material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

16994. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

16995. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

16998. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 1244
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

16999. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17000. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17006. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1245
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17007. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17008. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17009. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

17010. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

17011. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

17012. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

17013. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

17014. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Arkansas DTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

17021. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17024. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17025. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17026. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17032. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

17033. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1247
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17035. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ark. Code. Ann. §4-2-314.

17041. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17044. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17045. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17046. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

17047. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

17048. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

17049. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17050. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Colorado CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

17069. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17071. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. §45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

17072. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

17073. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

17074. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17088. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17089. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

17091. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

17092. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1252
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17093. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17095. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

17096. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

17097. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

17098. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

17099. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

17100. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17101. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Georgia FBPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

17106. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

17107. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17108. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17110. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-399(b) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

17111. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT 1253
Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17112. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17113. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17117. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

17119. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

17120. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1254
Violation of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act
(815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17121. Illinois Class Representative Carol Harkins incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17124. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

17125. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

17126. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

17127. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

17128. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17134. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17135. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17137. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

COUNT 1255
Unjust Enrichment
(Illinois Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17138. Illinois Class Representative Carol Harkins incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17139. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17143. It violates the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

17145. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Louisiana-Apotex Classes

COUNT 1256
Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17146. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17148. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

17149. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

17150. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

17151. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

17152. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17158. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

17159. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17160. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17162. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

COUNT 1257
Unjust Enrichment
(Louisiana Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17163. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17164. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17168. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs for the Ranitidine Containing-Drugs – was the result of Plaintiffs' impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiffs of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

17169. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-

Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

17171. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1258
Breach of Implied Warranty
(La. Stat. Ann. Art. §2520)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17172. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17173. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. La. Civ. Code. Ann. §2520.

17179. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Apotex Classes

Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17182. Massachusetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17183. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17184. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

17185. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

17186. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17193. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17196. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §9(3) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

17197. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

COUNT 1260
Unjust Enrichment
(Massachusetts Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17198. Massachusetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17199. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

17203. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

17206. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1261
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ch. 106 §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17207. Massachusetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17208. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17214. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Apotex Classes

Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17217. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17218. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17219. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

17220. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

17221. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

17222. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

17228. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

17229. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17230. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17232. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Jersey-Apotex Classes

Violation of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17270. New Jersey Class Representative James Adamo incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17271. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17272. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(d).

17273. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

17280. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17283. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

COUNT 1268
Unjust Enrichment
(New Jersey)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17284. New Jersey Class Representative James Adamo incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17285. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17291. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

17299. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Apotex Classes

Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17302. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17303. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17304. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

17305. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

17306. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

17307. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

17308. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

17314. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17317. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 1271
Unjust Enrichment
(New Mexico Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17318. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17319. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17325. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

17326. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1272
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17327. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17328. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17334. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Apotex Classes

Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17337. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17338. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17339. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

17340. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

17341. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17347. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17348. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17350. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17351. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17352. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17353. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

17354. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

17355. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

17356. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17362. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17363. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17365. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

17366. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1275
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17367. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17368. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17374. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1276
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17375. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17376. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314.

Violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17385. Tennessee Class Representative Jeffrey Garrett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17386. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17387. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

17388. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

17389. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

17390. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

17391. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

17392. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

17393. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

17399. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17400. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17402. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Tennessee CPA.

COUNT 1278
Unjust Enrichment
(Tennessee Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17403. Tennessee Class Representative Jeffrey Garrett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17404. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17410. There is no existing, enforceable contract governing this dispute.

17411. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1279
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17412. Tennessee Class Representative Jeffrey Garrett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17413. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17419. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

15. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-Apotex Classes

Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17422. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva and Marilyn Abraham incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17423. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17425. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

17426. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

17427. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

17428. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

17429. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

17430. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

17437. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17438. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17440. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

17441. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

17447. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

17449. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17460. Virginia Class Representative Dan Zhovtis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17461. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17462. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

17463. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

17464. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

17465. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

17466. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

17467. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

17468. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17474. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

17475. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17478. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant.

Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

17479. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Virginia CPA.

17489. Virginia Class Representative Dan Zhovtis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17490. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17496. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Washington-Apotex Classes

Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17499. Washington Class Representatives Robert Dewitt and Jonathan Ferguson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17500. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17502. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

17503. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

17504. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

17505. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17511. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17514. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

17515. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

COUNT 1287
Unjust Enrichment
(Washington Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17516. Washington Class Representatives Robert Dewitt and Jonathan Ferguson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17517. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17523. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

17524. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1288
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §62A 2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex)

17525. Washington Class Representatives Robert Dewitt and Jonathan Ferguson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 30-35, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1170-1218 as though fully set forth herein.

17526. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Apotex Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Apotex (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

17532. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

D. Causes of Action Against Dr. Reddy's with Respect to Private-Label Product CVS Health Ranitidine

17535. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Dr. Reddy's, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 36-45 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 1005-1029 (CVS's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1219-1230 (Dr. Reddy's Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 1030-1040, 1231-1243 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 1041-1055, 1244-1256 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

17536. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Dr. Reddy's on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. Each Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations specific to them from Section II.B., supra, into their respective claims below:

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Classes

Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17537. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17538. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17539. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

17540. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

17541. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

17542. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California UCL. These acts also constitute "fraudulent" business acts and practices under the California UCL in that Defendant's conduct is false, misleading, and has a tendency to deceive the Class and the general public.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17547. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

17548. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

17549. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

17550. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17551. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17553. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17554. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17556. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

17557. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

17558. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17559. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

17564. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17565. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17567. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17568. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17569. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17570. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

17571. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

17572. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

17573. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

17574. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

17575. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

17581. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17584. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

17585. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17586. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17587. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17593. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1293
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17594. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17595. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17601. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17604. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17605. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17606. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

17607. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

17609. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

17615. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17618. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

(Connecticut Law)

17619. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17620. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17626. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1296
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17627. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17628. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17629. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

17630. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

17631. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

17632. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

17633. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

17634. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17640. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

17641. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17642. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17644. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Ga.

Code Ann. §10-1-399(b) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

17645. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT 1297
Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17646. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17647. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

17651. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

17653. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

17654. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1298
Unjust Enrichment
(Indiana Law)

17655. Indiana Class Representative Rebecca Sizemore incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17656. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purposes of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17658. In exchange for their payment of the purchase prices of Defendant's Raniditine-Containing Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in high, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

17660. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

value thereof, and, therefore, restitution and disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

17662. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 1299
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ind. Code Ann. §26-1-2-314.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17663. Indiana Class Representative Rebecca Sizemore incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17664. This cause of action is brought on behalf of Indiana-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17667. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

17669. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

17670. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

17672. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Class were damaged as a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Michigan-Dr. Reddy's Classes

Violation of the Michigan Consumer Protection Act
(Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.901, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17675. Michigan Class Representative Arthur Gamble incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17677. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(d).

17678. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(g).

17679. The Michigan Consumer Protection Act ("Michigan CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts, or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1).

17680. The Michigan CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(c));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(e)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising or representing goods or services with intent not to dispose of those goods or services as advertised or represented" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(g)).

17681. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

17687. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17690. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Michigan CPA.

COUNT 1301
Unjust Enrichment
(Michigan Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17691. Michigan Class Representative Arthur Gamble incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17692. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17698. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

17699. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1302
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17700. Minnesota Class Representative Brad Hoag incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17703. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

17704. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

17705. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

17712. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17713. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17715. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

17716. Minnesota Class Representative Brad Hoag incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17717. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17723. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1304
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17724. Minnesota Class Representative Brad Hoag incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17725. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17731. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1305
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17734. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17735. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17736. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

17737. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

17738. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

17739. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

17740. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

17746. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17747. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17749. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 1306
Unjust Enrichment
(New Mexico Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17750. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17751. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17757. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

(N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17759. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17760. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314.

17766. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1308
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17770. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17771. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

17772. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17779. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17780. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17782. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 1309
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)

17784. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17785. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

17786. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

17787. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

17788. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

17794. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17795. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

17798. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1310
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)

17800. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

17806. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1311
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17808. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17814. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Ohio-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1312
Unjust Enrichment
(Ohio Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17817. Ohio Class Representatives Chris Troyan and Patricia Hess incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17818. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Ohio-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17824. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ohio Rev. Code Ann. §1302.27)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17825. Ohio Class Representatives Chris Troyan and Patricia Hess incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17826. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Ohio-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

17832. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-Dr. Reddy's Classes

Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17835. Texas Class Representatives Gregory Alan Wayland and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17838. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

17839. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

17840. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

17841. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

17842. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

17843. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

17850. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17851. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17853. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

17854. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1315
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17855. Texas Class Representatives Gregory Alan Wayland and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17856. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17860. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

17862. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1316
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17863. Texas Class Representatives Gregory Alan Wayland and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17864. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17870. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the West Virginia-Dr. Reddy's Classes

Violation of the West Virginia Consumer Credit and Protection Act
(W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-101, et seq.)

17873. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in the paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17875. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-102(31).

17876. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §§46A-1-102(12) and 46A-6-102(2).

17877. The OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-102(21).

17878. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(6).

17879. The West Virginia Consumer Credit and Protection Act ("West Virginia CCPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts of practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-104.

17880. The West Virginia CCPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(E));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(G));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(I));

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(L)); and

(e) "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise or misrepresentation, or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods or services, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(M)).

bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

17886. The facts regarding OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17887. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the West Virginia CCPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17890. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-106(c) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

17891. As a result of Defendant's violations of the West Virginia CCPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the West Virginia CCPA.

COUNT 1318
Unjust Enrichment
(West Virginia Law)

17892. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in the paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17893. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

17899. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

17900. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1319
Breach of Implied Warranty
(W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17901. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in the paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17902. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

17905. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

17908. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

E. Causes of Action Against Dr. Reddy's with Respect to Private-Label Product Walgreens Wal-Zan

17911. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Dr. Reddy's, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 36-45 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469

(requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 962-978 (Walgreens' Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1219-1230 (Dr. Reddy's Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 979-989, 1231-1243 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 990-1004, 1244-1256 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1320
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17916. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

17917. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17924. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

17925. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17926. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17928. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 1321
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17930. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

17936. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1322
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17938. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

17939. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

17940. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

17942. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

17943. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

17944. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Arkansas DTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

17951. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17952. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

17954. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 1323
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17955. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17956. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

17962. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

17963. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1324
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17964. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17965. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ark. Code. Ann. §4-2-314.

17971. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Classes

Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17974. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17976. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

17977. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

17978. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

17979. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California UCL. These acts also constitute "fraudulent" business acts and practices under the California UCL in that Defendant's conduct is false, misleading, and has a tendency to deceive the Class and the general public.

17984. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

17985. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

17986. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21

C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

17987. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

17990. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1326
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

17991. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

17994. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

17995. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

17996. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

18001. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18002. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18004. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1327
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18005. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18006. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18007. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

18008. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

18009. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

18010. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

18011. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

18012. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

18018. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18021. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

18022. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18023. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18024. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18028. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

18030. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1329
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18031. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18032. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18035. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

18038. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Colorado-Dr. Reddy's Classes

Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18041. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18042. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18043. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

18044. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

18045. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

18046. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

18048. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

18053. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18056. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Colorado CPA.

COUNT 1331
Unjust Enrichment
(Colorado Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18057. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18058. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18062. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without commensurate compensation because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

18064. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18065. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18066. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18067. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

18068. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

18069. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

18070. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18076. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18079. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18088. Florida Class Representative Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18089. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18090. The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

18091. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

18092. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

18093. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

18094. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the FDUTPA.

18100. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18101. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18104. Florida Class Representative Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18105. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18108. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18109. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

18111. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18135. It violates the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

18137. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Iowa-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1338
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18138. Iowa Class Representative Brian Nervig incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18140. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

18141. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

18142. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

18143. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Defendant did so with willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others.

18149. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Iowa PRACFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18152. As a result of Defendants' violations of the Iowa PRACFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendants' unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Iowa PRACFA.

18153. Additionally, because Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, were undertaken in willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others, pursuant to Iowa Code §714H.5(4), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an additonal award of treble damages.

COUNT 1339
Unjust Enrichment
(Iowa Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18154. Iowa Class Representative Brian Nervig incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18155. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18159. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

18161. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 1340
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Iowa Code Ann. §554.2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18162. Iowa Class Representative Brian Nervig incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18163. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18169. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1341
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18174. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

18175. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

18176. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

18177. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18184. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18187. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 1342
Unjust Enrichment
(Minnesota Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18189. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18195. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18196. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18197. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18203. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1344
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18206. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18207. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18208. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

18209. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

18210. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

18211. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

18212. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

18218. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18221. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 1345
Unjust Enrichment
(New Mexico Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18222. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18223. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18229. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

18230. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

(N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18231. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18232. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18238. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Puerto Rico-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1347
Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)

18241. South Carolina Class Representative Gloria Colon incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18242. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed

18246. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

18249. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1348
Breach of Implied Warranty
(P.R. Laws Ann. Tit. 31, §3841)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18250. South Carolina Class Representative Gloria Colon incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18251. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18257. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-Dr. Reddy's Classes

Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18260. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18263. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

18264. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

18265. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

18266. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

18267. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

18268. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18269. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Texas DTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

18274. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

18275. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18276. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18278. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

18279. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1350
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18280. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18281. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

18285. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

18287. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1351
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18288. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18289. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

18292. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

18295. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18298. Washington Class Representative Jonathan Ferguson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18301. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

18302. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

18303. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

18310. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18311. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18313. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

18314. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

18331. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

F. Causes of Action Against Dr. Reddy's with Respect to Private-Label Product Walmart Equate Ranitidine

18334. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Dr. Reddy's, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 36-45 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 917-936 (Walmart's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1219-1230 (Dr. Reddy's Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 937-946, 1231-1243 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 947-961, 1244-1256 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

18335. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Dr. Reddy's on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states.

Each Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations specific to them from Section II.B., supra, into their respective claims below:

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1355
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18336. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18339. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

18340. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

18347. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

18348. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18349. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18351. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 1356
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18353. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18359. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1357
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18360. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18362. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

18363. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

18365. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

18366. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

18367. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Arkansas DTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

18374. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18375. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18377. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 1358
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18378. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18379. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18385. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

18386. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1359
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18387. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18388. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ark. Code. Ann. §4-2-314.

18391. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

18394. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Colorado-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1360
Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18397. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18399. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

18400. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

18401. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

18402. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

18408. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

18409. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18410. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18412. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Colorado CPA.

(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18413. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18414. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18418. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without commensurate compensation because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

18420. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Florida-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1362
Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18421. Florida Class Representative Michael Tomlinson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18422. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18423. The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

18424. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

18425. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

18426. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

18427. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18433. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18436. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

COUNT 1363
Unjust Enrichment
(Florida Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18437. Florida Class Representative Michael Tomlinson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18438. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18442. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

18444. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

18445. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1364
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18446. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18447. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18448. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

18449. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

18450. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

18451. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

18452. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

18453. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date;

and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18454. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Georgia FBPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

18459. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

18460. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18461. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18463. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-399(b) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

18464. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT 1365
Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18465. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18466. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18470. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

18472. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

18473. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1366
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ga. Code Ann. §11-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18474. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18475. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18478. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

18481. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Illinois-Dr. Reddy's Classes

Violation of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act
(815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18484. Illinois Class Representatives Carol Harkins and Vickie Anderson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18487. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

18488. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

18489. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

18490. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

18491. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18497. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18498. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18500. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

18502. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18508. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Louisiana-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1369
Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18509. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18511. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

18512. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

18513. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

18514. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

18515. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18521. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

18522. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18523. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18525. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

COUNT 1370
Unjust Enrichment
(Louisiana Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18526. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18527. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18531. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs for the Ranitidine Containing-Drugs – was the result of Plaintiffs' impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiffs of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

18532. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-

Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

18534. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1371
Breach of Implied Warranty
(La. Stat. Ann. Art. §2520)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18535. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18536. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. La. Civ. Code. Ann. §2520.

18542. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1372
Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18545. Massachusetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18546. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18547. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

18548. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

18549. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

18550. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18556. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18559. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §9(3) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

18560. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

(Massachusetts Law)

18561. Massachusetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18562. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18566. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1375
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18580. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18582. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

18583. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

18584. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

18585. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

18592. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18593. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18595. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

(Minnesota Law)

18596. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18597. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18603. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

18630. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Jersey-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1380
Violation of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18633. New Jersey Class Representative James Adamo incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18634. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18635. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(d).

18636. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

18643. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18646. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

COUNT 1381
Unjust Enrichment
(New Jersey)

18647. New Jersey Class Representative James Adamo incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18648. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18654. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1382
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §12A:2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18655. New Jersey Class Representative James Adamo incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18656. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18662. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1383
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18665. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez, Carrie Martinez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18667. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

18668. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

18669. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

18670. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

18671. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

18677. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18680. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 1384
Unjust Enrichment
(New Mexico Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18681. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez, Carrie Martinez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18682. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18684. Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18690. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez, Carrie Martinez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18691. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18697. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1386
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18702. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

18703. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

18704. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18710. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18711. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18713. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 1387
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18716. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

18717. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

18718. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

18719. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18725. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18726. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18728. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

18729. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1388
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)

18731. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18737. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1389
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)

18739. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314.

18745. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act
(S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18748. South Carolina Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18750. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(a).

18751. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10(b).

18752. The South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act ("South Carolina UTPA") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-20(a).

18753. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the South Carolina UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18759. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18762. As a result of Defendant's violations of the South Carolina UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the South Carolina UTPA.

15. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Tennessee-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1393
Violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18781. Tennessee Class Representatives Jeffrey Garrett and Rebecca Howard incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18783. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

18784. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

18785. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

18786. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

18787. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

18788. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

18789. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

18795. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

18825. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

18826. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

18832. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

18833. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18834. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18836. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

18837. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1397
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18838. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva and Marilyn Abraham incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18839. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

18843. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

18845. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1398
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18846. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva and Marilyn Abraham incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18847. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18853. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Virginia-Dr. Reddy's Classes

COUNT 1399
Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)

18856. Virginia Class Representative Dan Zhovtis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18858. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

18859. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

18860. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

18861. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

18862. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

18863. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

18864. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

18871. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18874. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

18875. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Virginia CPA.

Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's)

18895. Washington Class Representatives Robert Dewitt and Jonathan Ferguson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 36-45, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1219-1256 as though fully set forth herein.

18896. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Dr. Reddy's Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

18898. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

18899. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

18900. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

18901. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Washington CPA.

expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

18928. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

G. Causes of Action Against Perrigo with Respect to Private-Label Product CVS Health Ranitidine

18931. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Perrigo, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 53-59 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 1005-1029 (CVS's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1119-1143 (Perrigo's Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 1030-1040, 1144-1156 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 1041-1055, 1157-1169 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

Plaintiff Name	State(s) of Residence

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1405
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

18933. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

18935. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

18936. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

18937. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

18943. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

18944. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

18945. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

18946. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18949. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1406
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

18950. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

18952. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

18953. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

18954. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

18960. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

18961. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18963. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1407
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

18964. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

18965. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Californi-Perrigo a Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

18966. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

18967. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

18968. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

18969. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

18970. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

18971. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

18977. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

18978. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

18980. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

18981. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)

18982. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

18989. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1409
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

18990. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

18991. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

18997. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class was the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Connecticut-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1410
Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19000. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19001. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19002. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

19003. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

19004. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

19005. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19011. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19012. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19014. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

COUNT 1411
Unjust Enrichment
(Connecticut Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19015. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19016. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

19022. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1412
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19023. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19024. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19025. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

19026. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

19027. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

19028. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

19029. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

19030. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date;

and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19031. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Georgia FBPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

19036. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

19037. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19038. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19040. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-399(b) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

19041. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19042. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19043. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19047. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

19049. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

19050. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Indiana-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1414
Unjust Enrichment
(Indiana Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19051. Indiana Class Representative Rebecca Sizemore incorporates the preceding allegaitons in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19052. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Perrigo Class (for the purposes of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19054. In exchange for their payment of the purchase prices of Defenadnt's Raniditine-Containing Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in hight, undisclosied, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

19056. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

19058. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 1415
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ind. Code Ann. §26-1-2-314)

19059. Indiana Class Representative Rebecca Sizemore incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19060. This cause of action is brought on behalf of Indiana-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19061. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to Indiana Class Representatives and members of the Indiana Class and was in the business of selling such products.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

19063. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

19065. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

19066. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

19068. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Michigan Consumer Protection Act
(Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.901, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19071. Michigan Class Representative Arthur Gamble incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19072. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19073. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(d).

19074. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(g).

19075. The Michigan Consumer Protection Act ("Michigan CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts, or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1).

19076. The Michigan CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(c));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(e)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising or representing goods or services with intent not to dispose of those goods or services as advertised or represented" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(g)).

19077. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

19083. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19086. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Michigan CPA.

19087. Michigan Class Representative Arthur Gamble incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19088. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19091. Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §440.2314.

19100. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19106. Minnesota Class Representative Brad Hoag incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19107. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19108. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

19109. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

19110. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann.

§325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

19111. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

19116. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

19117. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

19118. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19119. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19121. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 1420
Unjust Enrichment
(Minnesota Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19122. Minnesota Class Representative Brad Hoag incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19123. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

19129. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1421
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19130. Minnesota Class Representative Brad Hoag incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19131. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19137. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1422
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19140. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19141. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19142. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

19143. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

19144. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

19145. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

19152. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19153. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19155. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 1423
Unjust Enrichment
(New Mexico Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19156. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19157. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19163. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

19164. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19165. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19166. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19172. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1425
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19175. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19176. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19177. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

19178. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

19179. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19185. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19186. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19188. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 1426
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19190. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19191. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

19192. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

19193. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

19194. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19200. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19201. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19203. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

19204. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1427
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)

19206. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19212. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1428
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19214. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19220. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

19230. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ohio Rev. Code Ann. §1302.27)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19231. Ohio Class Representatives Chris Troyan and Patricia Hess incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19232. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Ohio-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ohio Rev. Code Ann. §1302.27.

19238. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1431
Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19241. Texas Class Representatives Gregory Alan Wayland and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19242. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19243. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(3).

19244. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

19245. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

19246. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

19247. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

19248. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

19249. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

19255. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

19256. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19257. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19259. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

19260. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1432
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19261. Texas Class Representatives Gregory Alan Wayland and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19262. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19266. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

19268. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1433
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19269. Texas Class Representatives Gregory Alan Wayland and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19270. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

19276. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the West Virginia-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1434
Violation of the West Virginia Consumer Credit and Protection Act
(W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19279. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in the paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19281. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-102(31).

19282. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §§46A-1-102(12) and 46A-6-102(2).

19283. The OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-102(21).

19284. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(6).

19285. The West Virginia Consumer Credit and Protection Act ("West Virginia CCPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts of practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-104.

19286. The West Virginia CCPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(E));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(G));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(I));

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(L)); and

(e) "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise or misrepresentation, or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods or services, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(M)).

bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products.

19292. The facts regarding OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products.

19293. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the West Virginia CCPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19296. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-106(c) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

19297. As a result of Defendant's violations of the West Virginia CCPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the West Virginia CCPA.

(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19298. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in the paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19299. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

19305. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

19306. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1436
Breach of Implied Warranty
(W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19307. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in the paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19308. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

privity of contract between Defendant, on the one hand, and Plaintiffs and each member of the Class, on the other hand.

19314. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

H. Causes of Action Against Perrigo with Respect to Private-Label Product Rite-Aid Ranitidine

19317. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Perrigo, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 53-59 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469

(requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 1056-1066 (Rite Aid's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1119-1143 (Perrigo's Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 1067-1077, 1144-1156 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 1078-1092, 1157-1169 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

Plaintiff Name	State(s) of Residence
Golbenaz Bakhtiar	California
Richard Obrien	California
Janet Asbury	Kentucky
Richard Froehlich	New York

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1437
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19319. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1092, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19321. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

19322. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

19323. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

19329. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

19330. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

19331. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

19332. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19335. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1438
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19336. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1092, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19338. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

19339. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

19340. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

19346. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19349. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1439
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19350. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1092, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19352. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

19353. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

19354. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

19355. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

19356. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

19357. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

19363. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

19364. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19366. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

19367. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19368. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1092, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19375. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1441
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19376. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1092, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19383. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Kentucky-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1442
Violation of the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19386. Kentucky Class Representative Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1092, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19387. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

19388. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(1).

19389. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(2).

19390. The Kentucky Consumer Protection Act ("Kentucky CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, [unconscionable], false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.170(1)-(2).

19391. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Kentucky CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date;

and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19397. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19400. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Kentucky CPA.

COUNT 1443
Unjust Enrichment
(Kentucky Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19401. Kentucky Class Representative Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1092, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19402. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

19406. It would be inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

value thereof, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

19408. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1444
Violation of the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19409. Kentucky Class Representative Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1092, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19410. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

19412. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §355.2-314.

19413. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

19416. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York Class

COUNT 1445
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19420. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

19421. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

19422. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

19423. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19429. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19430. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19432. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 1446
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19434. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

19435. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

19436. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

19437. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

19438. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19444. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19445. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19447. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

19448. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1447
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19449. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1092, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19450. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

19456. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1448
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19457. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1092, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19458. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314.

19464. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

I. Causes of Action Against Perrigo with Respect to Private-Label Product Walgreens Wal-Zan

19467. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Perrigo, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 53-59 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 962-978 (Walgreens' Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1119-1143 (Perrigo's Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 979-989, 1144-1156 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 990-1004, 1157-1169 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

19468. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Perrigo on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. Each Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations specific to them from Section II.B., supra, into their respective claims below:

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1449
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19469. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19470. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19472. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

19473. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

19474. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19477. Defendant's misreprsentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a unform manner.

19481. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19482. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19484. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 1450
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19485. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19486. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19492. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1451
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ariz. Rev. State. Ann. §47-2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19493. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19494. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19500. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19503. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19504. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19505. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

19506. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

19507. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

19508. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

19509. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

19510. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

19517. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19518. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19520. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1455
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19540. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19542. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

19543. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

19544. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

19545. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California UCL. These acts also constitute "fraudulent" business acts and practices under the California UCL in that Defendant's conduct is false, misleading, and has a tendency to deceive the Class and the general public.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

19550. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

19551. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

19552. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400,

111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

19553. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19554. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19556. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1456
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19557. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19559. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

19560. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

19561. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19562. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

19564. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

19567. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19568. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19570. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1457
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19571. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19573. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

19574. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

19575. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

19576. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

19577. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

19578. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

19584. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19587. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

19588. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19589. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19596. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1459
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19597. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19598. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19604. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Colorado-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1460
Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19607. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19608. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19609. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

19610. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

19611. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

19612. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

19619. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19620. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19622. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Colorado CPA.

(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19639. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19640. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19641. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

19642. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

19643. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

19644. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42a-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19662. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19663. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19665. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42a-2-314.

19669. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Florida-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1466
Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19672. Florida Class Representative Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19673. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19674. The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

19675. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

19676. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

19677. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

19678. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

19684. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19685. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19687. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

COUNT 1467
Unjust Enrichment
(Florida Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19688. Florida Class Representative Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19689. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19692. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19693. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

19695. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

19696. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1468
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §672.314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19697. Florida Class Representative Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19698. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19700. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Fla. Stat. Ann. §672.314.

19704. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Illinois-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1469
Violation of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act
(815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19707. Illinois Class Representative Renee Chatman incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19708. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19709. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(c).

19710. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

19711. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

19712. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

19713. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

19714. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive business practices prohibited by the Illinois CFDBPA.

19720. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19721. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19723. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

COUNT 1470
Unjust Enrichment
(Illinois Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19724. Illinois Class Representative Renee Chatman incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19725. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19729. It violates the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

19731. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

19739. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Iowa-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1472
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19742. Iowa Class Representative Brian Nervig incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19743. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19744. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

19745. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

19746. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

19747. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label

Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Defendant did so with willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others.

19753. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Iowa PRACFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19754. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out- of-pocket loss.

19756. As a result of Defendants' violations of the Iowa PRACFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendants' unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Iowa PRACFA.

19757. Additionally, because Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, were undertaken in willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others, pursuant to Iowa Code §714H.5(4), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an additonal award of treble damages.

COUNT 1473
Unjust Enrichment
(Iowa Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19758. Iowa Class Representative Brian Nervig incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19759. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19763. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

19765. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

(Iowa Code Ann. §554.2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19766. Iowa Class Representative Brian Nervig incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19767. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19769. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. IA Code §554.2314.

19773. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1475
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19776. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19777. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19778. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

19779. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

19780. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

19781. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19788. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19791. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 1476
Unjust Enrichment
(Minnesota Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19792. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19793. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19799. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1477
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19800. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19801. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19803. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314

19807. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1478
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19810. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19811. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19812. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

19813. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

19814. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

19815. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

19816. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

19819. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

19820. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

19822. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19823. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19825. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

(New Mexico Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19826. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19827. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19833. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1481
Unjust Enrichment
(Puerto Rico Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19845. South Carolina Class Representative Gloria Colon incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19846. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the South Carolina-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed

19850. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

19853. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19864. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19865. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19866. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(3).

19867. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

19868. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

19869. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

19870. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

19871. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

19872. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19873. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Texas DTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

19874. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

19878. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

19879. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19880. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19882. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

19883. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1484
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19884. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19885. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

19889. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

19891. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1485
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19892. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19893. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19895. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314.

19899. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

13. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Washington-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1486
Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19902. Washington Class Representative Jonathan Ferguson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19903. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19905. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

19906. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

19907. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

19908. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19914. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19915. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

19917. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

19918. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

COUNT 1487
Unjust Enrichment
(Washington Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19919. Washington Class Representative Jonathan Ferguson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19920. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19926. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

19927. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1488
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §62A 2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19928. Washington Class Representative Jonathan Ferguson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, and 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19929. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

19935. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

J. Causes of Action Against Perrigo with Respect to Private-Label Product Walmart Equate Ranitidine

ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 917-936 (Walmart's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1119-1143 (Perrigo's Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 937-946, 1144-1156 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 947-961, 1157-1169 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1489
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19940. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19941. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

19943. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

19944. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

19945. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

19948. Defendant's misreprsentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a unform manner.

19952. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19955. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 1490
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19956. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19957. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

19963. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1491
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19964. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19965. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

19966. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

19967. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

19968. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

19969. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

19970. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

19971. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

19978. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

19981. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 1492
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19982. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19983. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

19989. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

19990. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1493
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

19991. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

19992. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

19998. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Colorado-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1494
Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20001. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20002. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20003. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

20004. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

20005. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

20006. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20007. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Colorado CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

20013. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20016. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Colorado CPA.

COUNT 1497
Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20033. Florida Class Representative Michael Tomlinson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20034. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20035. The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

20036. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

20037. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" and "[i]nterested part[ies] or person[s]" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(6)-(7).

20038. Defendant engaged in "[t]rade or commerce" as defined by the FDUTPA. See Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.203(8).

20039. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the FDUTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members suffered an impoverishment because they purchased worthless medications and did not receive the expected benefit therefrom.

20053. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20054. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

20058. Florida Class Representative Michael Tomlinson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20059. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20061. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Fla. Stat. Ann. §672.314.

20065. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1500
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20068. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20069. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20070. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

20071. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

20072. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

20073. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

20074. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

20075. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

20081. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

20082. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20083. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20085. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-399(b) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

20086. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT 1501
Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20087. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20088. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20092. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

20094. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

20095. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1502
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ga. Code Ann. §11-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20096. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20097. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20099. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ga. Code. Ann. §11-2-314.

20100. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

20103. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Illinois-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1503
Violation of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act
(815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20106. Illinois Class Representatives Carol Harkins and Vickie Anderson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20107. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20108. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(c).

20109. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

20110. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

20111. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

20112. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

20113. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20119. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20120. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20122. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

COUNT 1504
Unjust Enrichment
(Illinois Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20123. Illinois Class Representatives Carol Harkins and Vickie Anderson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20124. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

20128. It violates the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

20130. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

COUNT 1505
Breach of Implied Warranty
(810 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 5/2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20131. Illinois Class Representatives Carol Harkins and Vickie Anderson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20132. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20134. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. 810 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 5/2-314.

20138. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Louisiana-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1506
Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20141. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20142. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20143. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

20144. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

20145. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

20146. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

20147. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

20153. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

20154. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20155. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20157. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

20163. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs for the Ranitidine Containing-Drugs – was the result of Plaintiffs' impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiffs of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

20164. It is unjustifiable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

20166. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1508
Breach of Implied Warranty
(La. Stat. Ann. Art. §2520)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20167. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20168. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20170. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. La. Civ. Code. Ann. §2520.

20174. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1509
Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20177. Massachussetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20178. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20179. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

20180. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

20181. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

20182. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20186. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

20188. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20189. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20191. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §9(3) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

20192. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

COUNT 1510
Unjust Enrichment
(Massachusetts Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20193. Massachussetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20194. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20198. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

20201. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1511
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ch. 106 §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20202. Massachussetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20203. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

20209. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1512
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20212. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20213. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20214. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

20215. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

20216. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

20217. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

20223. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

20224. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20225. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20227. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 1513
Unjust Enrichment
(Minnesota Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20228. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20229. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

Unjust Enrichment
(Mississippi Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20246. Mississippi Class Representatives Lora Mauffray and Shirley Magee incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20247. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Mississippi-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20253. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

20267. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(d).

20268. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

20269. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act ("New Jersey CFA") by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.

20275. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20276. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20278. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

COUNT 1518
Unjust Enrichment
(New Jersey)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20279. New Jersey Class Representative James Adamo incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20280. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20286. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1519
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §12A:2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20287. New Jersey Class Representative James Adamo incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20288. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20290. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.J. Stat. Ann. §12A:2-314.

20294. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1520
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20297. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez, Carrie Martinez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20298. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20299. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

20300. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

20301. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

20302. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

20303. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20304. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the New Mexico UTPA, including:

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

20309. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20310. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20312. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

20333. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20334. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

20335. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

20336. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20341. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20345. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 1524
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20347. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20348. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

20349. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

20350. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

20351. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20357. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20358. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20360. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

20361. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1525
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20362. New York Class Representative Richard Froehlich incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20363. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20369. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1526
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20371. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314.

20377. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

14. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Tennessee-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1527
Violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20380. Tennessee Class Representative Jeffrey Garrett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20381. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20382. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

20383. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

20384. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

20385. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

20386. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

20387. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

20388. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

20394. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20395. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20397. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Tennessee CPA.

COUNT 1528
Unjust Enrichment
(Tennessee Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20398. Tennessee Class Representative Jeffrey Garrett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20399. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20400. Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

20405. There is no existing, enforceable contract governing this dispute.

20406. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1529
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20407. Tennessee Class Representative Jeffrey Garrett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20408. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20410. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Tenn. Code Ann. §47-2-314.

20414. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

15. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1530
Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20417. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva and Marilyn Abraham incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20418. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20419. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(3).

20420. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

20421. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

20422. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

20423. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

20424. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

20425. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

20427. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

20432. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20433. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20435. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

20436. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1531
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20437. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva and Marilyn Abraham incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20438. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20442. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

20444. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314.

20449. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

20452. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

16. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Virginia-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1533
Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20455. Virginia Class Representative Dan Zhovtis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20456. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20457. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

20458. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

20459. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

20460. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

20461. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

20462. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

20463. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

20469. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

20470. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20471. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20473. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant.

Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

20474. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Virginia CPA.

COUNT 1534
Unjust Enrichment
(Virginia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20475. Virginia Class Representative Dan Zhovtis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20476. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20482. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

20483. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1535
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Va. Code Ann. §8.2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20484. Virginia Class Representative Dan Zhovtis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20485. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20486. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to Virginia Class Representatives and members of the Virginia Class and was in the business of selling such products.

20487. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Va. Code §8.2-314.

20491. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Washington-Perrigo Classes

COUNT 1536
Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20494. Washington Class Representatives Robert Dewitt and Jonathan Ferguson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20495. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20496. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(1).

20497. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

20498. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

20499. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

20500. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20506. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20507. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20509. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

20510. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

COUNT 1537
Unjust Enrichment
(Washington Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo)

20511. Washington Class Representatives Robert Dewitt and Jonathan Ferguson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 53-59, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1169 as though fully set forth herein.

20512. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Perrigo Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Perrigo (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

20527. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

K. Causes of Action Against Strides with Respect to Private-Label Product CVS Health Ranitidine

20530. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Strides, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 63-66 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 1005-1029 (CVS's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1257-1275 (Strides' Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 1030-1040, 1276-1288 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 1041-1055, 1289-1301 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

20531. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Strides on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. Each Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations specific to them from Section II.B., supra, into their respective claims below:

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Strides Classes

COUNT 1539
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20532. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20534. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

20535. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

20536. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

20537. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California UCL. These acts also constitute "fraudulent" business acts and practices under the California UCL in that Defendant's conduct is false, misleading, and has a tendency to deceive the Class and the general public.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

20542. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

20543. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

20544. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400,

111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

20545. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20546. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20548. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plainitffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1540
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20549. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20551. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

20552. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

20553. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20554. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

20559. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20560. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20562. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1541
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20563. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20564. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20565. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

20566. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

20567. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

20568. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

20569. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

20570. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

20576. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20579. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United Stated Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

20580. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

COUNT 1542
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20581. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20583. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

20587. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

20588. Plainitffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1543
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20589. California Class Representative Richard Obrien incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20592. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Cal. Com. Code. §2314.

20596. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Connecticut-Strides Classes

COUNT 1544
Violation of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20599. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20600. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20601. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(3).

20602. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110a(4).

20603. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("Connecticut UTPA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42-110b(a).

20604. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Connecticut UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

20610. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20613. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Connecticut UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Connecticut UTPA.

COUNT 1545
Unjust Enrichment
(Connecticut Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20614. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20615. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20616. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

20617. 20618. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20620. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

20621. Plainitffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. §42a-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20622. Connecticut Class Representative Angel Vega incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20623. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Connecticut-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20629. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Strides Classes

COUNT 1547
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20632. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20633. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20634. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

20635. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

20636. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

20637. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

20638. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

20639. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

20645. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

20646. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20647. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20649. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United Stated Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-399(b) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

20650. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT 1548
Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20651. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20652. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20653. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

20655. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20656. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plainitffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

20657. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

20658. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

20659. Plainitffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1549
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ga. Code Ann. §11-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20660. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20661. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20663. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ga. Code. Ann. §11-2-314.

20667. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Indiana-Strides Classes

COUNT 1550
Unjust Enrichment
(Indiana Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20670. Indiana Class Representative Rebecca Sizemore incorporates the preceding allegaitons in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20671. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Indiana-Strides Class (for the purposes of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20673. In exchange for their payment of the purchase prices of Defenadnt's Raniditine-Containing Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in hight, undisclosied, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

20675. It would be unjust for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

20677. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing the dispute.

Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ind. Code Ann. §26-1-2-314
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20678. Indiana Class Representative Rebecca Sizemore incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20679. This cause of action is brought on behalf of Indiana-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Dr. Reddy's (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20682. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because its products cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

20684. Defendant had reason to know Plaintiffs' and each member of the Class's particular purpose in buying Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products, and knew that Plaintiffs and each member of the Class relied on Defendant's skill or judgment in furnishing appropriate goods that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

20685. Plaintiffs and the Class did, in fact, rely on Defendant's skill and judgment in manufacturing Ranitidine-Containing products that did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels.

20687. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to purchasers of its Ranitidine-Containing Products.

20689. As a result of Defendant's breaches of implied warranties of merchantability, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the law.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Michigan-Strides Classes

COUNT 1552
Violation of the Michigan Consumer Protection Act
(Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.901, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20690. Michigan Class Representative Arthur Gamble incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20691. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20692. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(d).

20693. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.902(1)(g).

20694. The Michigan Consumer Protection Act ("Michigan CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts, or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce." Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1).

20695. The Michigan CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(c));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(e)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising or representing goods or services with intent not to dispose of those goods or services as advertised or represented" (Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. §445.903(1)(g)).

20696. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Michigan CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

20702. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20705. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Michigan CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Michigan CPA.

(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20706. Michigan Class Representative Arthur Gamble incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20707. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Michigan-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20708. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

Products, which included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

20710. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20712. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

COUNT 1555
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20725. Minnesota Class Representative Brad Hoag incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20726. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20727. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

20728. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

20729. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

20730. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20737. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20738. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20740. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

20742. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20743. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

20745. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20747. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts without paying for said benefits, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314

20756. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

7. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Strides Classes

COUNT 1558
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20759. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20760. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20761. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

20762. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

20763. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

20764. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

20765. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the New Mexico UTPA, including:

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

20771. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20772. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20774. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

COUNT 1559
Unjust Enrichment
(New Mexico Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20775. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20776. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20777. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

20779. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20781. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

20782. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

20783. Plainitffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1560
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20784. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20785. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20787. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.M. Stat. Ann. §55-2-314.

completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

20791. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Strides Classes

COUNT 1561
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20795. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20796. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

20797. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

20798. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20804. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20805. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20807. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 1562
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20809. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20810. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

20811. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

20812. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

20813. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20817. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

20819. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20820. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20822. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United Stated Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

20823. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1563
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20825. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20826. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

20828. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20830. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

20831. Plainitffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1564
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20833. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20835. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used,

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314.

20839. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

COUNT 1565
Unjust Enrichment
(Ohio Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20842. Ohio Class Representatives Chris Troyan and Patricia Hess incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20843. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Ohio-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20844. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

20846. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20848. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts without paying for said benefits, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

20849. Plainitffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1566
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ohio Rev. Code Ann. §1302.27)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20850. Ohio Class Representatives Chris Troyan and Patricia Hess incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20851. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Ohio-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20853. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ohio Rev. Code Ann. §1302.27.

20857. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Texas-Strides Classes

COUNT 1567
Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20860. Texas Class Representatives Gregory Alan Wayland and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20861. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20863. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

20864. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

20865. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

20866. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

20867. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

20868. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20869. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Texas DTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

20874. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

20875. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20876. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20878. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United Stated Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

20879. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1568
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20880. Texas Class Representatives Gregory Alan Wayland and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20881. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20882. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

20884. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20885. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plainitffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

20886. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts without paying for said benefits, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

20887. Plainitffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1569
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20888. Texas Class Representatives Gregory Alan Wayland and Marianella Villanueva incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20889. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20891. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314.

20895. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

11. Causes of Action on Behalf of the West Virginia-Strides Classes

Violation of the West Virginia Consumer Credit and Protection Act
(W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20898. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in the paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20899. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20900. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-102(31).

20901. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §§46A-1-102(12) and 46A-6-102(2).

20902. The OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-1-102(21).

20903. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(6).

20904. The West Virginia Consumer Credit and Protection Act ("West Virginia CCPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts of practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-104.

20905. The West Virginia CCPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(E));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(G));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(I));

(d) "[e]ngaging in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(L)); and

(e) "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise or misrepresentation, or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods or services, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby" (W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-6-102(7)(M)).

20906. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the West Virginia CCPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products, including (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

20911. The facts regarding OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products.

20912. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the West Virginia CCPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20913. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding OTC Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20916. As a result of Defendant's violations of the West Virginia CCPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the West Virginia CCPA.

COUNT 1571
Unjust Enrichment
(West Virginia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20917. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in the paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20918. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

20919. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

20921. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20923. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts without paying for said benefits, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

20924. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

20925. Plainitffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1572
Breach of Implied Warranty
(W. Va. Code Ann. §46A-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20926. West Virginia Class Representative Mynetta Hastings incorporates the preceding allegations in the paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1005-1055, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20927. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the West Virginia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product CVS Health Ranitidine.

expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

20933. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

L. Causes of Action Against Strides with Respect to Private-Label Product Rite-Aid Ranitidine

20936. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Strides, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 63-66 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 1056-1066 (Rite Aid's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1257-1275 (Strides' Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 1067-1077, 1276-1288 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 1078-1092, 1289-1301 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

20937. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Strides on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. Each Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations specific to them from Section II.B., supra, into their respective claims below:

COUNT 1573
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20938. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20940. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

20941. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

20942. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

20943. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California UCL. These acts also constitute "fraudulent" business acts and practices under the California UCL in that Defendant's conduct is false, misleading, and has a tendency to deceive the Class and the general public.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

20948. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

20949. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

20950. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400,

111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

20951. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20952. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20954. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plainitffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1574
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20955. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20957. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

20958. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

20959. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20960. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

20965. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

20966. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20968. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1575
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20969. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20971. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

20972. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

20973. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

20974. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

20975. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

20976. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

20982. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

20985. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

20986. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

COUNT 1576
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20987. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20989. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

20991. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

20993. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

20994. Plainitffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1577
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

20995. California Class Representatives Golbenaz Bakhtiar and Richard Obrien incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

20996. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the California-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

20998. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Cal. Com. Code. §2314.

21002. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Kentucky-Strides Classes

COUNT 1578
Violation of the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21005. Kentucky Class Representative Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21006. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

21007. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(1).

21008. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110(2).

21009. The Kentucky Consumer Protection Act ("Kentucky CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair, [unconscionable], false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.170(1)-(2).

21010. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Kentucky CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21016. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21017. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21019. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Kentucky CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Kentucky CPA.

COUNT 1579
Unjust Enrichment
(Kentucky Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21020. Kentucky Class Representative Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21021. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

21022. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

21024. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21025. It would be inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plainitffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

21026. Equity cannot in good conscience permit Defendant to retain the benefits derived from Plainitffs and the Class members through its unjust and unlawful acts without paying for the value thereof, and, therefore, restitution or disgorgement of the amount of their unjust enrichment is required.

21027. Plainitffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1580
Violation of the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act
(Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §367.110, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21028. Kentucky Class Representative Janet Asbury incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 1056-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21029. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Kentucky-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

21031. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. §355.2-314.

21035. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New York-Strides Classes

COUNT 1581
Violation of New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21039. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

21040. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

21041. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

21042. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21048. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21049. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21051. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York DAPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York DAPA.

COUNT 1582
Violation of the New York False Advertising Act
(N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21053. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

21054. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

21055. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

21056. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

21057. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21063. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21064. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plainitffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21066. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

21067. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

COUNT 1583
Unjust Enrichment
(New York Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21069. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

21070. Plainitffs and the Class members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of payment of monies to purchase worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products, or were otherwise in privity with Defendant through said transaction.

21072. Defendant readily accepted and retained these benefits from Plainitffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21075. Plainitffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1584
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21077. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Rite-Aid Ranitidine.

21079. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314.

21083. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

M. Causes of Action Against Strides with Respect to Private-Label Product Walgreens Wal-Zan

21086. For the purposes of the subsequent causes of action against Defendant Strides, Plaintiffs are incorporating the following allegations by reference: paragraphs 63-66 (corporate information); 273-277 (jurisdiction and venue); 304-316, 455-461 (development of generic ranitidine); 317-361 (knowledge that NDMA is carcinogenic); 362-382 (discovery by regulatory agencies that ranitidine contained NDMA); 383-386 (transformation of ranitidine into NDMA); 387-415, 445-456 (knowledge that ranitidine had the potential to transform into NDMA); 416-422 (NDMA formation in organs of the human body); 423-435 (NDMA formation by exposure to heat, moisture and/or time); 436-442 (link between ranitidine exposure and cancer); 462-469 (requirement to notify the FDA of presence of NDMA in ranitidine); 470-474 (compliance with current Good Manufacturing Practices); 912-916, 962-978 (Walgreen's Store-Brand Ranitidine); 1093-1118, 1257-1275 (Strides' Store-Brand contract manufacturing); 979-989, 1276-1288 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in labeling); 990-1004, 1289-1301 (misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in packaging); and 475-483 (equitable tolling).

21087. Plaintiffs identified in the table below bring claims against Defendant Strides on behalf of themselves and their respective State Classes under the laws of their respective states. Each Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations specific to them from Section II.B., supra, into their respective claims below:

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Strides Classes

COUNT 1585
Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21088. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21089. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21091. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

21092. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

21093. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21096. Defendant's misreprsentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a unform manner.

21097. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21099. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

21100. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21101. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21103. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT 1586
Unjust Enrichment
(Arizona Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21104. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21105. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21111. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1587
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ariz. Rev. State. Ann. §47-2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21112. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21113. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21115. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §47-2314.

21119. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

2. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arkansas-Strides Classes

COUNT 1588
Violation of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21122. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21123. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21124. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

21125. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

21126. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

21127. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

21128. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

21129. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Arkansas DTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

21136. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21137. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21139. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 1589
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21140. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21141. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21147. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

21148. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1590
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21149. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21150. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ark. Code. Ann. §4-2-314.

21156. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

3. Causes of Action on Behalf of the California-Strides Classes

COUNT 1591
Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21159. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21161. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17201.

21162. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17200 ("California UCL") prohibits acts of "unfair competition," including any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice" and "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

21163. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California UCL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Further, the gravity of Defendant's conduct outweighs any conceivable benefit of such conduct.

21164. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California UCL. These acts also constitute "fraudulent" business acts and practices under the California UCL in that Defendant's conduct is false, misleading, and has a tendency to deceive the Class and the general public.

21169. Moreover, Defendant engaged in "unlawful" business acts or practices by violating both federal and California laws, including: the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21 C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code §1750; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, as alleged herein.

21170. Defendant conduct also consitutes "unfair" business acts or practies. Under the balancing test, the determination of whether a business practice is "unfair" involves examining the practice's impact on its alleged victim, balanced against the reasons, justifications, and motives of the alleged wrongdoer.

21171. Additionally, Defendant's conduct was "unfair" under the tethering test, in that it violated the federal RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c)-(d); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. §§331(a), (c), (g), 351(a)(2)(B), (b), (d), 352(a)(1), (c), (e)(1)(A)(ii), (f)-(g), (i)(2)-(3), (j), (n), (p); Good Manufacturing Practices, 21

C.F.R. 210.1(a), 211.142(b); adulteration and misbranding provisions under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Laws, Cal. Health & Safety Code §§111260, 111280, 111290, 111295, 111305, 111330, 111345, 111355(a)(3), 111360(b), 111375, 111380, 111395(a)-(b), 111400, 111440, 111445, 111450; the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, see Cal. Civ. Code §1760; and the California FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, which reflect the United States' and California's policy of protecting consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and adulterated and misbranded drugs.

21172. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California UCL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21173. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21175. Pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 and 17203, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution relating to the above-described unfair business acts or practices, and injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate.

COUNT 1592
Violation of the California False Advertising Law
(Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21176. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21178. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "persons" within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17506.

21179. The California False Advertising Law ("California FAL") prohibits "any person, . . . corporation . . . or any employee thereof with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . before the public in this state or from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500.

21180. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California FAL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21181. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the California FAL, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

21183. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

21184. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in

fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21186. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California FAL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21187. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21189. As a result of Defendant's violations of the California FAL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order providing restitution and disgorgement of all profits relating to the above-described business acts or practices, and other appropriate relief, including injunctive and declaratory relief as may be appropriate under the California FAL.

COUNT 1593
Violation of the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act
(Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21190. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar and incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21192. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(c).

21193. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(d).

21194. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §1761(a).

21195. The California Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("California CLRA") prohibits "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or that results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a).

21196. The California CLRA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(7));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(9)); and

(d) "[r]epresenting that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not" (Cal. Civ. Code §1770(a)(16)).

21197. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the California CLRA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

21199. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

21203. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the California CLRA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21205. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs and the Class members, as well as to the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

21206. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1782 to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

21207. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(a), Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding damages and any other just and proper relief available under the California CLRA. Under Cal. Civ. Code §1780(b), Plaintiffs seek an additional award against Defendant of up to $5,000 for each Class member who qualifies as a "senior citizen" or "disabled person" under the California CLRA. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was directed to one or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons. Defendant's conduct caused one or more of these senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer a substantial loss of property set aside for retirement or for personal or family care and maintenance, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person. One or more Class members who are senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable to Defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and each of them suffered substantial economic damage resulting from Defendant's conduct.

COUNT 1594
Unjust Enrichment or Quasi-Contract
(California Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21208. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21215. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1595
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Cal. Com. Code §2314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21216. California Class Representative Golbenaz Bakhtiar incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21219. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Cal. Com. Code. §2314.

21223. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

4. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Colorado-Strides Classes

COUNT 1596
Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21226. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21227. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21228. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

21229. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

21230. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

21231. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21232. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Colorado CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

21238. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21239. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21241. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Colorado CPA.

COUNT 1602
Violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.201, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21291. Florida Class Representative Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21292. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21293. The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(1).

21294. In construing the provisions of the FDUTPA, "due consideration and great weight shall be given to the interpretations of the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts relating to s. 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. s. 45(a)(1) as of July 1, 2017." Fla. Stat. Ann. §501.204(2).

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

21303. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of FDUTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21304. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21306. As a result of Defendant's violations of the FDUTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FDUTPA.

COUNT 1603
Unjust Enrichment
(Florida Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21307. Florida Class Representative Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21308. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21311. Defendant voluntarily accepted and retained these benefits from Plaintiffs and the Class members and knowingly benefitted from its unjust conduct – at Plaintiffs' and the Class members' expense – by selling worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that included expiration dates on the products' labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21312. It is unjust and inequitable for the Defendant to retain these benefits without paying the value thereof because the benefits were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

21314. There is no express written contract governing this dispute.

21315. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1604
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Fla. Stat. Ann. §672.314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21316. Florida Class Representative Ronald Ragis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21317. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Florida-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21319. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Fla. Stat. Ann. §672.314.

21323. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

21327. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21329. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

21330. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

21331. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

21332. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

21333. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive business practices prohibited by the Illinois CFDBPA.

21339. 21340. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21342. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

COUNT 1608
Violation of the Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act
(Iowa Code Ann. §714H.1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21361. Iowa Class Representative Brian Nervig incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21362. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Iowa-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21363. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(7).

21364. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Iowa Code Ann. §714H.2(3).

21365. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa PRACFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale, or lease of consumer merchandise." Iowa Code Ann. §714H.3(1).

21366. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Iowa PRACFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label

Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. Defendant did so with willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others.

21398. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

21399. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

21400. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21407. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21410. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

COUNT 1612
Unjust Enrichment
(Minnesota Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21411. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21412. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21418. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1613
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21419. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21420. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21422. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Minn. Stat. Ann. §336.2-314

21426. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

10. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Strides Classes

COUNT 1614
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21429. New Mexico Class Representative Ernesto Sanchez incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21430. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21431. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

21432. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

21433. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

21434. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

21435. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

21441. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21442. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21444. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21464. Puerto Rico Class Representative Gloria Colon incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21465. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Puerto Rico-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21468. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21482. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21483. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21485. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

21486. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

21487. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

21488. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

21489. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

21490. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

21496. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

21497. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21498. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21500. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

21501. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

COUNT 1620
Unjust Enrichment
(Texas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21502. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21503. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

levels of NDMA as time passed. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

21507. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

21509. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1621
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21510. Texas Class Representative Marianella Villanueva incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21511. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21513. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §2-314.

21517. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21520. Washington Class Representative Jonathan Ferguson incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-916, 962-1004, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21521. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walgreens Wal-Zan.

21523. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

21524. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

21525. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

21526. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21532. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21533. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21535. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

21536. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

1. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Arizona-Strides Classes

Violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act
(Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21558. Arizona Class Representative Tangie Sims incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21559. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arizona-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21561. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1521(5).

21562. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA") prohibits "[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive or unfair act or practice, fraud, … misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale … of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby." Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §44-1522(A).

21563. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arizona CFA by recklessly, wantonly, knowingly, and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21566. Defendant's misreprsentations and omissions regarding the expiration dates of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a unform manner.

21567. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21570. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21571. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21573. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

21581. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

21592. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21593. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21594. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(5).

21595. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-102(4).

21596. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Arkansas DTPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive and unconscionable trade practices." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a).

21597. The Arkansas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[k]nowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services or as to whether goods are original or new or of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(1));

(b) "[a]dvertising the goods or services with the intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(3)); and

(c) "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade" (Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-107(a)(10)).

21598. The Arkansas DTPA also prohibits the following when utilized in connection with the sale or advertisement of any goods: "(1) The act, use, or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense; [or] (2) [t]he concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression, or omission . . . ." Ark. Code Ann. §4-88-108(a).

21599. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Arkansas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21600. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Arkansas DTPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

21603. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21606. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of Arkansas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21607. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21609. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Arkansas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arkansas DTPA.

COUNT 1629
Unjust Enrichment
(Arkansas Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21610. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21611. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21617. There is no valid, legal, and binding contract governing this dispute.

21618. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1630
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ark. Code Ann. §4-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21619. Arkansas Class Representative Tina Culclager incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21620. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Arkansas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21622. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Ark. Code. Ann. §4-2-314.

21626. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Colorado Consumer Protection Act
(Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21629. Colorado Class Representatives Jeffrey Pisano and Ronald Ragan incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21630. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Colorado-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21631. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-102(6).

21632. The Colorado Consumer Protection Act ("Colorado CPA") prohibits unfair, unconscionable, and deceptive acts or practices "in the course of the person's business, vocation, or occupation." Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1).

21633. The Colorado CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly mak[ing] a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods, services, or property" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(b));

(b) "[r]epresent[ing] that goods, food, services, or property are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if he knows or should know that they are of another" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(g));

(c) "[a]dvertis[ing] goods, services, or property with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(i));

(d) "[f]ails to disclose material information concerning goods, services, or property which information was known at the time of an advertisement or sale if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer to enter into a transaction" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(u)); and

(e) "[e]ither knowingly or recklessly engage[ing] in any unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, deliberately misleading, false, or fraudulent act or practice" (Colo. Rev. Stat. Ann. §6-1-105(1)(kkk)).

21634. Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Colorado CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21635. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Colorado CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised;

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce; and

(e) failing to disclose the defective Ranitidine-Containing Products in connection with their sale to the public.

21638. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21641. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Colorado CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21671. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21672. Fla. Stat. Ann. §672.314.

21693. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

5. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Georgia-Strides Classes

COUNT 1637
Violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act
(Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-390, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21696. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21697. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21698. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(24).

21699. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(6).

21700. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" and "commerce" within the meaning of Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-392(a)(28).

21701. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce." Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(a).

21702. The Georgia FBPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-393(b)(9)).

21703. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Georgia FBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

21709. Plaintiffs and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

21710. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21711. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21713. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Ga. Code Ann. §10-1-399(b) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

21714. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Georgia FBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT 1638
Unjust Enrichment
(Georgia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21715. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21716. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21720. It is inequitable and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

21722. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

21723. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1639
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Ga. Code Ann. §11-2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21724. Georgia Class Representative Kathy Jeffries incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21725. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Georgia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21731. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

because, had they been aware of the unmerchantable condition of Ranitidine-Containing Products, they would not have purchased such drugs.

6. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Illinois-Strides Classes

COUNT 1640
Violation of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act
(815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21734. Illinois Class Representatives Carol Harkins and Vickie Anderson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21735. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Illinois-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21737. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "consumer[s]" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(e).

21738. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(b).

21739. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" and "commerce" within the meaning of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/1(f).

21740. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act ("Illinois CFDBPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including, but not limited to, the use or employment of any deception fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact, or the use or employment of any practice described in Section 2 of the 'Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act' [815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 510/2], approved August 5, 1965, in the conduct of any trade or commerce." 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 505/2.

21741. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Illinois CFDBPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21745. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21747. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21748. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21750. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Illinois CFDBPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Illinois CFDBPA.

21756. It violates the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience for the Defendant to retain these benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

Violation of the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law
(La. Stat. Ann. §51:1401, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21769. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21770. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21771. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(8).

21772. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(1).

21773. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Stat. Ann. §51:1402(10).

21774. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Louisiana CPL") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." La. Stat. Ann. §51:1405(A).

21775. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Louisiana CPL by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21779. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

21781. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

21782. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21783. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21785. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Louisiana CPL, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Louisiana CPL.

21791. Defendants' enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs for the Ranitidine Containing-Drugs – was the result of Plaintiffs' impoverishment – the receipt by Plaintiffs of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

21794. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1645
Breach of Implied Warranty
(La. Stat. Ann. Art. §2520)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21795. Louisiana Class Representative Randy Jones incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21796. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Louisiana-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21802. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

8. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Massachusetts-Strides Classes

COUNT 1646
Violation of the Deceptive Acts or Practices Prohibited by Massachusetts Law
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93a, §1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21805. Massachussetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21806. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21807. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(a).

21808. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §1(b).

21809. The Massachusetts consumer protection law ("Massachusetts Act") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §2(a).

21810. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Massachusetts Act by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21814. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21816. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21819. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Mass. Gen. Laws Ann. ch. 93A, §9(3) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

21820. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Massachusetts Act, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

COUNT 1647
Unjust Enrichment
(Massachusetts Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21821. Massachussetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21822. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21826. Defendant's enrichment – the monies obtained from Plaintiffs' and Class members' purchases of Ranitidine-Containing Products – was the result of Plaintiffs' and Class members' impoverishment – i.e., Plaintiffs' and Class members' receipt of worthless Ranitidine-Containing Products that were unsafe and unfit for human consumption.

21829. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1648
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Mass. Gen. Laws Ch. 106 §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21830. Massachussetts Class Representative Jennifer Bond incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21831. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Massachusetts-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

21835. Defendant's Ranitidine-Containing Products are not fit for their intended use – or any use – because they have dangerous propensities when used as intended or within their expiration dates on the labels, and their use carries an increased risk of developing cancer.

21837. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

9. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Minnesota-Strides Classes

COUNT 1649
Violation of the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act
(Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21840. Minnesota Class Representative Sandra Erickson-Brown incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21841. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Minnesota-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21842. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(3).

21843. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[m]erchandise" within the meaning of Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.68(2).

21844. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act ("Minnesota CFA") prohibits "act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged." Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69(1). Prohibited practices include: (i) deceptive practices concerning the quality of goods or services pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.44; (ii) fraud in connection with the sale of any merchandise pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325F.69; and (iii) misrepresentation of product ingredients or quality pursuant to Minn. Stat. Ann. §325D.13.

21845. In the course of its business, Defendant, through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Minnesota CFA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21849. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21850. The facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products that Defendant knowingly and intentionally misrepresented, omitted, concealed, and failed to disclose would be considered material by a reasonable consumer, and they were, in fact, material to Plaintiffs and the Class members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

21851. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

21852. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21853. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21855. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Minnesota CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

21896. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1(c).

21897. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act ("New Jersey CFA") by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed. N.J. Stat. Ann. §56:8-1, et seq.

21898. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the New Jersey CFA.

21899. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

21901. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21903. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21904. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21906. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Jersey CFA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Jersey CFA.

COUNT 1655
Unjust Enrichment
(New Jersey)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21907. New Jersey Class Representative James Adamo incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21908. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21914. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1656
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.J. Stat. Ann. §12A:2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21915. New Jersey Class Representative James Adamo incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21916. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Jersey-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21922. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

12. Causes of Action on Behalf of the New Mexico-Strides Classes

COUNT 1657
Violation of the New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act
(N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-1, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21925. New Mexico Class Representatives Ernesto Sanchez, Carrie Martinez, and George Tapia incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

21926. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New Mexico-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21927. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(A).

21928. Defendant was and is engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(C).

21929. The New Mexico Unfair Trade Practices Act ("New Mexico UTPA") makes unlawful "a false or misleading oral or written statement, visual description or other representation of any kind knowingly made in connection with the sale, lease, rental or loan of goods or services . . . by a person in the regular course of the person's trade or commerce, that may, tends to or does deceive or mislead any person." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D). The New Mexico UTPA also makes unlawful "an act or practice in connection with the sale, lease, rental, or loan, or in connection with the offering for sale, lease, rental or loan, of any goods or services, . . . that to a person's detriment: (1) takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity of a person to a grossly unfair degree; or (2) results in a gross disparity between the value received by a person and the price paid." N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(E).

21930. The New Mexico UTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits or quantities that they do not have" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model if they are of another" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(7)); and

(c) "using exaggeration, innuendo or ambiguity as to a material fact . . . if doing so deceives or tends to deceive" (N.M. Stat. Ann. §57-12-2(D)(14)).

21931. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New Mexico UTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) using exaggeration and/or failing to state the material facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products in a manner that tended to deceive; and

(d) acting in a manner that resulted in a gross disparity between the true value of the Ranitidine-Containing Products and the price paid.

21935. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21937. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and

proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21938. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21940. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New Mexico UTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New Mexico UTPA.

21961. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21962. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "person[s]" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(h). Defendant is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(b).

21963. The New York Deceptive Acts and Practices Act ("New York DAPA") prohibits "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §349(a).

21964. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York DAPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21968. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21969. (Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21975. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21976. Defendant was and is engaged in "conduct of business, trade or commerce" within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350.

21977. The New York False Advertising Act ("New York FAA") prohibits "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350. False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of . . . representations [made] with respect to the commodity." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §350-a(1).

21978. Defendant caused to be made or disseminated through New York and the United States, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Defendant, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members.

21979. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the New York FAA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

21983. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

21985. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the New York FAA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

21986. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

21988. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

21989. As a result of Defendant's violations of the New York FAA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the New York Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the New York FAA.

(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21991. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

21997. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1663
Breach of Implied Warranty
(N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

21999. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the New York-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

22000. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to New York Class Representatives and members of the New York Class and was in the business of selling such products.

22001. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used,

including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. N.Y. U.C.C. Law §2-314.

22002. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

22005. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

14. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Tennessee-Strides Classes

COUNT 1664
Violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977
(Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-101, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

22008. Tennessee Class Representative Jeffrey Garrett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

22009. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

22010. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(14).

22011. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(3).

22012. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(8).

22013. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" or "consumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-103(20).

22014. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act of 1977 ("Tennessee CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(a).

22015. The Tennessee CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[r]epresenting that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(5));

(b) "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(7)); and

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tenn. Code Ann. §47-18-104(b)(9)).

22016. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Tennessee CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

22017. Specifically, by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products, as detailed above, Defendant engaged in one or more unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, in violation of the Tennessee CPA, including:

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

22020. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

22022. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

22023. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

22025. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Tennessee CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Tennessee CPA.

COUNT 1665
Unjust Enrichment
(Tennessee Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

22026. Tennessee Class Representative Jeffrey Garrett incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

22027. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Tennessee-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

22033. There is no existing, enforceable contract governing this dispute.

22034. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

Tenn. Code Ann. §47-2-314.

22039. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

22042. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

Violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act
(Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.41, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

22045. Texas Class Representatives Marianella Villanueva and Marilyn Abraham incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

22046. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Texas-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

22048. Plaintiffs and the Class members are "[c]onsumer[s]" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(4).

22049. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(1).

22050. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.45(6).

22051. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act ("Texas DTPA") prohibits "[f]alse, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce," Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(a), and an "[u]nconscionable action or course of action," which means "an act or practice which, to a consumer's detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §§17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

22052. The Texas DTPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(5));

(b) "representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(7)); and

(c) "advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised" (Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.46(9)).

22053. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Texas DTPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; and

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised.

22055. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

22057. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

22060. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

22061. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

22063. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code Ann. §17.505(a) to Defendant. Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

22064. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Texas DTPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Class members conferred a financial benefit on Defendants but did not receive their expected benefit therefrom.

22070. It is unjust and unconscionable for the Defendant to retain these wrongly secured benefits because they were attained by misrepresenting and fraudulently concealing the true facts concerning the Ranitidine-Containing Products from Plaintiffs and the Class members, who would not have purchased the medications at all, but for the Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions.

22072. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law, nor is there an express contract governing this dispute.

COUNT 1670
Violation of the Virginia Consumer Protection Act
(Va. Code Ann. §59.1-196, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

22083. Virginia Class Representative Dan Zhovtis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

22084. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

22085. Defendant, Plaintiffs, and the Class members are "[p]erson[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

22086. Defendant was and is a "[s]upplier" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

22087. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[g]oods" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

22088. Defendant was and is engaged in "[c]onsumer transaction[s]" within the meaning of Va. Code Ann. §59.1-198.

22089. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act ("Virginia CPA") prohibits "fraudulent acts or practices committed by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction." Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A).

22090. The Virginia CPA makes unlawful specific acts, including:

(a) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(5));

(b) "[m]isrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(6));

(c) "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised, or with intent not to sell at the price or upon the terms advertised" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(8)); and

(d) "[u]sing any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction" (Va. Code Ann. §59.1-200(A)(14)).

22091. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Virginia CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

(a) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have;

(b) representing that the Ranitidine-Containing Products are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not;

(c) advertising the Ranitidine-Containing Products with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and

(d) engaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce.

22093. Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions regarding the inherently defective and unreasonably dangerous nature of Ranitidine-Containing Products were disseminated to Plaintiffs and the Class members in a uniform manner.

22095. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

members, who consider such facts to be important to their purchase decisions with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products.

22097. Plaintiffs and the Class members relied on Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products by purchasing and continuing to purchase Ranitidine-Containing Products after Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, and concealments were made.

22098. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

22099. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

22101. Defendant was provided notice of the issues raised in this Count and this Complaint by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") investigations, the numerous complaints filed against it, and the many individual notice letters sent by Plaintiffs within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of Ranitidine-Containing Products' defects became public. In addition, on May 21, 2020, Plaintiffs in MDL 2924 sent a notice letter to Defendant.

Because Defendant failed to adequately remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled.

22102. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Virginia CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Virginia CPA.

COUNT 1671
Unjust Enrichment
(Virginia Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

22103. Virginia Class Representative Dan Zhovtis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

22104. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

22110. There is no express contract governing this dispute.

22111. Plaintiffs and the Class members do not have an adequate remedy at law.

COUNT 1672
Breach of Implied Warranty
(Va. Code Ann. §8.2-314)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

22112. Virginia Class Representative Dan Zhovtis incorporates the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

22113. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Virginia-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

22114. At all relevant times, Defendant was a merchant with respect to Ranitidine-Containing Products which were sold to Virginia Class Representatives and members of the Virginia Class and was in the business of selling such products.

22115. Each Ranitidine-Containing Product sold by Defendant comes with an implied warranty that it will be merchantable and fit for the ordinary purpose for which it would be used, including impliedly warrantying on the labels for its Ranitidine-Containing Products that the products were safe and/or did not cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels. Va. Code §8.2-314.

22116. Defendant breached its implied warranty of merchantability because the products it manufactured for PLDs cause cancer or cause an unreasonable risk of cancer if used within the expiration dates on its labels, or used in the quantities packaged which were not likely to be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date.

22119. Further, Plaintiffs and each member of the Class were the intended third-party beneficiaries of the implied warranties made by Defendant to the PLDs for which it manufactured private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products.

17. Causes of Action on Behalf of the Washington-Strides Classes

COUNT 1673
Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act
(Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010, et seq.)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

22122. Washington Class Representatives Robert Dewitt and Jonathan Ferguson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

22123. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

22125. The Ranitidine-Containing Products are "[a]ssets" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(3).

22126. Defendant was and is engaged in "[t]rade" or "commerce" within the meaning of Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.010(2).

22127. The Washington Consumer Protection Act ("Washington CPA") prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §19.86.020.

22128. In the course of its business, Defendant, directly or through its agents, employees, and/or subsidiaries, violated the Washington CPA by knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting, omitting, concealing, and failing to disclose material facts on the labels for the private-label Ranitidine-Containing Products it manufactured, including by (i) packaging quantities of tablets in bottles greater than could be used completely and stored properly by the expiration date, particularly when the expiration date on the label was extended beyond a safe and appropriate date; and (ii) printing expiration dates on its labels that exceeded the time period during which the products remained stable and, thus, resulting in higher, undisclosed, and unsafe levels of NDMA as time passed.

22132. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices, inlcuding its misrepresentations, concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, as alleged herein, had a tendency or capacity to mislead and create a false impression in consumers' minds, and were likely to and, in fact, did deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the Class members, about the safety of Ranitidine-Containing Products if used within the expiration dates.

22134. Plaintiffs and the Class members were aggrieved by Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA because they suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's knowing and intentional misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts as set forth above.

22135. Specifically, Plaintiffs and the Class members were deceived by Defendant's misrepresentations, omissions, concealments, and failures to disclose material facts regarding Ranitidine-Containing Products. Had Defendant not engaged in the deceptive acts and practices alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members would not have purchased the drug, and, thus, they did not receive the benefit of the bargain and/or suffered out-of-pocket loss.

22137. On June 22, 2020, Plaintiffs in In re Zantac (Ranitidine) Products Liability Litigation, No. 9:20-md-02924-RLR (S.D. Fla.) ("MDL 2924") sent a notice letter pursuant to Wash. Rev. Code §19.86.095 to the Attorney General of the State of Washington.

22138. As a result of Defendant's violations of the Washington CPA, as alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Class members seek an order enjoining Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices and awarding actual damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Washington CPA.

COUNT 1674
Unjust Enrichment
(Washington Law)
(Against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides)

22139. Washington Class Representatives Robert Dewitt and Jonathan Ferguson incorporate the preceding allegations in paragraphs 63-66, 273-277, 304-442, 445-483, 912-961, 1093-1118, and 1257-1301 as though fully set forth herein.

22140. This cause of action is brought on behalf of the Washington-Strides Class (for the purpose of this section, "Class") against Store-Brand Manufacturer Defendant Strides (for purposes of this Count only, "Defendant") with respect to private-label product Walmart Equate Ranitidine.

XIII. PRAYER FOR RELIEF

Plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and the proposed Classes, respectfully request that the Court:

A. Determine that this action may be maintained as a class action pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a), (b)(2)-(3), and/or (c)(4), direct that reasonable notice of this action be given to the Classes, appoint Plaintiffs as named representatives of the Classes, and appoint Plaintiffs' counsel as Class Counsel;

B. Require Defendants to pay for sending notice to the certified Classes;

C. Enter judgment against Defendants and in favor of Plaintiffs and the Classes;

D. Award damages (including actual, nominal, trebled, presumed, and statutory damages as provided by law) and restitution to the Classes in an amount to be determined at trial, plus pre- and post-judgment interest, in accordance with law;

E. Award punitive damages based on Defendants' conduct,

F. Order disgorgement of Defendants' profits;

G. Award reasonable attorneys' fees and costs; and,

H. For all such further relief as may be just and proper.

XIV. JURY DEMAND

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 38, Plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and the Class(es), demand a trial by jury on all issues so triable.
