Breach of Implied Warranty
(810 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 5/2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15617. Illinois Class Representative Plaintiff Renee Chatman incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15618. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15621. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15623. Plaintiff and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1129
Unjust Enrichment
(Illinois Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15626. Illinois Class Representative Renee Chatman incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15627. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15628. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

15630. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiff and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiff's and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15631. violates the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

15633. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Iowa-Walgreens Classes

COUNT 1130
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15634. Iowa Class Representative Plaintiff Brian Nervig incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15635. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15636. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

15637. Plaintiff and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

15638. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

15639. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Defendant did so with willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive business practices prohibited by the Iowa PRACFA.

15642. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

15643. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15645. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Iowa PRACFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15646. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out- of-pocket loss.

15648. As a result of Defendants' violations of the Iowa PRACFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendants' unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Iowa PRACFA.

15649. Additionally, because Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, were undertaken in willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others, pursuant to Iowa Code §714H.5(4), Plaintiff and the Class members seek an additonal award of treble damages.

COUNT 1131
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Iowa Code §554.2314)
(Against Store Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15650. Iowa Class Representative Plaintiff Brian Nervig incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15651. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15652. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to Iowa Class Representative and members of the Iowa Class and was in the business of selling such products.

15654. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15656. Plaintiff and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1132
Unjust Enrichment
(Iowa Law)
(Against Store Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15659. Iowa Class Representative Plaintiff Brian Nervig incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15660. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15661. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

15664. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiff and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

15666. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Walgreens Classes

COUNT 1133
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15667. Minnesota Class Representative Plaintiff Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15668. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15669. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

15670. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

15671. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

15672. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15676. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15679. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15680. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15682. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

15699. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

10. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Walgreens Classes

COUNT 1136
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15700. New Mexico Class Representative Plaintiff Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15701. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15702. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

15703. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

15704. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

15705. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

15706. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and 15708. acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

15710. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15712. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15713. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15714. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

15715. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 1137
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15716. New Mexico Class Representative Plaintiff Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15717. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314.

15720. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15722. Plaintiff and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1138
Unjust Enrichment
(New Mexico Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15725. New Mexico Class Representative Plaintiff Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15726. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15727. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

15732. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

15733. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1139
Breach of Implied Warranty
(P.R. Laws. Ann. Tit. 31, §3841)
(Against Store Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15734. Puerto Rico Class Representative Plaintiff Gloria Colon incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15735. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. P.R. Laws. Ann. Tit. 31, §3841.

15738. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15740. Plaintiff and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1140
Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)
(Against Store Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15743. Puerto Rico Class Representative Plaintiff Gloria Colon incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15744. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15745. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

15748. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiff's and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiff's and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiff's and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

15751. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-Walgreens Classes

COUNT 1141
Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15752. Texas Class Representative Plaintiff Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15753. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15754. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(3).

15755. Plaintiff and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

15756. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

15757. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

15758. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

15759. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

15760. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and 15762. advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiff and the Class members in a uniform manner.

15764. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15765. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiff and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

15766. Plaintiff and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

15767. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15768. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiff seeks all damages and relief to which Plaintiff and the Class members are entitled.

15771. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1142
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15772. Texas Class Representative Plaintiff Marianella Villlanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15773. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314.

15776. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15778. Plaintiff and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1143
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15781. Texas Class Representative Plaintiff Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15782. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15783. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

15786. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

15788. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1144
Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15789. Washington Class Representative Plaintiff Johnathan Ferguson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15790. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15791. Defendant, Plaintiff, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(1).

15792. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

15793. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

15794. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

15795. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15799. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15801. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15802. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15804. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

15807. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Wash. Rev. Code §62A 2-314.

15810. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15812. Plaintiff and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiff and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens)

15815. Washington Class Representative Plaintiff Jonathan Ferguson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 80-85, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1119-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15816. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Walgreens Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walgreens (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15817. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

15822. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

15823. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

D. Causes of Action Against Walmart

15824. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Walmart, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 86-90 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 912-936 (Walmart's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118 (Walmart's Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 1119-1143 (Perrigo); 1170-1192 (Apotex); 1219-1230 (Dr. Reddy's), 1257-1275 (Strides); 937-946, 1144-1156, 1193-1205, 1231-1243, 1276-1288 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 947-961, 1157-

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1147
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15826. Arizona Class Representative Plaintiff Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15827. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15829. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

15830. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

15831. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15834. Defendant's misreprsentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a unform manner.

15835. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15837. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

15838. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15839. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15841. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 1148
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15842. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15843. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15847. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

15849. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1149
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15850. Arkansas Class Representative Plaintiff Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15851. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15852. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

15853. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

15854. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

15855. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

15856. "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

15857. "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and 15858. "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

15859. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

15860. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

15864. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15867. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15868. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15870. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 1150
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code. Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15871. Arkansas Class Representative Plaintiff Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15872. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15875. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15877. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1151
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15880. Arkansas Class Representative Plaintiff Tina Culclager incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15881. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15887. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

15888. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Colorado-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1152
Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against [Defendants])

15889. Colorado Class Representatives Plaintiff Jeffrey Pisano and Plaintiff Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15890. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15891. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

15892. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

15893. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

15894. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Such conduct was bad faith conduct under the Colorado CPA.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

15898. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15901. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15902. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15904. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Colorado CPA.

COUNT 1153
Unjust Enrichment
(Colorado Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15905. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15909. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without commensurate compensation because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

15911. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Florida-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1154
Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15912. Florida Class Representative Plaintiff Michael Tomlinson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15913. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15914. The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

15915. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

15916. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

15917. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

15918. As a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its

Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15922. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

15924. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15925. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15927. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

COUNT 1155
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §672.314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15928. Florida Class Representatives Plaintiff Michael Tomlinson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15929. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15932. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15935. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 1156
Unjust Enrichment
(Florida Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15938. Florida Class Representative Plaintiff Michael Tomlinson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15939. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15942. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15943. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

15945. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

15946. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1157
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15947. Georgia Class Representatives Plaintiff Kathy Jeffries incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15948. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15949. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

15950. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

15951. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

15952. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

15953. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

15954. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

15960. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

15961. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

15962. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

15965. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT 1158
Breach of Implied Warranty(Ga. Code. Ann. §11-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15966. Georgia Class Representative Plaintiff Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15967. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15970. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

15972. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1159
Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15975. Georgia Class Representative Plaintiff Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15976. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

15980. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

15982. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

15983. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Illinois-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1160
Violation of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act
(815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

15984. Illinois Class Representatives Plaintiff Carol Harkins and Plaintiff Vickie Anderson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

15985. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

15986. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(c).

15987. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

15988. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

15989. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

15990. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

15991. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

15995. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

15997. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16000. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

COUNT 1161
Breach of Implied Warranty
(810 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 5/2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16001. Illinois Class Representatives Plaintiff Carol Harkins and Plaintiff Vickie Anderson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16002. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16005. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16007. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1162
Unjust Enrichment
(Illinois Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16010. Illinois Class Representative Plaintiff Carol Harkins and Plaintiff Vickie Anderson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16011. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16015. violates the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

16017. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Louisiana-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1163
Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16018. Louisiana Class Representative Plaintiff Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16019. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16020. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

16021. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

16022. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

16023. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

16024. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its

Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16028. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

16030. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

16031. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16032. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16034. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

COUNT 1164
Breach of Implied Warranty
(La. Civ. Code Ann. Art. §2520)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16035. Louisiana Class Representative Plaintiff Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16036. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16039. Defendant breached its implied warranty because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16041. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

16043. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties against redhibitory defect, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

COUNT 1165
Unjust Enrichment
(Louisiana Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16044. Louisiana Class Representative Plaintiff Randy Jones incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16045. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16049. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs for the Ranitidine Containing-Drugs – was the result of Plaintiffs' impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiffs of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

16052. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1166
Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16053. Massachussetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16054. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16055. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

16056. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

16057. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

16058. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16062. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

16064. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16065. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16068. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

COUNT 1167
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Mass. Gen. Law Ch. 106 §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16069. Massachusetts Class Representative Plaintiff Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16070. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16073. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16075. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1168
Unjust Enrichment
(Massachusetts Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart

16078. Massachusetts Class Representative Plaintiff Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16079. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16083. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and the Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and the Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and the Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

16084. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-

Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

16086. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1169
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16087. Minnesota Class Representative Plaintiff Sandra Erickson Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16088. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16089. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

16090. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

16091. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

16092. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16096. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16099. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16100. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16102. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 1170
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16103. Minnesota Class Representative Plaintiff Sandra Erickson Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16104. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16107. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16109. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1171
Unjust Enrichment
(Minnesota Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16112. Minnesota Class Representative Plaintiff Sandra Erickson Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16113. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16119. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

10. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Mississippi-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1172
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Miss. Code Ann. §75-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16120. Mississippi Class Representatives Plaintiff Lora Mauffray and Plaintiff Shirley Magee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16121. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Miss. Code Ann. §75-2-314.

16124. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16126. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1173
Unjust Enrichment
(Mississippi Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16129. Mississippi Class Representatives Plaintiff Lora Mauffray and Plaintiff Shirley Magee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16130. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16134. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

16136. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

16137. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Jersey-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1174
Violation of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16138. New Jersey Class Representative Plaintiff James Adamo incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16139. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16140. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(d).

16141. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

16142. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act ("New Jersey CFA") by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.

16146. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16148. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16149. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16151. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

COUNT 1175
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §12A:2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16152. New Jersey Class Representative Plaintiff James Adamo incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16153. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16156. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16159. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

16169. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1177
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16170. New Mexico Class Representatives Plaintiff Ernesto Sanchez and Plaintiff Carrie Martinez incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16171. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16172. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

16173. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

16174. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

16175. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

16176. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the New Mexico UTPA, including:

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

16180. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16182. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16183. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16204. New York Class Representatives Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16205. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16206. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

16207. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

16208. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16212. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16213. Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16218. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16219. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16220. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

16221. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

16222. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

16223. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16227. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16229. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16230. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16233. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1182
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16234. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16235. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16238. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16240. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 1183
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16243. New York Class Representative Plaintiff Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16244. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16250. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing dispute.

14. Causes of Action on Behalf of the South Carolina-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1184
Violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act
(S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16251. South Carolina Class Representative Plaintiff Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16252. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16253. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(a).

16254. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(b).

16255. The South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act ("South Carolina UTPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-20(a).

16256. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16260. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16262. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16263. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16265. As a result of Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the South Carolina UTPA.

COUNT 1185
Breach of Implied Warranty
(S.C. Code Ann. §36-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16266. South Carolina Class Representative Plaintiff Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16267. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16270. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16272. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

COUNT 1186
Unjust Enrichment
(South Carolina Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16275. South Carolina Class Representatives Plaintiff Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16276. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16282. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

15. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Tennessee-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1187
Violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16283. Tennessee Class Representatives Plaintiff Rebecca Howard and Plaintiff Jeffrey Garrett incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16284. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16285. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

16286. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

16287. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

16288. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

16289. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

16290. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

16291. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16292. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above,

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Tennessee CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

16295. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16297. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16298. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16300. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Tennessee CPA.

16301. Tennessee Class Representatives Plaintiff Jeffrey Howard and Plaintiff Rebecca Garrett incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16302. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16305. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16307. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

16323. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

16324. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

16325. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

16326. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

16327. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

16331. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16334. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16335. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16338. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1190
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16339. Texas Class Representatives Marilyn Abraham and Marianella Villlanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16340. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16343. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16345. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class purchased Defendant's private-label ranitidine product directly from Defendant and, thus, there is privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

COUNT 1191
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart

16348. Texas Class Representatives Plaintiff Marilyn Abraham and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16349. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16353. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

16355. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

17. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Virginia-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1192
Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16356. Virginia Class Representative Plaintiff Dan Zhovtis incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16357. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16358. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

16359. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

16360. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

16361. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

16362. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

16363. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

16364. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

16368. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16371. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16374. 18. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Washington-Walmart Classes

COUNT 1195
Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart)

16394. Washington Class Representatives Plaintiff Johnathan Ferguson and Plaintiff Robert Dewitt incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 86-90, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, and 1093-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

16395. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Walmart Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Retailer Defendant Walmart (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant").

16397. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

16398. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

16399. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

16400. In the course of its business, as a Private Label Distributor, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Washington CPA.

16404. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including their misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16406. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16409. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

16410. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

16427. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

16428. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

XII. CAUSES OF ACTION AGAINST OTC STORE-BRAND MANUFACTURERS

A. Causes of Action Against Apotex with Respect to Private-Label Product Rite-Aid Ranitidine

16429. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Apotex, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 30-35 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422

(NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 1056-1066 (Rite-Aid's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1170-1192 (Apotex's Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 1067-1077, 1193-1205 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 1078-1092, 1206-1218 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

16430. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Apotex on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective state. Each Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations specific to them from Section II.B., supra, into their respective claims below:

Plaintiff Name	State(s)
Golbenaz Bakhtiar	California
Richard Obrien	California
Richard Froehlich	New York

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1198
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16431. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16432. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

16433. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

16434. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

16435. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and thus resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

16441. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

16442. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

16443. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

16444. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16447. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1199
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16448. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16449. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

16450. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

16451. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

16452. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and thus resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

16458. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16459. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16461. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1200
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16462. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16463. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

16464. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

16465. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

16466. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

16467. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

16468. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

16469. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and thus resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

16475. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

16476. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16478. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal.

Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

16479. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

COUNT 1201
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16480. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16481. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

16487. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1202
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code § 2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16488. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16489. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

16492. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16495. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1203
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16498. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16499. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

16500. Plaintiff and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

16501. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

16502. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and thus resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16508. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16509. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16511. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 1204
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16512. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16513. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

16514. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

16515. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

16516. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiff and the Class members.

16517. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and thus resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16523. Plaintiff and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16524. Specifically, Plaintiff and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiff and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16526. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiff within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiff seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiff and the Class members are entitled.

16527. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1205
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16528. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16529. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

16530. Plaintiff and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

16535. Plaintiff and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1206
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law § 2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16536. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16537. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

16538. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to New York Class Representatives and members of the New York Class and was in the business of selling such products.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314.

16540. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

B. Causes of Action Against Apotex with Respect to Private-Label Product Walgreens Wal-Zan

16546. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Apotex, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 30-35 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 962-978 (Walgreens' Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1170-1192 (Apotex's Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 979-989, 1193-1205 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 990-1004, 1206-1218 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

16547. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Apotex on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective state. Each Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations specific to them from Section II.B., supra, into their respective claims below:

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1207
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16548. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16549. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16551. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

16552. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

16553. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16556. Defendant's misreprsentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a unform manner.

16560. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16561. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16563. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 1208
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16564. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16565. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16571. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1209
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ariz. Rev. State. Ann. §47-2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16572. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16573. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16576. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16579. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1210
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16582. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16583. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16584. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

16585. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

16586. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

16587. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

16588. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

16589. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

16596. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16599. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 1211
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16600. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16601. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16607. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

16608. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1212
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16609. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16610. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16613. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16616. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Apotex Classes

Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16619. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16620. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16621. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

16622. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

16623. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

16629. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

16630. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

16631. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

16632. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16633. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16635. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1214
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16636. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16637. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16638. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

16639. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

16640. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16641. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

16643. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16646. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16647. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16649. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1215
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16650. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16651. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16652. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

16653. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

16654. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

16655. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

16656. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

16657. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

16663. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16666. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

16667. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

COUNT 1216
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16668. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16669. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16675. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1217
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16676. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16677. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16680. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16683. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Colorado-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1218
Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16686. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16687. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16688. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

16689. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

16690. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

16691. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

16698. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16699. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16701. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Colorado CPA.

Unjust Enrichment
(Colorado Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16702. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16703. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16707. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without commensurate compensation because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

16709. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

16711. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16712. The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

16713. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. §45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

16714. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

16715. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

16716. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16722. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16723. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16725. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

16727. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members suffered an impoverishment because they purchased worthless medications and did not receive the expected benefit therefrom.

16730. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16731. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

16742. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16744. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

COUNT 1224
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16760. Iowa Class Representative Brian Nervig incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16761. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16762. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

16763. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

16764. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

16765. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Defendant did so with willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others.

16766. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive business practices prohibited by the Iowa PRACFA.

16767. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

16771. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Iowa PRACFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16772. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out- of-pocket loss.

16774. As a result of Defendants' violations of the Iowa PRACFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendants' unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Iowa PRACFA.

16775. Additionally, because Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, were undertaken in willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others, pursuant to Iowa Code §714H.5(4), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an additonal award of treble damages.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. IA Code §554.2314.

16788. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16791. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Michigan-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1227
Violation of the Michigan Consumer Protection Act
(Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.901, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16794. Michigan Class Representative Jerry Hunt incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16795. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16796. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(d).

16797. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(g).

16798. The Michigan Consumer Protection Act ("Michigan CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts, or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1).

16799. The Michigan CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(c));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(e)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising or representing goods or services with intent not to dispose of those goods or services as advertised or represented" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(g)).

16800. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

16806. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16809. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Michigan CPA.

COUNT 1228
Unjust Enrichment
(Michigan Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16810. Michigan Class Representative Jerry Hunt incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16811. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16817. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

16818. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1229
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16819. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16820. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16821. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

16822. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

16823. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

16824. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16830. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

16831. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16832. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16834. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

16836. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16837. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

16842. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16843. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16844. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16850. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1232
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16853. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16854. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16855. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

16856. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

16857. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

16858. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

16859. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

16861. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

16865. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16866. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16868. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16869. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16870. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16876. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314.

16882. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16885. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Puerto Rico-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1235
Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16888. South Carolina Class Representative Gloria Colon incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16889. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16893. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

16896. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1236
Breach of Implied Warranty
(P.R. Laws Ann. Tit. 31, §3841)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16897. South Carolina Class Representative Gloria Colon incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16898. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16901. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16903. Plaintiffs and each member of the Class have had sufficient direct dealings with either Defendant or its agents (including distributors, dealers, and authorized sellers) to establish privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

16904. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1237
Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16907. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16908. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16910. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

16911. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

16912. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

16913. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

16914. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

16915. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label

Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

16918. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

16921. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

16922. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16923. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16925. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

16926. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1238
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16927. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16928. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16932. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

16934. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1239
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16935. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16936. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16939. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

16942. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 1240
Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16945. Washington Class Representative Jonathan Ferguson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16946. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

16948. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

16949. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

16950. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

16951. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

16953. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

16957. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16958. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

16960. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

16961. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1243
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16983. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

16984. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

16986. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

16987. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

16988. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.
